Mayor Submits Transit Settlement

OUTLINES PLAN FOR 157 MILLION UNIFICATION JOB

Program Offers Way to End Tangle.

TRACTION PLANS.

Details of Mayor Kelly's plan to unify Chicago's transportation systems are illustrated by maps and drawings appearing on the back page. These maps trace transit changes in the city as a whole, subways in the loop, bus stations for elevated highways, and the method of coördinating the superhighway system.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Mayor Kelly made public yesterday what transit experts called the first concrete, financially practical plan for solution of Chicago's ancient local transportation problem. The plan calls for a total expenditure of 157 million dollars over a nine year period, 58 million to be invested by the public and approximately 99 million by the company.

The plan is of wide scope, providing for unification and modernization of all transit facilities, a downtown subway for the north and south elevated lines, conversion of two west side elevated lines into elevated superhighways, and the construction of two street car subways to take all east-west side car lines off the surface in the loop.

Permits "L" Loop Change.

The construction work would require six years, with the major part being completed in four.

Mayor Kelly's plan, embracing financial as well as physical features, was placed before the city council's local transportation committee yesterday. He will present it formally today to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson [who has jurisdiction of receivership proceedings involving the elevated and surface lines] at a hearing called by the court to clarify all phases of the transit situation concerning unification of the elevated and surface systems. Mayor Kelly conferred an hour with Judge Wilkerson yesterday afternoon.

Kelly's Principal Proposals.

1 A two-track subway for the north and south side elevated lines, starting at Franklin street and Chicago avenue and running under Chicago avenue and State street south to Roosevelt road. Two east and west street car subways, one under Washington street from Des Plaines street to Grant park, and the other under Jackson street from the river to Grant park. Both would loop beneath the surface in Grant park.

2. A 20 mile system of elevated highways to the west side for express buses and private cars, chiefly through conversion of the Douglas park, Lake street, Logan square, and Humboldt park elevated railway structures. Approximately three miles of new structure would be built to coördinate these lines.

3. Improvement of the Garfield park and north and south side lines of the elevated and modernization of their equipment. Modernization and extension of surface facilities combining street cars, trolley coaches, and buses, and the installation of a system of express bus routes to give faster service to sections not served by rapid transit lines.

4. Construction of underground facilities in Grant park for the daytime storage of extra cars and buses needed only in the morning and evening rush hours, to relieve congestion caused by returning empty vehicles.

5 Coördination of transit facilities with suburban railroads to make available faster service to those living in outlying sections and later inclusion, if desirable, of metropolitan areas outside Chicago in the unified operation.

Superhighways Public Job.

In a discussion of financial features of the plan, Mayor Kelly asserted that the construction of superhigh-

Prof. Lauer of N. U. Vanishes Mysteriously

The strange disappearance of a popular Northwestern university professor, known for his pronounced liberal views, gave Evanston and Chicago police a baffling mystery last night.

Prof. Ernest Lauer.

The missing man is Ernest Lauer, associate professor of history. After attending a morning class Monday Prof. Lauer, who is 51 years old, drew $25 from a bank and vanished.

Misses Business Engagement.

He cut an afternoon class and failed to keep an appointment with his wife, Oretta, at 4 o'clock in the Evanston office of a real estate firm to sign a contract for the purchase of a home in the suburb. The Lauers live in a modest apartment at 918 Noyes street, Evanston.

When he did not appear Mrs. Lauer telephoned his university associates. None had seen him since his morning class. At 9 o'clock in the evening, after receiving a puzzling telephone call from a woman, Mrs. Lauer notified Evanston police.

Laughs and Hangs Up.

The woman who telephoned, Mrs. Lauer told Lieut. Carl Ekman of the Evanston police, gave the name of Miss Herman and asked whether the professor was home. When told he was not, the woman laughed and hung up.

Mrs. Lauer told the police she could think of no reason for her husband's disappearance. They have been married for more than twenty years, she said, having met in a small Iowa town where he was reared after being brought to the United States from Germany as a baby.

She said their home life was pleasant and that Prof. Lauer had no financial worries. Prof. Isaac J. Cox, head of the history department, said that, although Prof. Lauer seemed moody at times, he always appeared to be self-possessed and well poised.

Prof. Lauer formerly suffered from neuralgia and sinus trouble, often when working long hours on research, Mrs. Lauer recalled, but recently he had enjoyed good health.

Prof. Lauer is about 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighs 190 pounds, has black graying hair and brown eyes, and his square face is heavily lined. He was wearing a gray topcoat, and as usual was hatless.

Strong Critic of Nazis.

Both publicly and in private Prof. Lauer had expressed strong anti-Nazi sentiments, the last time at a lecture Wednesday night.

While under fire for expounding doctrins of atheism, Prof. Lauer resigned from the university staf in 1927, after having been a membei since 1918. The following fall, however, he rejoined the faculty.

A graduate of Iowa Wesleyan university and the Garrett Biblical institute, he preached for a few years before continuing graduate work at Northwestern and Harvard universities and the University of Chicago.

IN WHICH A HOLDUP MAN TRIES TO GET BLOOD FROM A TURNIP

Edgar, Neb., Oct. 19.—(AP)—W. P. Hiebenthal, assistant receiver of two state banks which failed here, looked up from his work today as a pistol jammed against his ribs.

"This," the gunman announced, "is a stickup."

"O, no it isn't,' said Hiebenthal.

He then tried to explain the bank was defunct and had no money, but the robber became threatening. Hiebenthal reached into his pocket for a $10 bill, which he gave the man.

Then the robber locked Hiebenthal in an empty vault and left. Hiebenthal freed himself in an hour and called officers.

INVENTS GLASS TO KEEP A HEAD ON BEER DRINK

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A glass perfected by S. Peter Barracca, professor of chemistry at St. John's university, Brooklyn, should eliminate, tests indicated today, that plaintive plea so often heard, "bartender, put a head on this."

The process consists of sand-blasting, in any desired design, a certain portion of the bottom of the container, in a size proportionate to the capacity of the glass, so that the gas bubbles in the liquid do not escape all at once, as they do in ordinary containers, but escape gradually as they come in contact with the roughened portion.

Two Shot by Assassins; One Dead, 1 Dying

Assassins killed one man and probably fatally wounded another in two spectacular shootings in Chicago late last night. The man slain is Joseph Locascio, 27 years old, a robbery suspect, released on bond less than two weeks ago. The wounded man is John White, 36 years old, an organizer for the United Automobile Workers of America, a C. I. O. union.

Locascio, who lived at 3002 South Wells street, was shot down by two masked men as he played pinochle with three other men in a delicatessen at 3020 South Wells street. The assassins fired eight bullets into his body, then turned and fled.

Second Shooting Near Tavern.

White was shot as he left a tavern at 5961 Grand avenue with three other men who accompanied him there after he had attended a union meeting in the U. A. W. A. hall at 5948 Grand avenue. His three companions put him in his automobile and took him to the Danish-American hospital.

"This man got shot," they told the policeman on duty at the hospital. "We'll be right back." The trio disappeared as White was being taken to an operating room. Three bullets entered his chest and stomach. Police began a search for a fellow C. I. O. organizer named by White as his assailant.

Seek Motive in Robbery Cases.

Police started looking into the robbery cases against Locascio in an effort to solve his murder. He was arrested on Sept. 30 in the Pullman State bank by police, who said they had reason to suspect that he was spotting prospective holdup victims as they left the bank with large sums of money.

Judge Robert J. Dunne in Criminal court released Locascio on a writ of habeas corpus on Oct. 2, but he was rearrested several days later and was booked on charges of robbery and accessory to robbery. He was to have been arraigned on Oct. 27 in the Felony court.

Three See Shooting.

There were three witnesses of the murder—Joseph Bakotich and Anton Perisin, owners of the delicatessen, and John Kaliterna, the janitor. They gave the Pekin Inn police the names of three men with whom Locascio was playing cards when the gunmen entered.

Both assassins wore handkerchiefs tied around their faces, the witnesses

Topeka, Kas., Oct. 19. [Special.]—Alf M. Landon called upon the Republicans of the nation tonight to deny President Roosevelt the constantly increasing power he demands and force him to take the advice and counsel of other men of both parties.

"Mr. Roosevelt is a changed man," Mr. Landon declared. "He is not the man who was elected in 1932. The time has come when we must change our methods in Washington."

The Republican presidential nominee of 1936 laid the blame for lagging progress during the last four and half years directly at the door of Mr. Roosevelt. He declared that had it not been for the President's "failure as an administrator" and his failure to follow the constitution, this country would have made many times the progress it has.

Explains Previous Silence.

Mr. Landon spoke over a nationwide network to a "radio meeting" of the 17,000,000 who voted for him in the last election. He told his huge audience he had called this unusual meeting to suggest ways and means by which "we, the minority party," can be of outstanding service to the country.

Mr. Landon disclosed that he had received hundreds of thousands of letters inquiring why he had remained silent so long in the face of gathering storm clouds.

He said he had felt it his patriotic duty to do nothing that would give any one an opportunity to make a partisan issue out of the crises through which the nation was passing. "But now the time has come to act," he asserted.

Referring to the war talk that has swept the nation since the President's Chicago speech on "international peace," Mr. Landon asked: "How far does he intend to go?"

Cites Perils in Situation.

"We are faced with a situation where he may make a mistake that would indeed be tragic, that might lead to war," he said. "Close observers have increasing doubt if he thought his recent declaration through to its logical conclusion.

"Congress adopted a neutrality act at the last session. The President took it upon himself to repeal the principle of the act. Now the job for congress will be to decide whether the President's own policy is to be followed or whether we are to adhere to the policies which the last congress adopted."

The Republican leader said Roosevelt wasted practically the entire session of the 1937 congress "fighting for more power for himself" while important legislation waited. And now the President's first demand is for more power in his call for a special session, the speaker added.

Pleads for Less Power.

"What he really needs is less power," Mr. Landon earnestly pleaded, "a position that will force him to take the advice and counsel of other men of both parties—men whose hearts also are in the right place, but men who have had more experience and who know more about the practical application of government than he does."

Mr. Landon said he agreed with a recent statement of the President that progress lags in this country. He expressed the opinion that every one concurs on that point. The significant thing is WHY does it lag, he said.

"The President has said we must accept one of two alternatives," he declared. "We must take his personal form of government—we must give him more and more power.

"One Man Government."

"We must coerce congress. We must submerge the Supreme court. We must strike down any one who raises a voice of objection to the way he does things.

"We must do all these things or else go back to the old order of things—back to the manipulation by 'malefactors of great wealth,' back to sweat shops, back to starvation wages.

"Of course if people believe we must have either a one man government or social and economic chaos, there is no question as to what their choice is going to be."

The speaker said that the manner in which Mr. Roosevelt puts the question reminded him of the classic

OVER 7 MILLION SHARES TRADED; MOST SINCE '33

BY WILLIAM YATES.

The stock market was plunged into wild confusion yesterday as an avalanche of selling orders, forced by the drastic decline of Monday, poured into the New York Stock exchange and other securities markets of the nation. Prices slumped and rallied in bewildering fashion.

Many leading issues lost as much as $15 a share during the morning before a sustained rally got under way. Some stocks recouped all of their declines and finished above the preceding day's close. Others recovered in part.

It was a day of records. Volume on the New York Stock exchange soared to 7,287,990 shares, the highest since July 21, 1933. A total of 1,045 issues changed hands, the largest for any single session in the exchange's history.

Many Issues Show Losses.

Only 189 issues closed higher; 744 finished below Monday and 112 were unchanged. No new highs for the year were recorded but 928 registered new lows.

[An analysis of the causes underlying the recent slump in stocks by Howard Wood, financial editor, appears on the financial pages of today's Tribune.]

So great was the confusion on the New York exchange that brokers filled orders with extreme difficulty. The high speed quotation ticker lagged behind actual transactions on the trading floor most of the session, at one time falling 22 minutes behind.

Shouting brokers at Broad and Wall streets, where the exchange is located, could be heard a block away. Scurrying messengers hurried in and out of the building in endless file. Thousands of spectators attempted to jam the visitors' gallery.

Prices Range Widely.

Wide swings in price marked the action of trading favorites, although the hysteria which was shown during the first two hours of trading seemed to ebb shortly before noon, when investment trusts and other "bargain hunters" started to buy shares in large quantities.

Chrysler dropped $10 a share in the first hour of trading, but came back to $61, which was only $1.25 a share below Monday's finish. United States Steel closed 62½ cents higher at $62.12½ after having been $7 lower. Allied Chemical and Dye fell $11, then recovered all except $2 of its loss. American Telephone finished $2 lower at $147 after an extreme plunge of $7. General Motors fell $5 during midmorning but closed $2.25 higher at $38.25.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will return to Washington tomorrow to face the most serious crisis of his administration since the bank panic of 1933.

With the stock market yesterday again engaging in a nervous frenzy of trading, the grain market weakening, business activity falling off, and the current treasury deficit increasing, the Roosevelt economic and financial policies are under fire as never before.

Administration officials are running around in circles, surveying the crisis and discussing what to do about it, but all the time waiting for the President to tell them what to do. Being, in fact, the government, Mr. Roosevelt is looked to by officialdom to deal effectively tomorrow with the situation threatening a setback in national recovery and a general discrediting of Roosevelt policies.

Appropriate Opportunity.

It happens that fate has provided an appropriate opportunity for the President to tell the country tomorrow what, if anything, he purposes to do about a critical situation that is being viewed by business men everywhere with increasing anxiety. He is to make a speech at the dedication of the new building of the federal reserve board, the governmental agency that undertakes to stabilize financial conditions and to prevent stock trading excesses.

Politically the gravity of the crisis confronting the President can scarcely be exaggerated. The recession in business has disclosed a rapidly spreading lack of confidence in the Roosevelt innovations in government. It has also disclosed a weakening in confidence in the Roosevelt policies right in the Roosevelt official family.

Blame Tax Program.

More than one member of the cabinet itself is known to share the views of Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and of Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the maritime commission, that the Roosevelt tax program, particularly the undistributed earnings tax, has checked recovery, and to echo the latter's frank utterance "that taxation should not be allowed to paralyze the profit system."

Those Democratic leaders who fear that the jig is up with the Roosevelt economic experiments and that the political pendulum is about to swing the other way were in an "I told you so" frame of mind today on receipt of the news from Arkansas that Gov. Carl E. Bailey, running for the senate on a platform of 100 per cent support of the President, was decisively defeated by Representative John E. Miller [D., Ark.], who opposed the President on the court packing and the wage and hour bills.

Faces Battle with Congress.

Coming on the eve of the extraordinary session of congress called by the President to pass crop control, wage and hour and other legislation affecting private enterprise, the economic upset is regarded as certain to influence profoundly the consideration of these measures. The Roosevelt economics will be attacked with increased vigor as dangerous quack panaceas. To get his program through congress under present conditions is likely to tax the President's political power and resourcefulness to the limit.

The President is beset by conflicting advice among his followers. There are those, like Messrs. Jones and Kennedy, who urge him to abandon the restrictive policies that, as they view it, have chilled private enterprise. Then there are those who view the stock market slump as a conspiracy of economic royalists and urge the President to crack down on the conspirators.

Urge Presidential Action.

Both Representative John O'Connor [D., N. Y.] and Representative A. J. Sabath, [D., Ill.] urged action today to encourage stock buying and discourage short selling of stocks. In a telegram to the President Mr. Sabath said:

"The Wall street conspiracy is causing consternation. Strong measures must be taken against them immediately to save the nation from

Aroused by Crash

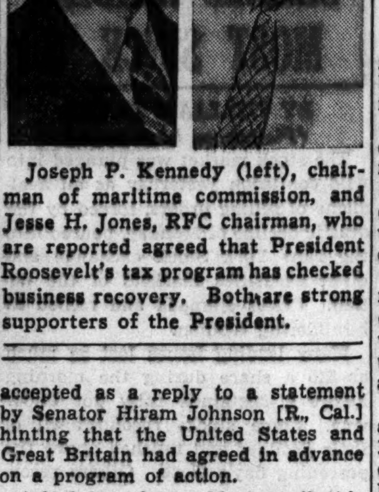
Representative John O'Connor (D., N. Y.) urged federal reserve board action yesterday to encourage stock buying and to discourage short selling of stock.



Joseph P. Kennedy (left), chairman of maritime commission, and Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, who are reported agreed that President Roosevelt's tax program has checked business recovery. Both are strong supporters of the President.

a recurrence of the 1929 debacle. Just been informed that some bankers and brokers are advising people to sell their securities before it is too late and I again urge firm steps be taken immediately to frustrate their diabolical plan."

Wires Reserve Board.

Congressman O'Connor wired the federal reserve board the following.

"Respectfully suggest something should be done at once in reference to situation in securities markets. The margins required for purchases should be considerably lowered and short sales should be stopped or the margin greatly increased."

To the governors of the New York Stock exchange Mr. O'Connor telegraphed:

"You should clean your house first, rather than passing the buck to the administration. The first thing you should do is either stop all short sales or require the short gamblers to put up as much margin as the legitimate buyers."

Reserve Board in Session.

The federal reserve board was in session, discussing the market slump, when the O'Connor message was received. The board has the power to raise or lower margins in stock market trading. After the meeting a reserve board official said that the board would not take any action on margins, "unless conditions warant—and they do not seem to at present."

It was no secret in the purlieus of both these agencies of government that they are waiting for a cue from the President before hazarding any action on their own initiative in a matter affecting the fate of the Roosevelt policies and the political fortunes of the President.

NEW BUDGET PLEDGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—In the face of the jitters of the stock market President Roosevelt today coolly reiterated that he will have a balanced budget in the fiscal year which will begin next July 1.

The President pulled his cigaret from his lips and said he will balance the budget without an increase in taxes. He defended the statement when he was reminded that he had promised to balance the budget for the present fiscal year and only yesterday had been forced to admit that his measurement of the federal deficit and the income from taxes was too low.

Uninterested in Wall Street.

Mr. Roosevelt outwardly manifested a complete lack of interest in the plight of Wall street at a press conference. It was learned from an authoritative source that despite inward concern he has no intention of exercising his emergency authority to close the stock exchanges. This suggestion was given him as the market tumbled and was extended even though there was a rally today.

The most serious domestic problem took more of his attention than international matters even though the day had been set aside for consideration of world affairs.

The two official callers of the day were Norman Davis, Mr. Roosevelt's ambassador at large who was appointed within the week to represent this country at the deliberations of the signatories of the nine power pact on the Sino-Japanese conflict, and William E. Dodd, ambassador to Germany.

The President asserted that America would enter the nine power conference "without any commitments on the part of this government to other governments."

Seen as Johnson Reply.

The statement, issued after the conference with Davis, was generally accepted as a reply to a statement by Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.] hinting that the United States and Great Britain had agreed in advance on a program of action.

Asked how he could reconcile his promise to balance the budget in the next fiscal year with his revision of the budget estimates for the present year, which showed a decrease in revenue and an increase in expenditures, Mr. Roosevelt told the questioner he should be fair and take into account uncontemplated increases in the cost of running the government.

Mr. Roosevelt's special left Hyde Park at 10 p. m. Chicago time and was scheduled to bring the President into the White House tomorrow morning. He will return to his family home by daylight Saturday and remain ten days over the New York election.

Gorilla to Get Health Test Before He Gets Two Mates

It looks as if Miss Congo and Miss Suzette, gorillas at the Chicago Zoölogical park at Brookfield, are going to settle down to housekeeping pretty soon. Edward H. Bean, zoo director, was in New York yesterday to purchase a healthy husband. The gorilla first will be examined by a physician to determine his fitness for a 30 day trial. Zoo officials said no trouble is expected between Congo and Suzette over their lone mate because the male gorilla usually has four or five mates in his native state.

FIGHTS TO KEEP BLACK FROM THE TELEGRAM CASE

'Prejudiced,' Says Lawyer in Seizure Hearing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The first accusation of prejudice against Justice Hugo L. Black, former Ku Klux Klansman whom President Roosevelt put in the Supreme court, was made today by counsel in a suit against the Securities and Exchange commission involving the wholesale seizure of private telegrams. With Black participating in the consideration of the case, the Supreme court yesterday refused to review a lower court decision upholding the SEC.

Attorney William C. Pierce, representing Frank J. Ryan and the Ryan Florida corporation in the case against the SEC, served notice that he would demand a rehearing "in the absence of Justice Black" just as soon as the papers could be brought to Washington.

Challenges Black's Status.

Black's participation in the telegram seizure case is being challenged, because of the public stand he took in favor of the dragnet subpenas as chairman of a senate inquisitorial committee last year. The petitioners in the Florida case, who are dealers in oil royalty participation certificates, relied primarily on a case in which the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals condemned the wholesale seizure of private telegrams for Black's committee and by the federal communications commission as a violation of the constitutional guarantees against unreasonable searches and seizures.

Attorney Pierce said his petition for a rehearing would not question Black's general eligibility as an associate justice, which has been challenged on constitutional grounds growing out of the passage of the voluntary retirement act during his term in the senate.

Puzzle to Lawyers.

For this reason, some Supreme court lawyers were puzzled by the announced effort to seek a rehearing on the petition for review. They pointed out that, according to Chief Justice Hughes, the court always grants a petition for a writ of certiorari when as many as four justices believe the case should be reviewed and some times does so when two or three justices believe so. Thus most lawyers believe that a reconsideration in the absence of Justice Black would make little difference.

One Supreme court lawyer who maintains that Black's appointment and confirmation were unconstitutional expressed the hope that Attorney Pierce could be persuaded to raise the question of general eligibility. It might successfully be argued, he said, that Black's participation in the case injured the oil security dealers, on the theory that some other justice who might have been appointed to the vacancy would have voted to grant the petition.

Doesn't Question Selection.

Attorney Pierce said he did not question Black's eligibility in the case prior to yesterday's decision because it was assumed that he would not participate.

"The facts regarding his connection with the cases involved [those against Black's senate committee] were fully presented in the petitions," Pierce said. "It is not only a matter of justice, but also of legal right that the petitioners have their cause reviewed by impartial judges."

WIND SHIFTS; LOWERS LAKE LEVEL; CAUSES RIVER TO FLOW INTO IT

A fresh southeast wind changed suddenly into a strong southwest wind, causing the Chicago river to reverse its normal flow for 20 minutes yesterday. To prevent sewage from entering the city's water supply, the sanitary district promptly increased the river's flow over the dam at Lockport.

Loran D. Gayton, city engineer, said the southeast wind piled water high along the western shore. When the wind changed to the southwest, he said, the lake level at Chicago dropped almost 1¼ feet, causing the river to flow toward the lake. There was black water, indicating sewage, as far east as the Michigan avenue bridge.

The southwest wind, which reached a maximum velocity of 32 miles an hour at 3:44 p. m., caused the temperature to drop from 61 degrees at 10:30 a. m. to 42 at 3:15 p. m. It was the third successive rainy day, with precipitation measured at .59 of an inch during the 24 hours ending at 6:30 p. m. Today will continue cool, with fresh northwest winds, Forecaster C. A. Donnell said last night.

G. A. BALL QUITS G. O. P.'S NATIONAL COMMITTEE POST

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 19.—(AP)—George A. Ball, millionaire Muncie industrialist, resigned today as Republican national committeeman from Indiana—a post he had held since 1928. He sent a letter to National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton in Washington and another to State Chairman John C. Taylor of Danville.

Ball wrote Taylor it would not be possible for him to continue "with that attention and vigor conditions call for and I desire therefore to give way now to one who can do what should be done and in the way that it should be done."

On national affairs Ball said:

"A strong, militant, honest, and intelligent minority party is always necessary for good government, for there is no audit or policing of government possible in a democracy in any other way—but never has the need been greater for just that kind of a minority party than now."

Ball said in his statement he would continue to be as active in the Republican party's affairs as he had been since he cast his first vote.

Taylor immediately called a state committee meeting for Oct. 29 to name Ball's successor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Senator Robert M. La Follette [Radical, Wis.], who is a powerful force in the Roosevelt administration, announced on returning to Washington today that he would renew his fight in the next regular session of congress for higher income taxes and a broadening of the base to bring in many persons in the low income groups who are now exempt.

La Follette said he was not influenced in his determination to fight for income tax increases by President Roosevelt's latest budget summation, which estimated the deficit for the current fiscal year at a minimum of $695,000,000, or $277,000,000 more than the estimate of last April.

Point to Two Fold Aims.

"Nothing is required to stimulate me in connection with my tax plan," La Follette declared. "I have considered such reform necessary for many years and I intend to press for enactment in connection with any tax legislation presented at the next regular session of congress. I consider my plan necessary both to increase federal income and to readjust the tax burden of the people."

Senator La Follette, unlike some of his radical colleagues who talk about "soaking the rich" to finance the administration's spending program, recognizes that the little fellow will have to pay and pay plenty if any inroad is ever to be made on the national debt.

Would Raise Normal Tax.

His tax plan would lower the personal exemptions from $2,500 to $2,000 for married persons and from $1,500 to $1,000 for single persons. It would start the 6 per cent surtax at $3,000 instead of $4,000 and increase the normal tax from 4 per cent to 6 per cent.

The senate adopted La Follette's plan at the last session, to the great horror of some of his colleagues, but quickly reconsidered its action and voted it down. This was in connection with the administration's bill to plug so-called tax loopholes.

The bride was attended by Joyce Johnson and Eleanor Johnson, flower girls. The best man was John Johnson. The ushers were Harold Johnson and Elmer Johnson.

NEW ARKANSAS SENATOR VOWS AN OPEN MIND

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Slender, soft-spoken Representative John E. Miller, who steps into the senate seat of the late majority leader, Joseph T. Robinson, Nov. 15, emphasized today he is unbiased and unpledged with respect to the Roosevelt program.

The 49 year old Democrat, who ran as an independent and won yesterday over Gov. Carl E. Bailey, "regular" party nominee and outright Roosevelt adherent, said, "I most certainly do not consider my election a slap at President Roosevelt."

The Associated Press tabulations of the vote late today from 1,698 of the 1,986 precincts gave Miller 63,506 and Bailey 41,752.

TELLS OF PAYING $51,000 TO GET PARK BOND O. K.

Chicago park district attorneys took a deposition yesterday from Paul Van Winkle, former vice president of R. E. Herczel & Co., in which he said that in behalf of the firm he paid Mason $51,000 in 1931 to arrange for the passage of state legislation to validate a $2,000,000 northwest park district bond issue.

The deposition was taken in connection with a suit filed in 1934 by the Chicago park district to recover $71,000 which it is charged was paid illegally by the superseded northwest district to Herczel & Co., the investment firm which undertook to float the issue. Defendants are the investment firm, Francis X. Milano, its ex-treasurer; Joseph T. Gubbins, its president; Eden T. Brekke, secretary of the old northwest district, and the Glens Falls Indemnity company, which bonded Milano and Brekke.

The suit, set for hearing in Superior court on Nov. 1, asserts the investment firm took up only $600,000 of the bonds, but that $50,000 was paid it by Milano as interest on the whole issue and $21,000 as expenses.

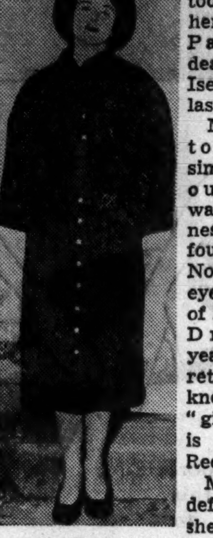
VICTIM'S WIDOW HEARD AT TRIAL OF 'GIRL IN RED'

Tells of Finding Husband Slain in Bungalow.



Myra Reeves.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Pretty Myra Reeves told before a courtroom crowd here today of finding her husband, Paul, shot to death in their Iselin bungalow last Sept. 7.

Mrs. Reeves told her story simply and without tears. She was on the witness stand only four minutes. Not once did her eyes meet those of Margaret Drennan, 20 years old, a secretarial student, known as the "girl in red," who is on trial as Reeves' slayer.

Miss Drennan's defense is that she shot to defend her honor, that Reeves, the father of two children by his wife, had seduced her.

In his outline of the defense Margaret's lawyer called Reeves a "sex-crazed beast" who, under an assumed name, seduced the girl on an automobile ride in August and assaulted her again on the night of the shooting when she went to him to tell him she was to have a child.

Doctors Tell of Autopsy.

Wearing a black dress, black fur cape, and black hat, Reeves' widow, who is 24, said her husband was alive when she left home on the fatal night, but that he was not alive when she returned.

Dr. Morris Horenstein, an interne at the Perth Amboy hospital, testified that the night of Sept. 7 he was called to the emergency ward and examined the body of Reeves. It was "punctured" by several wounds, he said.

Dr. William Wilentz, county physician, testified that he performed the autopsy on Reeves and found death was due to a hemorrhage caused by a bullet.

Then the prosecution called as a witness Albert Hamel, 14, a Woodbridge High school pupil, whose home is in Iselin.

Boy Describes Shooting.

Hamel testified that on the night of the slaying he and three other boys were playing when they heard shots.

"The shots came from the Reeves home," the boy testified. "I heard three; then two. I ran to the fence. I saw some one come down the back steps and run down the alley driveway. She had on a red coat. She went down toward the theater."

Under questioning by the prosecution, the boy explained he knew the person running was a woman because of her dress, but said that he "didn't know who it was."

Miss Drennan, who sat pale but apparently calm at the defense counsel table, smiled wanly a couple of times as the boy testified.

said, and they accomplished the murder briskly, walking up to their victim with drawn pistols and firing at close range. After the shooting Locascio's card playing companions fled. They were being sought by the police.

Locascio lived with his wife, Rose, and two small children and his father, Alphonso, a fruit merchant. His wife was to be questioned to see if she knew a possible motive for the crime.

Labor Organizer Since June.

White, the wounded C. I. O. organizer, lived at 16108 Park avenue, Harvey, with his wife, Emily, and five children, the youngest 4 years old. He had been an organizer since last June, and prior to that worked as a painter in the Ford Motor company assembly plant in Hegewisch.

Last night he attended a meeting in the Grand avenue hall, which serves as headquarters for the U. A. W. A. unit composed of employés of the Revere Copper and Brass company plant at 2200 North Natchez avenue. After the meeting, police were told, he went to the tavern and sat drinking with three companions.

Remembers Telephone Call.

The tavern owner, Joseph Chaban, said one of the three men went to a telephone and made a call, then returned to the table with White and the two others. A moment later they all departed. Police could find no witnesses of the shooting, but said they learned that White was shot down on the sidewalk about a hundred feet from the tavern.

Before being taken to the operating room White gasped out to Police Captain Albert Mikes of the Cragin station the name of a man who he said had shot him.

"I don't know why he did it," the wounded man said. "I've always been his friend."

Later Capt. Mikes sent out an alarm to all police stations asking the arrest of Charles Kane, 45 years old, a C. I. O. organizer, and Anthony Audia, 22, said to be secretary of a C. I. O. union.

COMPLETE JURY, SLAYER ON IT, TO TRY GARR BOYS

Will Decide on Guilt in Denhardt Death.

Curtis Brooks.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Shelbyville, Ky., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A killer, who shoots with true Kentucky accuracy, was seated on the Garr brothers' murder trial jury today. Without batting an eyelash, opposing counsel in the trial of the brothers, Roy and Jack, for the murder of Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, accepted a tobacco planter who six years ago put a succession of bullets through a fellow he surprised pilfering his poultry.

The lethal protector of his chickens, who will be called upon to decide if the brothers were justified in slaying the former lieutenant governor accused as the murderer of their beautiful sister, is Curtis Brooks of Bagdad, in the far reaches of Shelby county. Brooks and his gunplay have provided a distinct contribution to Kentucky blue grass humor.

"He killed the thief of Bagdad," old timers chuckled as they recalled the poultry purloiner's slaying. "The thief of Bagdad. Get it?"

Yankees Are Surprised.

A couple of Yankees who happen to be covering this trial expressed surprise at the selection of Planter Brooks. Maybe, they suggested timidly, a fellow that handy with a shooting iron wouldn't feel so strongly about the little episode here last Sept. 20 that ended the brilliant career of the blustering war hero.

Officials appeared perplexed at the suggestion.

"Why," said County Prosecutor Coleman Wright, who is playing second fiddle to State's Attorney General Hubert Meredith in the prosecution, "Curtis Brooks is one of the best citizens in this county. He's never done a wrong thing in his life. It'd be a pretty condition, wouldn't it, if a man couldn't shoot a fellow he caught stealing his chickens? Chicken stealing is a very serious crime in this state."

No Question About Musketry.

Apparently no one thought to question the smallish, baldish, mild appearing Brooks about his musketry; it seems to be a social faux pas hereabouts to ask a prospective juror if he ever had trouble with the police.

After two days of asking "Do you have any fixed opinion in this case?" they finally got a jury together—twelve men, all farmers, from seventy-two veniremen examined. And here again a slight touch of the bizarre obtruded itself. The jurors, not one of whom—with the exception of Brooks—presumably ever so much as potted a fellow citizen, were locked up for the night while the defendants were allowed to go home—free on bail.

When the jury was completed, the prosecution waived an opening address and Rodes Myers, Gen. Denhardt's companion when he was slain, was called as the first witness.

State's Witness Is Nervous.

Myers, dapper and about 30 years old, who was one of Denhardt's defense staf, was nervous and ill at ease, more than one threat having been made against him since the killing.

Myers testified Gen. Denhardt had had nothing more to drink than one bottle of beer the day he was slain, was unarmed, was shot while running zigzag in flight from the three brothers. Garr [one, Dr. E. S. Garr, is not being tried with the others because of a mental breakdown], and had made no hostile demonstration toward the brothers of his dead fiancée. He told, too, how Doc Garr, gun in hand, threatened to kill him also for being "the —— who defended the —— who killed my sister," but was dissuaded by Roy Garr, whose gun had ended the life of Denhardt.

FEDERAL JURY INDICTS FIRST ROBBER-KILLER UNDER NEW U. S. LAW

Bay City, Mich., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The first murder indictment returned in the nation under the national bank robbery act, which provides a maximum penalty of hanging for any death resulting from robbery of a national bank, was voted by a federal grand jury here today against Tony Chebatoris, Detroit and Pennsylvania gunman.

Chebatoris is charged with the murder of Henry Porter, a truck driver, who was shot as the gunman and his companion fled from the attempted holdup of a national bank at Midland, Mich., on Sept. 29. Chebatoris was wounded and his pal, Jack Gracey, killed by Midland's hero dentist, Dr. Frank L. Hardy.

WITH CLOTHING ABLAZE, WOMAN LEAPS TO DEATH

Another Burned; 20 Saved by Firemen.

With her clothing ablaze, a woman leaped three floors to her death last night as fire swept a large rooming house at 4616 North Racine avenue. Another woman was seriously burned. More than twenty other residents, who were trapped on balconies and in rooms on the second and third floors, were carried down ladders by firemen.

The woman killed was Mrs. Beatrice Thurston, 44 years old. She died soon after being taken to the Ravenswood hospital. She was the wife of Byron Thurston, an employé of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company plant in Evanston. The other victim is Mrs. Serena Wilson, 37, who was burned as she tried to escape down a flaming stairway. She is the wife of Policeman Robert V. Wilson, assigned to the trafic division.

Women Scream on Balconies.

The fire apparently started in the basement or in the front hallway. When firemen of engine company 83 and truck company 22 arrived the hall and stairs were ablaze. Women screamed from balconies and windows on the upper floors.

"Don't jump!" the firemen shouted. "We'll put up ladders."

As they cried out the flaming body of Mrs. Thurston fell to the ground. The truck company, with Lieut. Frank Walthouse in command, quickly put up ladders and rescued the other panic stricken men and women.

Division Fire Marshal James Cowhey said the fact that the fire started in the front hall or basement and spread rapidly made him suspect it was started by one of the firebugs who have set at least twenty-one fires on the north side in the last two months. Last night's fatal blaze caused damage estimated at $5,000.

Fire Marshal Cowhey said he would ask an investigation of this fire and of another suspicious blaze last night in a dwelling at 3040 Wilton avenue. Mrs. Sue Zografos, who lives there, told firemen she smelled smoke and discovered a blaze under a porch.

U. S. TAKES HAND TO HALT DEATH TOLL FROM DRUG

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—As the toll of dead from a new drug preparation called "elixir of sulfanilamide" rose to 13 today, the federal food and drug administration ordered seizure of all shipments of the compound, which has been widely distributed to drug stores throughout the country.

Reports from the administration's St. Louis office told of four East St. Louis persons having died after using the elixir, made by a Bristol, Tenn., company. Nine persons have died in Tulsa, Okla.

Investigation of the circumstances in Tulsa led the American Medical association to issue a public warning yesterday against using any derivative of sulfanilamide without rigid medical supervision.

A solvent, diethylene glycol, and not the sulfanilamide is the probable cause of death, according to the medical association.

BURGLAR CALLS COPS, BUT THEY CAN'T CATCH UP

East Hampton, Conn., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A burglar who telephoned of his progress as he broke into four places went uncaught today, to the disgust of five constables and a member of the state police.

At 11:55 last night an operator at the telephone exchange heard a bass voice say: "I've just robbed the coal company. Why don't you call police?"

Police found the office in disorder, but nothing missing. A few moments later the operator received a call from town hall. The voice said: "I'm just leaving here." Police found a typewriter had been taken.

Next the burglar telephoned from the railroad station. When police reached there the burglar was gone, but he had left the typewriter stolen from town hall.

G-MEN DISCLAIM RESPONSIBILITY IN RANSOM LOSS

Bare Payment of $50,000 for Victim's Return.

Agents of the federal bureau of investigation, who have excluded local authorities from the case, veered to new courses yesterday in their search for the kidnapers of Charles S. Ross and there arose among law enforcers a spirited debate as to who is to blame for the advice which caused Mrs. Ross to pay $50,000 ransom without regaining her husband.

In the first development of the day Daniel M. Ladd, chief of the agents in Chicago, announced that Mrs. Ross had paid the ransom and that her husband's captors had broken faith by their failure to release him at the appointed time.

Second, J. Edgar Hoover, head of the bureau, made public in Washington a list of the serial numbers of the bills that made up the ransom payment—$15,000 in $20 bills, $25,000 in $10 bills, and $10,000 in $5 bills—and requested that the public assist the government by reporting the receipt of any of this currency.

Disclaims Responsibility.

Although the federal agency has been in complete charge since Oct. 1, and has kept operatives constantly in the Ross apartment at 2912 Commonwealth avenue, Ladd disclaimed responsibility for the futile payment of the ransom or participation in the negotiations.

"The federal bureau of investigation, of course, could not be a party to the payment," he asserted. "It was handled entirely by the family upon what they believe to be definite proof that they were in contact with the kidnapers of Mr. Ross."

Ladd made no comment on whether his men had attempted to trap the ransom collectors, nor did he outline the extent to which they had knowledge of the dickering with the abductors. Neither would he disclose anything about the status of the search now.

G-Men Dominant in Hunt.

Nevertheless, the extent to which the G-men are dominant in the hunt was exposed in statements from other sources.

Edmund S. Cummings Jr., attorney for Mrs. Ross, who handed out her final appeal to the kidnapers on Sunday [in which she warned them that unless Ross was released by 8 a. m. yesterday no further consideration would be shown them], said that he could not answer any questions about the ransom payment for a specific reason.

"We have an agreement to allow the federal men to do all the talking," he asserted.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, head of the state's attorney's police force, let it be known that he had been shoved aside in the investigation, although he was in full charge at the beginning.

Hampered by Situation.

"We are continuing to work," he said, "but we are hampered by not being in the confidence of those who dealt with the kidnapers. We were not notified there were negotiations or that a ransom was paid. We were not even furnished with a list of the numbers on the bills. Presumably all concerned have been warned by the government men to tell us nothing. I am seeking legal advice on our rights as investigators when a crime is committed in Cook county."

Capt. Gilbert would not talk about the advisability of relatives refusing to pay ransom. Sometimes, he said, the ransomed men were released; in other cases the victims already were dead when the payment was made.

An indication that the federal agency knew of the ransom payment by Mrs. Ross was given in Hoover's list of the bills. It was dated Oct. 8. Payment apparently was made not later than that day, and the captors have had at least 11 days in which to rid themselves of the incriminating currency.

Hat Sent as Evidence.

It is assumed that the money demands were taken to Mrs. Ross by friends of her husband. He, it is believed, told the kidnapers to write to these friends, enclosing their messages to her. One rumor had it that his hat was sent as evidence to corroborate the claim that he was in the hands of the note writers.

The belief that Ross is dead has become more widely accepted daily. He is 72 years old, and a sufferer from heart disease. In her appeal Sunday Mrs. Ross declared that he was greatly in need of medical attention—and she, too, hinted that she feared he was no longer living.

Ross was seized Sept. 25 after his car had been forced to a halt in Wolf road near the entrance to the Westward Ho golf course.

Kidnaping Recalled

A circular offering $5,000 reward for the return of Charles Brewster Ross, whose kidnaping sixty-three years ago has been recalled by the recent kidnaping of Charles S. Ross, was displayed yesterday by L. C. Partridge of the Partridge & Anderson Co., electrotypers at 712 Federal street. Mr. Partridge lives at 2912 Commonwealth avenue, in the apartment building in which Mrs. Charles S. Ross lives and has been awaiting in vain for the return of her kidnaped husband.

Charles Brewster Ross, son of a wealthy Philadelphia grocer, was 4 years old in 1874 when two men carried him away from his home in Germantown, a Philadelphia suburb. He never was seen again. If he were still alive he would be 67 years old. Charles S. Ross, the Chicago kidnap victim, is 72 years old.

Policeman's Wife Granted $75 Temporary Support

Judge John J. Lupe yesterday granted Mrs. Irene McLaughlin, 35 years old, 1402 East 73d street, $75 a month support for herself and her three children, Irene, Rita and Edward, pending hearing of her cross bill for separate maintenance against Policeman Emmett McLaughlin. Attorney Norman Becker, representing the husband, said he agreed to the payment.

Sentenced to 90 Days for Fake Injury Claim

John M. Quinlan, 1218 East 64th street, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Harold P. O'Connell in Felony court to two concurrent terms of 90 days each in the house of correction for filing two $10,000 damage suits in which he made false personal injury claims.

CHICAGO CUTS TOTAL DEBT BY 25 MILLIONS IN 3D QUARTER OF 1937

The city of Chicago reduced its total debt by $25,902,620 during the third quarter of 1937, according to a debt statement issued yesterday by City Controller R. B. Upham. Most of the decrease was due to receipts of 1936 taxes which permitted retirement of tax anticipation warrants and building up of bond sinking funds. The first penalty date on 1936 property taxes occurred in the third quarter.

The bonded debt liability of the city [after deduction of sinking funds] dropped $8,536,129 to $107,716,250. Judgments were $3,135,392 smaller at $5,948,718. Outstanding tax anticipation warrants were $50,492,000, a decrease of $14,029,000. Bills payable declined $202,099 to $9,200,266.

RECOVER BODIES OF 19 WHO DIED IN PLANE CRASH

Searchers Carry Them Down Mountain.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 19.—[Special.] — Ground crews tonight brought out of the rugged wilderness, 10,000 feet above sea level, the bodies of the nineteen persons who were killed Sunday when a United Air Lines plane crashed in the Unita mountains, eighty miles east of here. They were taken to Evanston, Wyo., where many of the relatives of the victims already have arrived to claim their dead.

All day the crews toiled over slippery canyon walls and treacherous trails through snow to reach the scene of the wrecked air liner and carry down the mountains the bodies of the victims of the nation's most disastrous plane crash.

Put in Charge of Coroner.

Bob Johnson, public relations agent for the United Air Lines, who announced the recovery of the bodies, said:

"I have been informed that all of the bodies have been taken down from the scene of the wreck. They will be placed in charge of the coroner at Evanston for identification and other arrangements. A number of the bereaved relatives already have assembled at Evanston to claim their dead."

Investigation into the causes of the crash already has begun. For once the state and federal aeronautical inspectors may find a key to the tragedy. They will search for the automatic recording baragraph carried in the air liner in the hope that the instrument has preserved a record which will give a clew to happenings immediately prior to the moment when the plane dashed against the mountain peak.

Makes Record in Ink.

The baragraph, of a type installed in all United Air Lines planes, makes an ink record on a card of the rates of climb and descent of the plane, the cruising altitude, the smoothness or roughness of air in which the ship flew, the length of time the automatic pilot was in charge of the plane, and the number of attempts to use the plane's radio transmitter.

From this vital data it is believed that the board of inquiry will be able to reconstruct exactly what happened. In addition to this card the investigators have asked for a complete weather report for the period during which the airplane was in the air and for the reports left by pilots who flew over the Cheyenne-Salt Lake City airway just before and just after the ill-fated plane.

Experts to Investigate.

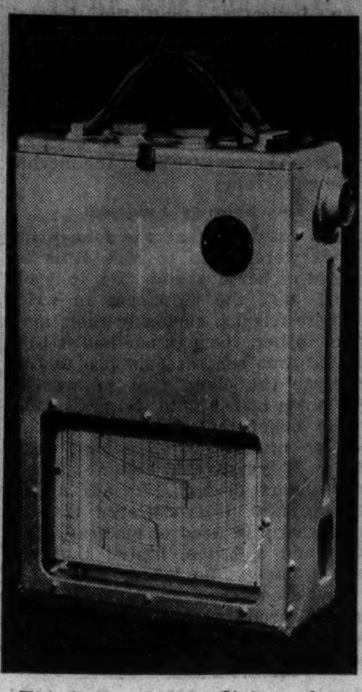
The report on the finding of the bodies was made by Pilot Ralph Johnson who headed a party of five men. He said he examined the wreckage by torch light, but touched nothing, leaving the investigation to specially trained experts. Johnson did comment on the condition of the ship as he found it.

"The front part of the plane had been burned as though gasoline tanks exploded when she struck," he said. "Several of the bodies apparently shot out through the nose of the ship and some of them were buried in deep snow."

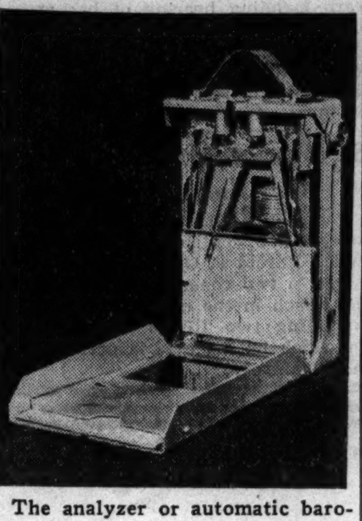
His further description of marks on the snow and trees at the scene indicated to airmen that the plane struck while cruising at 190 miles an hour or more. They surmised that the pilots, flying in dense cloud, never saw the mountain into which they smashed.

Flight Recorder

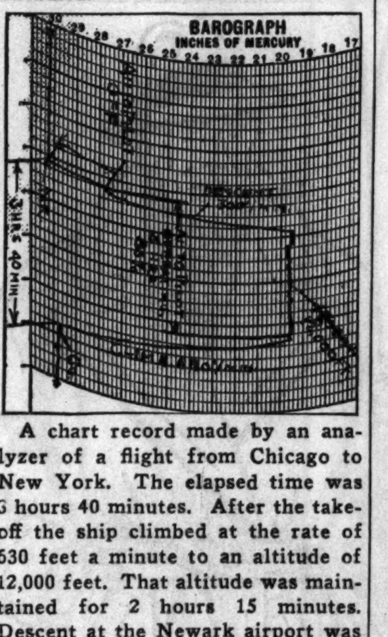
(Story in adjoining column.)



This is the airplane flight analyzer closed and ready for operation. The electric plug in the upper corner is used to complete the connection with the giro pilot and the radio transmitter.



The analyzer or automatic barograph open with internal workings revealed.



A chart record made by an analyzer of a flight from Chicago to New York. The elapsed time was 3 hours 40 minutes. After the take-off the ship climbed at the rate of 630 feet a minute to an altitude of 12,000 feet. That altitude was maintained for 2 hours 15 minutes. Descent at the Newark airport was made at the rate of 300 feet a minute.

DRIVER KILLED AS TRUCK HITS PILLAR IN FOG

Driving in a heavy fog, Floyd Hilt, 25 years old, 413 Woodlawn avenue, Aurora, was killed yesterday when his truck crashed into the concrete abutment of an overhead pass in Ogden avenue road at route 34 near Lisle. He was bound for Chicago with a load of milk.

An inquest will be held at 9:30 today at 9568 Belmont avenue, Franklin Park, over Raymond Shenk and W. J. Masmer, live stock brokers of Hershey, Pa., who were killed early yesterday in the suburb when their car plunged 30 feet off a viaduct on Mannheim road to the St. Paul railroad tracks half a mile north of Grand avenue.

Matt Carter, colored, 4436 South Dearborn street, died at County hospital of injuries incurred when he was struck by a car driven by Henry Sonnenschein Jr., 2406 South Ridgeway avenue, Saturday night at Randolph and Halsted streets. Sonnenschein is a son of Ald. Henry Sonnenschein [22d].

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 856 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 647 were killed in Chicago, where 18,325 were injured in the same period.

[See editorial page for the massacre clock.]

Plane Engine Part Flown Through City to Alaska

A 25 pound airplane engine replacement part, bound on what was said to be the longest air express shipment on record, passed through Chicago last evening aboard a United Air Lines plane. The part, for an engine in a Russian government airplane at Point Barrow, Alaska, was dispatched from New York City. The Russian plane is one of a fleet of ships searching the arctic for the Russian flyers lost near the north pole.

POISONED LIVER OF VICTIM SHOWN TO HAHN JURORS

State Gets Into Details of Slaying Case.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mrs. Anna Hahn.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Not an eyelash flickered in the jury box, where eleven women and one man are hearing testimony in blonde Anna Marie Hahn's trial for the murder of Jacob Wagner, when samples of the dead man's organs were displayed in a row of bottles today and their arsenic content related.

Mrs. Hahn, who says she is 31, is accused of murdering the man for his $4,000 bank account after she won his confidence in a whirlwind three weeks' association. Wagner was 78.

Before introducing evidence that Wagner died of a terrific dose of arsenic the prosecution attempted to question witnesses about events which would connect Mrs. Hahn with the death of George Gsellman, for whose murder by poison she is also under indictment. Another old friend of hers, Karl Oswald, deceased, as so many are, was brought into testimony before Judge Charles S. Bell halted this line of questioning temporarily.

The state must prove a prima facie case against Mrs. Hahn, showing Wagner died of unnatural causes and linking her to them before introducing evidence of other deaths, he ruled.

State Goes Into Details.

Thereupon the state set out to show just why Mr. Wagner, a mild old retired gardener who lived a solitary rooming house existence except for a daily beer or two in his favorite saloon, suddenly grew violently ill on a Saturday night and died the following Thursday, shortly after midnight on June 3.

Prosecutor Dudley Miller Outcalt, directing a staf of four for the state as opposed to four defense attorneys, placed Lieut. George W. Schattle of the Cincinnati police laboratory on the stand.

Lieut. Schattle, dressed in a natty brown ensemble, glanced with interest at the jury and, when asked if he knew Mrs. Hahn, merely replied he did, without looking in her direction. Mrs. Hahn, dressed in a new costume, a brown crêpe dress with tiny birds of gold poised in flight over its surface, remained expressionless throughout.

Lieut. Schattle was asked if he were present at the autopsy of Jacob Wagner's body on Aug. 2, and he said that he was. This was after it was disinterred. The state promised to show by an undertaker's testimony that it was his body and contained no arsenic from embalming fluid.

After testifying that he saw the coroner remove samples of organs from the body, which he himself turned over to the city chemist, there occurred the following colloquy:

Prosecutor Outcalt: I'll show you, lieutenant, these small bottles [placing them on the counter before the witness chair in full view of the jury]. Do you recognize any substance therein?

But They Eat Heartily.

Despite the testimony they had just listened to the woman jurors ate a hearty lunch in the public dining room of the Metropole hotel. The buzz of conversation from their long table, where the man juror and the thirteenth, or alternate, juror huddled together at one end, could be heard across the room.

In the afternoon session a detective, John Bugganar, started a horrid line of testimony about what he found in a pan in a room at 1717 Elm street.

The jury was leaning forward, doing its duty, but just as it was about to learn what was meant it was excused from the room.

After completely confusing the jury with definitions of what kilograms, milligrams, grams, and the like are, and listing an impressive table on the blackboard at which the jurors stared blankly, Dr. Otto B. Behrer, city chemist, was allowed to answer the question:

"From the evidence of the vital organs examined would you say that the subject from whom they came died from a lethal dose of arsenic?"

It's as Simple as That.

To this he replied: "Yes, he died from a lethal dose of arsenic."

As the jurors took in every word of testimony, Mrs. Emma Cassidy, dressed in a new dress of black with a white lace collar, leaned forward with a hand behind one ear. Dr. Behrer was asked what constituted a lethal dose of arsenic.

"A fatal dose in anywhere from two to three grains," he replied.

Outside of court prosecutors pointed out that the arsenic found in the small sections analyzed amounted to more than six grains.

FARMS OFFER JOBS FOR ONLY 2,000 MEN NOW ON RELIEF ROLLS

Only about 2,000 out of 48,000 employable men receiving relief downstate will be able to get jobs as cornhuskers on farms during the next few weeks, according to reports received by relief and state employment officials yesterday after conferences in downstate counties.

Leo M. Lyons, secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, who issued orders two weeks ago for his field representatives to arrange conferences of farm bureau, public employment services, WPA, and county officials, said he was disappointed in the results.

Lyons received reports from meetings in 65 of the 102 counties in the state. In forty-five of the counties it was reported that approximately 1,500 men would be needed for the corn harvest. The others said no extra help would be needed.

5,000 EMPLOYABLES TO BE SHIFTED FROM RELIEF TO WPA JOBS

Mayor Kelly said yesterday that Howard O. Hunter, regional director of the Works Progress administration, assured him arrangements will be made immediately to take 5,000 employables off Chicago relief rolls for WPA jobs to aid in solving the crisis caused by the relief fund shortage. Mr. Hunter left for Washington, D. C., after the conference. It will be necessary to obtain approval there to lift the WPA job quota in Chicago above 52,800, as the quota is filled.

SEIZE 2 PISTOLS BELIEVED POLICE DEATH WEAPONS

Two pistols, believed to have been those used by James Pogue and Edward Moorehead when they killed Policemen Elmer Ostling and John Skopek on July 28, 1933, were seized last night in a raid on the home of Samuel Ciccione, 32 years old, 1225 Erie street.

Moorehead and Pogue fled Oct. 8 from the Stateville honor farm, where they had been serving terms for robbery. Moorehead was shot and killed by Chicago police and Pogue captured, confessed he escaped because he believed investigators had learned he was one of the killers.

Notre Dame Former Student Is Found Shot to Death

Joseph Burgel, 26 years old, was found shot to death early yesterday in a garage across the street from his home at Dixie and Lincoln highways in South Chicago Heights. A revolver from which one bullet had been fired was on the floor beside him. Burgel, a former student at Notre Dame university, was a driver for the Dixie Dairy company which keeps its trucks in the garage.

EDWARD'S VISIT TO U. S. VEILED IN FOG OF INTRIGUE

Charge He Is Catspaw in International Plot.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The abdication episode seems to be dying hard. The visit to Germany of the duke of Windsor, the former King Edward VIII. of Great Britain, and his pending visit to the United States are engulfed in a welter of intrigue. Observers here cannot make out whether he was "rolled" into making the German visit in order to make him unpopular with the British public, which dislikes the Nazis, or whether he was the tool of pro-German politicians who want to bring about a closer British-German friendship.

Both versions are set forth to explain Edward's visit to Germany. A deep, dark plot also is being read into his coming visit to the United States. Whatever is the truth, it does appear that dangerous factionalism is growing up around the former king and his wife.

Charges Duke Is a Fascist.

What prompted both visits, and what caused the duke to issue a statement yesterday denying that his American visit was "organized by any agency," is beginning to intrigue the British public, although it gets little information about the Windsors and their doings except in the leftist press. This faction is inclined to suspect that the duke of Windsor has been maneuvered into Fascism.

In an article in one of the papers here today Frank Pitcairn, a writer, said predictions that "evil forces would begin to form around the abdication question, so far as the masses of the people are concerned," are being amply fulfilled.

Pitcairn said the evil forces are forming and factions are growing. He declared that the still half suppressed, still pooh-poohed noise behind the scenes begins to be audible. Edward Windsor is on the front pages in Europe and America in a new way. Why?

Hints at Dark Plot.

The writer then alluded to a dark plot in a series of questions:

Why were Lord Rothermere, the publisher, and Ward Price, one of the editors, of the pro-German Daily Mail the first people to know that the duke of Windsor was going to Berlin? Why did the Aga Khan, Indian ruler, hurry over to Berlin just to see the duke and Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, German propaganda minister? Why did the French secret service, after the first couple of days of the duke's and duchess' stay in Paris, turn in a report to the Quai d'Orsay which scared the French foreign office into fits? Why did the British ambassador in Berlin put his approval on a supposedly unofficial visit?

Pitcairn said the theory that the Berlin visit was planned by Edward's enemies in England to discredit him has much truth in it, and the theory that the visit was arranged by the Nazis and Nazi friends is entirely true. He added that the campaign of the British ruling classes against Edward since his abdication has never abated.

That is why the former king, two weeks ago, agreed to have a book produced for him telling the inside story of the last six months. The book will, Pitcairn said, be a startling confirmation of a statement made by Willie Gallacher, communist member of parliament, that "loyalty ceases when the king ceases to serve the interests of a particular group around the cabinet."

In Washington, D. C., too, the writer asserted, there were reactions, for liberals, radicals, Socialists, communists, and Catholics together have made headway in the last year in the United States against Nazidom and its agents in America. It is clear, he said, that the duke's visit to Berlin before his visit to America is intended as a big card in the German game to regain lost ground and build a propaganda machine inside the United States capable of embarrassing any attempt at strong peace policy by the United States in the far east.

Friends of the duke say he is being tricked and duped into all this—an unwilling cat's paw.

EDWARD AND HIS WIFE ENTERTAINED BY NAZI COUSIN AT NUREMBERG

Duke Leopold.

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—Tonight's banquet at Nuremberg proved a disappointment to the party of the duke and duchess of Windsor. Duke Leopold of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, a grandson of the late Queen Victoria of Great Britain and thus a cousin of the duke of Windsor, had planned a big dinner for the Windsors. When he found that a number of the princes he wanted to invite would be unable to attend, he gave only a nineteen cover dinner in the spacious hall of Nuremberg's leading hotel. Duke Leopold is a prominent Nazi. The duke and duchess of Windsor are staying in Reichsfuehrer Hitler's own suite in his hotel, the Deutscher Hof, facing the turrets of Nuremberg's picturesque old city wall.

3 BRITISH ROYAL BROTHERS BEGIN SEPARATE TOURS

LONDON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Three brothers of the house of Windsor and their wives were on separate tours in Great Britain today.

A crowd cheered from behind wooden barricades as King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth alighted from their train at Hull and started a three day Yorkshire tour in cold, misty weather.

The duke and duchess of Gloucester, en route to the duchy of Cornwall, arrived at Plymouth at the other end of England.

The duke and duchess of Kent went to Wales, where Kent was to be installed as chancellor of the University of Wales at Swansea.

Danville, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—To test their ability to disguise themselves, twelve Boy Scouts of this city dressed up in various kinds of costumes and then tried to get through a city-wide network of 225 fellow Scouts without detection.

Eleven of them were caught, but not young Jack Cavanaugh. Dressed in the smart costume of a young woman, Jack walked unobserved through the picket line.

PART OF TROOPS WITHDRAW FROM BIG RACE TRACK

But Quinn Keeps Soldiers in Control.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Motor lorries lumbered out Narragansett race track tonight carrying 200 National Guard troops in a partial demobilization of the force which Gov. Robert E. Quinn sent into the zone in his campaign to gain control of the rich race plant. Martial law continued, however.

The evacuation began just three days after Quinn, who aims to make his dictatorship over the state complete, proclaimed the area in "a state of insurrection." The avowed objective is to drive out Walter E O'Hara, managing director of the track and the governor's bitter political foe. The two men head factions of the Democratic party.

Sixty-nine Stay on Guard.

Here at the track a provisional battery comprised of four officers and sixty-five enlisted men remained tonight to guard against a possible coup by the O'Hara forces. The machine guns still stood before the main gates and the sentries with trench helmets and fixed bayonets refused to allow any one to enter unless a military pass were produced.

Adjt. Gen. Herbert R. Dean and Col. Earl C. Webster, commanding the detachments, moved out with their men and announced that henceforth all official information on the situation would be given out at the statehouse in Providence.

It was these two officers who yesterday excluded all representatives of the Star-Tribune, the Providence newspaper which O'Hara owns, from the track. The turfman-publisher, however, was allowed to enter the area and spent most of the day shuttling back and forth between his penthouse above the grandstands and the city hall at Pawtucket, where he mapped out strategy with Mayor Thomas P. McCoy.

McCoy Blocks Governor.

It will be recalled that McCoy men in the legislature last winter attempted to curb the governor's march toward dictatorship. Quinn filled the state house with his plug uglies and scenes of wild disorder and fist fighting followed on the floor of the assembly.

While there were many rumors flying about here and at the state house that O'Hara is planning to resign or that Quinn has decided to give up the fight, there was no substantiation in fact. Neither man is apparently giving an inch, and the deadlock, as it looks now, will remain until the last day of the track's fall meeting. By a coincidence the last scheduled date for racing at Narragansett is Armistice day.

Today's races were canceled again and announcement was made at the track that the New England Futurity, said to have a gross value of $53,000, had been erased from Saturday's racing card.

JERUSALEM JEWISH QUARTER IS ROCKED BY BOMB EXPLOSION

JERUSALEM, Oct. 19.—(AP)—A terrific bomb explosion in the Shimon Hazadik, oriental Jewish quarter of Jerusalem, tonight shattered the brief lull in Palestine disorders. No casualties were reported, but blood spattered on the street was taken by police as an indication that the bomber had been wounded and fled. The premature explosion apparently saved many lives.

Another outbreak occurred when a fusillade of shots was fired at a Jewish bus traveling from Haifa to Jerusalem. Earlier an unsuccessful attempt was made to blow up a Haifa-Egypt train and a brief fusillade was directed at a Jewish colony on Shephelah plain.

British troops blew up three Arab houses in Daharia, near Hebron, in reprisal for an Arab raid on a police arsenal in which rifles were stolen.

YOUNG SLAYER OF COUPLE GOES TO MENTAL TEST

Portland, Me., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Cumberland county authorities, in a surprise move, today whisked Paul N. Dwyer, young South Paris double slayer, to the state insane hospital at Augusta for observation.

His planned arraignment here on a charge of strangling Mrs. Lydia Littlefield of South Paris, at New Gloucester last Friday was postponed when Superior Court Justice George L. Emery granted defense counsel, E. Walker Abbot's, petition to commit him to the hospital.

Abbott said insanity would be the youth's defense when he appeared in Superior court on a charge of murdering Mrs. Littlefield's physician husband at South Paris last week. Dwyer pleaded innocent in Norway Municipal court yesterday to the charge that he killed Dr. Littlefield.

Labor Candidates Win Oslo Municipal Election

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The growing strength of Norway's labor movement was indicated further today by the results of Oslo's municipal elections. Labor candidates were elected to 45 of the 84 seats in the municipal council. This was a gain of two seats. Including the Oslo majority, labor now holds majorities in 23 of Norway's 42 towns and in 182 of 682 rural municipalities.

DEATH OVER GALAPAGOS!

Special Liberty Expedition Discovers Diary Revealing Startling Circumstances Surrounding the Discovery of the Corpses on the Island and the Disappearance of the Baroness and One of Her Lovers

In an attempt to solve the Galapagos mystery—the tantalizing riddle of the Pacific—Charles J. Hubbard and five intrepid sailors braved ocean storms in a 47-foot boat, sailed to the very scenes of the Paradise in the Pacific where the Baroness Eloise Bosquet de Wagner Wehrborn set herself up as Empress of Floreana.

She ruled ruthlessly. She used her charms to wheedle gifts from millionaire yachtsmen and enforced her will at the point of a gun.

Death rode the waves. Two men were found dead on the sandy shores. The Baroness and one of her two lovers mysteriously disappeared.

Hubbard brought home a diary written by Mrs. Heinz Wittmer—last living woman of the death-infested Eden. It reveals an amazing new version of this south seas mystery. By all means, read this remarkable story, "Death Over Galapagos," beginning in this week's Liberty. It's fascinating real-life mystery adventure.

CHINESE TROOPS HURL BACK JAPS IN SHANGHAI WAR

Tanks of Invaders Fail to Pierce Defense.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 20 [Wednesday]. —(AP)—Chinese bombing planes raided Japanese lines in the Shanghai sector today with a mystifying absence of Japanese anti-aircraft fire. The Chinese made a lightning incursion, dropped a half dozen bombs and sped away. The damage was not disclosed.

The Japanese launched another major offensive on all fronts, apparently to expel the Chinese forces from the Shanghai zone before the nine power conference starts Oct. 30 at Brussels to discuss the far eastern conflict. The nine power treaty guarantees China's territorial integrity.

The heaviest fighting was in the Tazang sector, less than six miles northwest of Shanghai, which has become the most vital salient on that front.

Half-Mile Gain Wiped Out.

Led by a fleet of tanks, the Japanese reached a point within two miles of Tazang while Chinese battled fiercely to turn them back. After one Japanese thrust, the Chinese were reported to have launched a powerful counter offensive that wiped out a Japanese half mile gain.

Concentration on Tazang, Chinese said, was a Japanese strategy to cut off Chinese supply lines to Chapei, where Shanghai's defenders are entrenched on the northern edge of the international settlement.

Japanese authorities served notice that all trains, stations, warehouses and railroad equipment now are considered military objectives for bombing operations. They said Chinese railways are transporting military supplies and some trains are armed with machine guns.

100 Civilian Casualties.

At the same time, advices from Hangchow asserted that repeated Japanese air raids on stations and passenger trains of the Hangchow-Shanghai line have killed or wounded more than 100 civilians within the past week. The report said none of the trains or stations contained war materials.

Japan's heaviest air raiders, well protected by pursuit planes, again bombed the Nanking airport Tuesday. The explosion of bombs rattled windows throughout the city.

The raiders then crossed the Yangtze river and dropped a dozen missils on Pukow, starting a fire. They also flew above the United States gunboat Luzon and other foreign ships, dropping other bombs on Nanking's outer defenses.

Army Halted in North.

Japan's war machine in North China was definitly slowed up and in some places completely halted, Peiping reports said. Dispatches from northern Shantung province reported actual withdrawals of Japanese forces.

In Shansi province, Japanese announced they had captured virtually all positions around strategic Sinchow pass, about 50 miles north of Taiyuanfu, provincial capital.

JAP PLAN TO BUY UP COAL SEEN AS SHANGHAI PERIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 20 [Wednesday]. —A Japanese statement from Peiping that the Federation of Electrical Power Concerns in Japan is planning to buy the entire output of the British Kailan coal mines north of Tientsin today caused consternation in Shanghai. Kailan coal constitutes this city's chief fuel supply.

Officials of the Shanghai Power company, owned by the American and Foreign Power Co., Inc., of New York, and directors of Chinese and European industries suspect a Japanese scheme to throttle industries. They believe the Japanese plan to build an industrial base in North China which will be dominated by Japanese armies.

The Japanese said that a subsidiary of the South Manchuria railway had arranged to buy 5,000,000 tons of coal a year from the Kailan mines. In 1901 Herbert Hoover, then an engineer, was general manager of the mining company.

SLAIN BY YOUTH

LOUISE HORNBECK.

Marshall, Mich., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Perl J. Kellay, Calhoun county sherif, said tonight that a young man held in jail here on a morals charge confessed that he ravished and killed Louise Hornbeck, 19, at Grafton, O., last night.

The youth, John William Campbell, 19, of Mount Sterling, Ill., was arrested here and arraigned in Justice court, where he waived examination, on a charge of grabbing a 15 year old girl on her way to high school.

After reading newspaper accounts of the killing of comely Louise Hornbeck at Grafton, supposedly by a kiss snatching stranger, Sherif Kellay questioned Campbell concerning that case and, the officer said, the youth confessed the crime.

Sherif Kellay said Campbell told him he was hitch-hiking from Cleveland toward Chicago and stopped in Grafton last night to eat. Kellay said Campbell declared he grabbed the young woman, ravished her, and hit her on the head with a club, then resumed his hitch-hiking, arriving in Marshall today.

Kellay said Campbell would be held here for Ohio officers, who will come to question him tomorrow.

24 EXECUTIONS BOOST TOLL IN RUSSIA TO 462

MOSCOW, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Disclosure of the execution of twenty-four anti-soviet terrorists today raised to 462 the known death toll in five months for sabotage and espionage.

Khabarovsk newspapers said the twenty-four were executed in the Far East for espionage on behalf of Japan, railroad sabotage and plotting against the lives of soviet leaders.

JAPANESE REDUCE EXPENSES TO PAY FOR WAR IN CHINA

No Danger of Bankruptcy, Leaders Boast.

TOKIO, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The cabinet today approved reductions of $59,000,000 in government expenses for the remainder of the financial year.

The finance ministry asked the cabinet to effect the savings, pleading urgent necessity for Japan to pull her financial belt a notch tighter to meet the cost of the fighting in China.

Two of the nation's industrial giants, both members of the house of peers, declared that Japan can go on indefinitly without danger of bankruptcy.

Ready for a Third Party.

They were Baron Seinosuke Goh, president of the Japan Economic league, and Ginrijo Fujihara, the "paper king." Both said Japan is prepared to pay as she goes and that her economic machinery is geared to bear the strain even if a third power should align herself with China and enlarge the far east conflict.

"The story of Japan's instability is a pleasant fiction of our enemies," Fujihara said. "We no longer are a poor nation."

Japan's financial problem, both said, pivots on the question of imports. Lacking raw materials, Japan must buy in world markets and meet bills from abroad.

Three Phases of Solution.

The financial leaders said the government's solution has three major phases:

1. Reduced home consumption: "For example, when our present stocks of wool are gone we will do without."

2. Increased gold production: "We expect this year to mine about $58,000,000 in gold. In two years, according to our estimates, the empire will be producing around $145,000,000. It is part of the government's plan to use this increasing gold yield for balancing international accounts."

3. Expansion and substitution: "Our productivity is increasing tremendously. The next two years—three at most—will see a sharp reduction in the amount of iron Japan must import. We may even reach self-sufficiency. To a lesser degree the same is true of cotton. And we are finding substitutes for materials we must now import—pulp, for example."

30,000 ARMENIANS URGE DEATH PENALTY FOR CONSUL'S SLAYER

BEIRUT, Syria, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Thirty thousand Armenian residents of Syria and Lebanon today addressed a petition to the Syrian government demanding the death penalty for Meguerdich Karayan, accused of slaying United States Consul General James Theodore Marriner.

The body of Marriner, who was slain last week by an Armenian who believed the American official had refused his request for reëntry to the United States, was escorted from the Anglo-American church to the American Export liner Excambion today for return to the United States.

Meanwhile three doctors examined Karayan to determine if he is sane preparatory to trying him Nov. 2.

TESTIFIES U-BOAT KILLED 9 CHINESE FLEEING IN DINGHY

HONGKONG, Oct. 19.—(AP)—A Chinese owner today testified before British investigators that a submarine attacked persons who fled from his craft under shellfire in South China waters. He said that when the submarine appeared he and the other 31 persons on his boat, including women and children, tried to escape. Shells killed two women, he said.

When the craft went down, the Chinese continued, 17 took to a raft and 12 rowed away in a dinghy. He said the submarine machine gunned the dinghy, killing nine persons. The survivors, he testified, drifted for two days before being picked up.

[The Japanese naval ministry said Oct. 1 that Japanese warships attacked junks in South China waters. The ministry added that the attacks were made in self-defense because a number of junks were armed with guns.]

RESEARCH AND RISKS

By CALEB

RESEARCH is a relatively new fetish. There are research magazines and research organizations. There are talks and addresses on research, and research conventions are held.

Like advertising, in which every one presumes himself to be an expert, research is something every one feels self-qualified to do. This is the cause of a great deal of loss and error, for few things require a more specialized intelligence than real research.

Business is eternally witness to (1) ineffective activities due to lack of research, and (2) ineffective activities due to too hasty, faulty, or frothy research.

A few years ago the country's apple growers had to race boldly into battle against insect pests in concentrated orchard areas. Some of the common sprays recommended to them to kill insects made men sick. As a consequence, apple growers are required by law to wash fruit which may enter interstate commerce. Meanwhile the Department of Agriculture is engaged in investigating effective substitutes for lead arsenate sprays.

A large hospital, anxious to reduce the fire hazard from benzine used in the removal of adhesive tape from patients, adopted carbon tetrachloride. Its vapor does not dissipate into thin air as freely as the vapor of benzine. A four-year-old child collapsed while operative dressings were being removed from her back. The heavy, asphyxiating vapor had temporarily undone the little girl. Artificial respiration saved her.

The results of inadequate research are not always so clearly seen as in the two cases instanced. But they are on every hand.

Large and small businesses enter upon wasteful selling programs which could be predicted beforehand to be fizzles. Compensation plans for employes are adopted without due consideration and in a year or two, weighted down with barnacles of misapplication and failure, they are discarded. Many products are on the market poorly fitted for the purposes they are intended—due to lack of careful research.

Research reduces risks. It is an increasingly important arm of business —and benefactor of the consumer.

POWERS CLASH OVER FOREIGN TROOPS IN SPAIN

Italy Seeks Return to Old "Control" Scheme.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ivan Maisky.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The attempt of the nine power nonintervention subcommittee to patch up an agreement on the withdrawal of volunteers from the Spanish civil war tonight was as far as ever from a solution. After a stormy three hour session the discussions were adjourned until tomorrow, when a fresh effort will be made to avoid a complete breakdown.

The Russian delegate, Ivan Maisky, on the one hand, refused to discuss the granting of belligerent rights to the rebel Gen. Francisco Franco until the last foreign soldier is evacuated from Spain. Italy and Germany demanded belligerent rights be conceded before arranging for a withdrawal of "volunteers."

In order to keep from calling an immediate showdown, with perhaps warlike results, Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, who presided over the subcommittee, got everybody to agree to talk things over once more.

Fascists Seek Delays.

In Whitehall tonight it was stated openly that barring unexpected developments tomorrow's meeting is likely to see the end of the "hands off Spain" committee and the return of Britain and France to "liberty of action."

The seriousness of the situation further was emphasized by the fact that the British cabinet has been summoned to meet tomorrow. Eden will report to the cabinet, then will preside over the meeting of the subcommittee armed with the cabinet's decisions.

The upshot of today's meeting was that the rival Fascist and anti-Fascist factions are back in exactly the same position as last August, when discussions on the volunteer question broke down. The Germans and Italians today showed themselves uncompromising and determined to see Gen. Franco win. They are out for delaying action by the subcommittee.

The French and Russians appear just as determined to see that Franco does not win. The British are more or less committed to back the French, but are holding off to see if they cannot gain some advantage.

Prefer Old British Plan.

The surprise of the session was the proposal by Count Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador to London, that the French five point plan for withdrawal of volunteers be completely discarded and that the committee revert to consideration of the original British scheme on which the discussions were deadlocked Aug. 6.

This scheme, which forms the basis of the new French proposals, provided, first, for the establishment of nonintervention control; second, for the recognition of belligerent rights for Gen. Franco and the Valencia government, and, third for the withdrawal of volunteers.

The Portuguese ambassador to London, Dr. Armindo Monteiro, supporting Italy and Germany, revived the violent attack on Russia which the Portuguese government made a year ago. Czechoslovakia, Sweden, and Belgium, on the other hand, announced full agreement with the French plan.

Twenty sailors have died, 100 vessels have been wrecked, and extensive property damage has been done done along the Turkish coast by the five day storm.

Polish Jews Hold Half Day Strike; Protest 'Ghettos'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—Italian-German friendship, which was demonstrated by Premier Mussolini's recent visit to Berlin, is to be further cemented by a visit of Nazi chiefs to the Italian capital.

Following the trip to Italy of Heinrich Himmler, Nazi chief of police, whose task was to begin preparations for Reichsfuehrer Hitler's visit to Rome next June, it was announced today that a delegation of the Nazi party will attend the celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of Il Duce's march on Rome on Oct. 28 and 29.

Rudolph Hess, deputy leader of the Nazi party, will head the delegation, which will include Victor Lutze, chief of the Storm Troopers, and Nazi leaders of three districts—Berlin, Munich, and Essen—which were visited by Mussolini.

NAZIS OF DANZIG ARREST PRIESTS; ATTACK BISHOP

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 19.—The Danzig senate's attacks on Catholics may seriously affect the Free City's relations with Poland. The Danzig Nazis, after exterminating the Socialist opposition, are now redoubling efforts against the Catholic Center party. Many clergymen and laymen have been arrested.

The bishop of Danzig, Msgr. O'Rourke, was attacked today by the Nazi press, which demanded his recall.

Bishop O'Rourke recently created two new Polish parishes to serve the Polish speaking population. Arthur Greiser, president of the Danzig senate, protested to the Vatican over the head of the Polish government, which, under the Versailles treaty, alone "conducts the Free City's foreign relations." Warsaw reminded the Vatican of the treaty and Greiser's protest remained unanswered.

MADRID TROOPS SMASH ASSAULT OF 8,000 MOORS

600 Killed in Battle Near Toledo.

MADRID, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Spanish government troops reported tonight they had hurled back a rebel thrust by 8,000 Moors on the southern front near Toledo.

Fierce fighting around three government positions cost the rebels 600 killed and many wounded, the government communique said. Government troops were reported to have kept their lines intact, losing no ground.

Madrid police arrested 44 persons as Fascists and 10 others for hoarding food and money.

Rebel Planes Bomb Ships.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Spanish rebel officers declared tonight Villaviciosa was doomed to capture by a pincer-like movement cutting that strategic town off from the sea in the drive on Gijon, objective of their Asturian campaign.

Advance guards reached the mouth of the River Villaviciosa to the north, while troops encircled the town, which is about 18 miles east of Gijon.

[A rebel radio broadcast said Villaviciosa already had been taken.]

Government sources said the rebel infantry attacks were accompanied by aerial bombardment of ships in the Musel harbor [the port of Gijon] and also at Infiesto and Villaviciosa.

[The Valencia war ministry announced that the English vessel Reina had been sunk at Musel. Lloyd's shipping register lists no English vessel of that name, but a 1,400 ton steamer called Reina is listed under Panamanian registry.]

Stand Aids Loyalists.

The Asturians on the northern coastal front, greatly outnumbered, have been holding out 55 days against the rebel drive.

Their ability to defend their dwindling territory was regarded as of vital significance as to the length, if not the outcome, of the entire Spanish civil war. Government officers said their stand had prevented Gen. Francisco Franco from diverting military power to other fronts for his expected fall offensive. The Asturian campaign, they said, is now a race with winter.

Rebel leaders reported a new government offensive southeast of Saragossa failed. They estimated government casualties of the last five days at 15,000.

Rebels Release French Ship.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The navy ministry announced today that Spanish rebels had released the French freighter Cens "upon intervention of French Destroyers." The Cens, carrying ore from Africa to Bayonne, was halted Sunday off Gijon.

IL DUCE DECREES HUGE NEW TAXES TO BUILD EMPIRE

Millions to Be Poured Into Armaments Race.

ROME, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Italian cabinet imposed new taxes today to meet the cost of developing the empire and of participating in the international arms race.

Premier Mussolini also sought to attract foreign capital into Italy by offering to exempt investors from inheritance taxes and guaranteeing that investments would not be seized in event of war. Inheritance tax exemptions would be effective 20 years.

Decree Hits Stock Companies.

Another important action was the issuance of an order to organize a Fascist militia in East Africa, bringing resident Italians into the new legions so as to give "every one a chance to do his Fascist duty."

The total revenue intended to be raised by the new taxes was not officially announced, but authoritative sources estimated that 6,000,000,000 lira [about $315,600,000] would be realized within a year.

Chief among the new taxes was an extraordinary assessment of 10 per cent on capital of stock companies, which the government asserted had for the most part profited through devaluation of the lira and had not been subject to such heavy taxes as others. This levy will be imposed only this year.

Aimed at Balancing Budget.

Other new levies included increased taxes on production, business transactions, sales, and legal paper. The daily sojourn tax on tourists also will be increased. Increases in this group were expected to yield about 1,000,000,000 lira [about $52,600,000] annually.

Virginio Gayda, authoritative writer, explaining the new taxes in the newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia, said the levies would insure a balanced budget for two years.

FRANCE ORDERS HUGE AIR FLEET TO NORTH AFRICA

PARIS, Oct. 19.—(AP)—France today decided to dispatch over 80 first line planes to North Africa—the greatest air force ever sent to a French colony—for fall maneuvers demonstrating her air power to the empire.

The announcement coincided with the council of ministers' decision making former Premier Albert Sarraut virtual dictator of North African administration and a Radical Socialist party report charging Italian agitation among the Moslems. The report said:

"Italy recruits agents and pays propagandists among natives, subsidizes Moslem pilgrimages to Mecca, and uses her radio stations to broadcast anti-French and anti-British propaganda in Arabic."

Ask Plan for Colonial Control.

Sarraut was instructed to present a survey of the colonial situation to the council soon and outline control measures he intends to take.

The air ministry said the plane squadrons will split into four sections leaving Oct. 27, 28, and Nov. 9. According to the schedule the first will cross the Sahara desert to East Africa [where France has a small Somaliland colony], the second will maneuver over southern Tunisia [which borders Italy's Libyan protectorate], the third will fly over northern Algeria, and the fourth will fly southeast as far as Madagascar and eventually on to French Indo-China.

Many of the formations will unite Nov. 11 for an Armistice day aerial parade over Tunis.

Navy Begins Maneuvers.

Meanwhile Minister of Navy Cesar Campinchi and his undersecretary, Francois Blancho, visited the naval airbase at Berre, near Marseilles, then flew to Corsica on a Mediterranean inspection tour which will end at Toulon Friday.

The French Mediterranean fleet, seven cruisers, six destroyers, two torpedo boats and a flotilla of submarines, today began a ten day series of maneuvers off southern France. The maneuvers will extend from the Gulf of Lion, west of Marseilles, to waters near Italy.

LEGION POST TO INSTALL OFFICERS.

LANDON URGES CURB ON POWER OF ROOSEVELT

Puts Blame on President for Lagging Progress.

in which the lawyer demanded of a witness: "Have you stopped beating your wife? Answer yes or no."

Gives Reasons for Lagging.

Mr. Landon then charged that the "real reason why progress has lagged in America is the failure of the President to follow our constitutional form of government and his failure as an administrator."

"The President says that constitutional methods are too slow—it takes too long to do things in the way the constitution prescribes," declared the former presidential nominee.

"But I submit that if we had followed constitutional methods, we would have made many times as much progress as we have made during Mr. Roosevelt's administration."

Mr. Landon divided the President's career into two parts. The first phase was from March, 1933, to July, 1933, "when he performed commendable service."

Long Vision Lacking.

"Then came the second period—the period of working out a far seeing, long range program of social reform," said Mr. Landon. "This was a different situation. This required a different type of ability. This was a job which required quiet, hard, painstaking work."

Just when things began to hum, industry was picking up and people were regaining confidence came the NRA, Mr. Landon recalled. It was then, he said, that "progress stopped, we began to slide back and we lost most of what we gained. And this has been repeated many times."

"Despite the fact that NRA did not work in practice," the speaker said "Mr. Roosevelt continues to insist upon adoption of its theory in one form or another, thus making the same mistake over and over again."

Social Security Unworkable.

Mr. Landon termed the social security act another example of the same policy, well intended and necessary, but unworkable in the form in which Mr. Roosevelt is jamming it through. The present law does not treat all citizens equally, the one thing social security should do, he said.

"It will be changed to correct its errors when it is dealt with intelligently," Mr. Landon said. "This is necessary because Mr. Roosevelt failed to follow constitutional procedure in drafting it."

As for relief—unemployment was the biggest problem when Mr. Roosevelt took office in 1933 and it still is just that, the speaker declared.

But the one thing probably holding back industrial recovery more than any other, he said, is taxes—not the amount, but the confusion over them. No one knows, Mr. Landon asserted, from one year to the next what is going to happen.

Wants Long Time Tax Plan.

"Isn't it time," he asked, "instead of jaunting across the country, that some one stayed home long enough to work out a program of tax legislation that would not have to be changed every year?"

The Kansan predicted that the Wagner act, although born of the same "good intentions," will be another unworkable, messed-up piece of legislation that will have to be done over. He termed it, however, a step in the right direction, "a move in the direction of collective bargaining."

He called the President's labor policies not only unsatisfactory, but dangerous, and accused Mr. Roosevelt of failure to carry out his duty to protect life and property.

He said that when trouble came, the President again failed to follow the constitution; he failed to protect either the men or the property.

"Men were shot and clubbed," Mr. Landon said. "And, according to press reports, the President shrugged his shoulders. He termed it a local affair. He said: 'A plague on both their houses,' and went on another vacation."

Hearings on Black Are Hushed.

Still another case in which constitutional procedure was ignored, the Republican chieftain said, was in the appointment of Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black.

"There is a tradition in our constitutional form of government," he said, "which holds that when a man is to be appointed to an important, nonelective office, he shall be submitted to the scrutiny and white light of public hearings.

"The spirit of our constitution, like our marriage ceremony, states that if any one has reason to show why a man should not be appointed to a public office, 'let him come forward and speak.' I am referring to Justice Hugo Black.

"There was a demand for public hearings, not only on the part of private citizens, but by United States senators. But the administration used all its mighty power to prevent such public hearings—to prevent the operation of our constitutional methods of government.

"Regardless of what side you take in this case, I believe every one agrees that if the constitution had been followed, all of the information concerning Mr. Black would have been presented to the American public before Mr. Black was confirmed.

"This is one of the important incidents to which I referred. I think it illustrates graphically that the constitution does work when you give it a chance to work."

Takes Up War Fears.

Having pointed out the lag in social progress caused by failure to follow the constitution—mistakes that have been costly and repeatedly have set the nation back, but ones that may be corrected—the speaker moved on to his second important point—the present situation where a mistake by the President may lead to war.

"The President's impulsive quarter backing, his readiness to assume the responsibility of a one-man government in international affairs," Mr. Landon declared, "is far more dangerous than the same tendencies in dealing with domestic matters.

"He spoke of quarantines, which mean either economic sanctions or blockade. Our experience with Italy has proven the ineffectiveness of economic sanctions, and blockade means war. The statement that America cannot escape when the rest of the world is at war sounds just like what we were told in 1917.

"By the time the special session of congress convenes it is to be hoped the President will have thought out what he proposes to do. Close observers have increasing doubts if he thought his recent declaration through to its logical conclusion."

Hunger Fans Wild Beliefs.

Mr. Landon said he was not surprised that the American people have been willing to grasp at anything that might appear to be new and different, for "it is hard to think straight on an empty stomach."

"We must remember," he said, "that when you are cold and hungry and you don't know where your next meal is coming from, you can't become very much interested in abstract principles of government.

"But now we have had ample time to find out how some of the new theories are working out. We have had time to appreciate that social progress would have been years ahead today if we had followed constitutional methods during the last four and a half years.

"I do not believe in the constitution because I think it is sacred. I revere it because it is intensely practical—because it works when you give it a chance to work."

The speaker asserted that during the first few months of the Roosevelt administration he was in sincere sympathy and agreement with many of the purposes set forth.

"But now I must say something that I regret to admit," he said. "Mr. Roosevelt is a changed man. He is not the man who was elected in 1932.

"It is apparent that Mr. Roosevelt is going through the same process than transpired in the life of every man in history who was given too much power. Power feeds on power today, just as it did in the day of Julius Caesar.

"And while I feel that Mr. Roosevelt should be given every honor that is due him, the time has come when we must change our methods in Washington. Every fair minded man must concede that many of the questions Mr. Roosevelt has asked are proper, but also it must be conceded that his answers do not work."

More and More Power.

He charged that Mr. Roosevelt usurped almost all of the 1937 session of congress in his quest for more power for himself.

"Now the President has just called a special session of congress," he went on. "In making his announcement he outlined commendable purposes. We all agree with them. That makes it unanimous again. But how is he going to achieve them? First, of course, he asks for more power.

"His government reorganization bill, regardless of what he has said about it, has for its main purpose the placing of practically every federal employé under the thumb of the President, to be hired and fired at his direction.

"The bill also would place the semi-judicial commissions under control of the executive. It will precipitate another controversy just as important as that which occurred in regard to the Supreme court, because once again he strikes at the very heart of constitutional, representative government."

"Forward Under the Constitution."

Recapitulating, Mr. Landon declared there can be only one conclusion: "If we are to go forward from here it must be under the practiced guidance of that great document, the constitution."

"Mr. Roosevelt asks for more power, and still more power, to accomplish his purposes," the speaker said. "As long as he uses lack of power as an alibi we never will make any real progress. Most of the mistakes he has made have been made because he has been given too much power."

Due to the expiration of his radio time, Mr. Landon's speech ended at this point. However, he had prepared for delivery three more paragraphs, which follow:

"We have had a New Deal. Now what we most need in America is a new yardstick—a yardstick to measure the ability and the accomplishments, as well as the good intentions, of public officials.

"It is time to put a solid foundation of workable legislation under the air castles which the President forever is blowing.

"It is time to realize that we must apply the resources of the mind if we are to make the wishes of the heart come true."

MOLEY LASHES ROOSEVELT FOR STIRRING DISCORD

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Prof. Raymond Moley, magazine editor, professor of public law at Columbia university, and one of President Roosevelt's earliest advisers, charged today that the President is creating discord among the people of the United States. He declared that America is at war with itself.

Moley, who is ill, made the remarks in an address read for him by Ralph West Robey, instructor in banking at Columbia, before the American Institute of Accountants.

"One of these days," Mr. Moley said, "somebody is going to capitalize on the growing weariness of the country with the there-are-villains-lurking-in-the-bushes-ready-to-tear-you-to-pieces appeal. Somebody is going to capture the interest of the public by insisting that life isn't a bitter war but a process of continuous adjustment."

PRESENT CHICAGO MERIT AWARD TO GRAHAM TAYLOR

Graham Taylor, founder of the Chicago Commons settlement, 955 Grand avenue, yesterday became the third Chicagoan to receive the Chicago Merit award of the Rotary club. The presentation, at a luncheon in the Hotel La Salle, was made by former Judge Charles M. Thomson, past president of the Chicago Bar association and chairman of the jury of award.

Mr. Taylor, who is 86 years old, founded the commons in 1901 and has operated it continuously. Speaking after the presentation, he urged that class distinctions be wiped out. Many civic leaders, 15 of whom compose the jury of award, attended the ceremonies.

SHORTEN POWER 'YARDSTICK' BY JUGGLING COSTS

Most of TVA Expense Is Laid to Navigation.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—While public ownership cities in the Muscle Shoals area are complaining that the Tennessee Valley authority is selling electricity to industrial concerns at lower rates than to certain municipalities, one criticism here is directed at the subject of navigation.

This item is held to be a fertile field for fancy bookkeeping in the making of the "yardstick" rates for the measuring of a fair rate for electric service. The TVA so far has not made known how much it proposes to chalk off the 520 million dollar cost of the Tennessee project for purposes of navigation and flood control. A change has come over its propaganda.

Power Foremost in 1933.

When TVA started off in 1933, power development was the big word. In the valley was to be fought a great battle between public ownership and private ownership. "No more ambitious program of hydroelectric development has ever been undertaken in this country," said one of the directors here in 1934. In another utterance that year, the expression was "we are working towards no less a goal than the electrification of America." And June 13, 1934, before a senate committee at Washington, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, head of TVA was interrogated:

"In connection with these dams, the entire purpose is the production of electrical energy?" asked Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa.

"That is the major purpose," answered Dr. Morgan. "The purpose of the TVA, of which these dams are a part, is to try to encourage and organize an orderly economic and social development in that region, in place of the past haphazard development."

Now Talk Navigation.

In the last year or so, however, TVA has been throwing more emphasis on things other than power. It has been playing up the business of navigation and flood control, and puts them in the window display.

The 1937 booklet of the TVA and its activities, puts navigation and flood control out in front and presents attractive pictures of floods and locks, and of fishing and recreational spots made by the reservoirs. It speaks of a nine foot channel from Paducah to Knoxville which will add 642 miles to the inland waterways of the Mississippi valley. It says, however, "the river could have been developed solely for navigation by a series of low dams."

Engineers Tell Saving.

In the controversy, critics point to a report in 1930 from the U. S. army engineers that indicates what low dams would have saved the American taxpayer in the cost of the TVA experiment in social planning. Development of navigation on the Tennessee by the federal government has been going on for more than a hundred years.

Army engineers figured in 1930, that for adequate navigation purposes low head dams could be built at a cost of $74,709,000. As to power the army engineers took the position that if possibilities of power were to be realized, private interests should supply all funds over the 74 million cost of low dams.

Likewise the army engineers held that the flood damage in the valley, including tributaries and the so-called "500-year floods," averaged around $1,784,000. This loss, critics figure could have been repaid by the proceeds from a fund of 45 million dollars set aside at 4 per cent interest.

Power Cost 400 Millions.

From these figures, the public utilities estimate that navigation and flood damage items at the top sum, would justify a federal expenditure of less than 120 millions out of the 520 millions the TVA is to cost. The difference of 400 million is an engineer estimate of what the power end of the valley project is to cost. The TVA booklet, however, says "Power is not a primary object."

Based on the hearings in Washington, the public utilities of the valley declare it appears TVA proposes to allocate only about 190 million of the 520 million cost to the item of power, and that the difference, 330 millions apparenty is to be allocated to navigation and flood control.

No figures have been given by TVA on what the final allocations will be, but it is in these outside items that the bookkeepers are expected to find full play for legerdemain that will cover the hidden costs of the hydroelectrical energy and the subsidy which taxpayers all over America will pay in interest on public debt.

FPC too Exuberant.

Inside the TVA board have appeared divergent views on the actual costs of the TVA electricity used by the cities in the valley. A fortnight ago Dr. Morgan was reported from Washington, as telling the federal power commission it was making out too exuberant a case for public development and sales in three towns served by TVA. These were Tupelo, Miss.; Athens, Ala., and the Alcorn County Power association, serving Corinth, Miss.

The power commission's report compared old rates under private operation as against new rates under TVA, and said the average to consumers had decreased in two years to less than one-half the old cost, while consumption had increased twofold and threefold. Dr. Morgan in his reported discussion at Washington mentioned, for instance, that promotional and advertising costs, extremely heavy in these towns, had not been counted into the expenses of the municipal plants, but were paid by TVA. This means paid by the general taxpayer.

ROOSEVELT INTENT ON CHANGING U. S. FORM, FORMER AID CHARGES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Albert Levitt, former assistant to the attorney general, declared today that President Roosevelt is determined to change this country's form of government, partly by "subordination and, if necessary, the destruction of the Supreme court."

Levitt, who recently made an unsuccessful effort to unseat Associate Justice Hugo L. Black, expressed his views in a letter to Frank E. Gannett, New York publisher and chairman of the National Committee to Uphold Constitutional Government.

Gannett made public the letter and also a telegram of his own renewing a challenge to Robert H. Jackson, assistant attorney general, to debate with Levitt publicly on the question: "Does President Roosevelt intend and plan to abolish the Supreme court of the United States and to destroy the present constitutional powers and duties of its judges?"

EDITORIAL BLAST LAUDED IN FIGHT ON DEMAGOGS

An occasional stick of editorial dynamite is an efficacious practice of modern journalism in jolting the demagog, James G. Stahlman, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, yesterday told the Inland Daily Press association. The association today will conclude its two day fall meeting in the Hotel Sherman.

"Within recent years, the politician has become very touchy," Mr. Stahlman said. "He has set himself above and beyond his neighbor, as a sort of demi-god, to be held free from criticism. He has come to think that because of the availability of radio to disseminate his own propaganda, he can defy the public and snoot the press."

Editorial dynamite, the speaker declared, has the tendency now and then to bring the demagog to his senses. "The public, on the other hand," he continued, "is still able to hear him howl and it finds considerable glee in seeing a courageous press bring a political trickster and mountebank up with a jerk."

ENGRAVERS HAIL NEWSPAPER USE OF COLOR PRINT

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The American Photo Engravers association is convinced that daily newspapers in color are a thing of the near future. Delegates to the annual convention agreed that "color is the backbone of our business."

President Albert Hoffman of San Francisco in his opening address pointed to color pictorial magazines to prove that color tells the complete story in pictures."

"Any number of Sunday papers use color profusely," he said. "Modern methods of color processing will make it possible for daily newspapers to do likewise."

REJECT WOMEN ON JURY TO TRY JOHN MONTAGUE

Golf Wizard Faces Court in 1930 Theft Case.

Elizabethtown, N. Y., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The state today began its drive to send John Montague, legendary Hollywood golfer and playmate of movie stars, to prison for a seven year old $700 robbery by abruptly rejecting the first prospective women jurors.

In court yesterday.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Without comment District Attorney Thomas W. McDonald excused Mrs. Ethel Betters and Mrs. Katherine Lamoy of Lake Placid and Mrs. Helen Mitchell, a Westport, N. Y., housewife, who already had served on a jury in a civil case under a state law effective last Sept. 1.

Avoid Any Sentimentality.

As the trial opened, McDonald declared he wanted to avoid any sentimentality in the case, and added that Montague's recent life in Hollywood should have no bearing on the evidence.

Three Men Are Excused.

Besides the women, three men were excused by the defense before the first juror was accepted. He is John Gardner, Lake Placid carpenter.

The stocky, genial golfer, whose phenomenal drives and deadly chip shots earned him the reputation of "a master of the links" will be aided by the movie stars with whom he became friends in California — Bing Crosby, Guy Kibbee, Oliver Hardy, Otto Kruger, Richard Arlen, and Andy Devine.

OMAHA PREPARES TO TAKE SYPHILIS FIGHT INTO PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Plans to carry the fight against syphilis into the schools, and to ask WPA aid for its control, were announced here today. The board of education has approved a series of educational lectures in Omaha high schools. Talks by "carefully selected" speakers will be given separately for boys and girls. Students will not be required to attend.

The WPA project, for which Washington approval is expected, would operate under the city health department. The city would furnish supplies, space and equipment, the WPA trained nurses and clerks.

The nurses would check clinics where sufferers report and list all recent cases. If the victims failed to return to treatment, the nurses would call upon them, ascertain the reason, and make appointments.

Tonight she will occupy a box seat in the Civic Opera house while Chicago burns again in the "Light of Ages" reproduction of the fire. On the stage a tiny fleeing figure will again carry the doll that Mrs. Smith, now 72 years old, clutched 66 years ago. The spectacle, which brings to an end Chicago's Charter Jubilee, will be given nightly through Saturday, with Wednesday and Saturday matinées.

ST. LOUIS PLANS WAR ON SYPHILIS; DOCTOR TELLS OF THE PERILS

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Social diseases cost St. Louis $2,071,000 to $2,560,000 annually, Dr. Richard S. Weiss declared today. He said that would be "the next great plague to go." He is president of the Missouri Social Hygiene association.

He estimated one out of every 10 persons in large metropolitan areas has or has had syphilis. He added "we know the cause, we know how it spreads, and we have the medicine to cure it. With the help of an enlightened public this disease can be conquered in a single generation."

Mrs. James E. Grossman, president of the St. Louis women's chamber of commerce, urged that St. Louis start a campaign against the disease similar to that recently undertaken in Chicago.

SUN SUITE READY FOR YOUNG SNITE IN HIS IRON LUNG

Miami Beach, Fla., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Workmen finished a three room sun suite today atop the beach home where Fred B. Snite Jr. will spend the winter in an "iron lung."

Attended by twenty-two persons, relatives, physicians, and nurses, Snite will arrive here by train from Chicago tomorrow morning.

Smiling, he passed through Atlanta today in a glass inclosed observation car.

Snite's father said he was standing the trip well.

Mr. Snite in a statement at Atlanta estimated he was spending $1 for each breath drawn by his son. The $2,300 "iron lung" functions at the rate of $15 time a minute. The cost during the trip was $20,000 a day.

BANDITS STRIP CLOTHING FROM 2 IN ROBBERIES

Two bandits who stripped their two victims to their underwear were sought yesterday by Homewood county highway police. The bandits abducted Thomas Flickinger, a mail carrier, in front of his home at 3616 Fur street, East Chicago, forced him to drive to Calumet City, took his clothing and $8, and pushed him out. Later, using Flickinger's coupé, they kidnaped Charles Hegliene, gas station operator at 726 Ridge road, Oak Glen. WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM
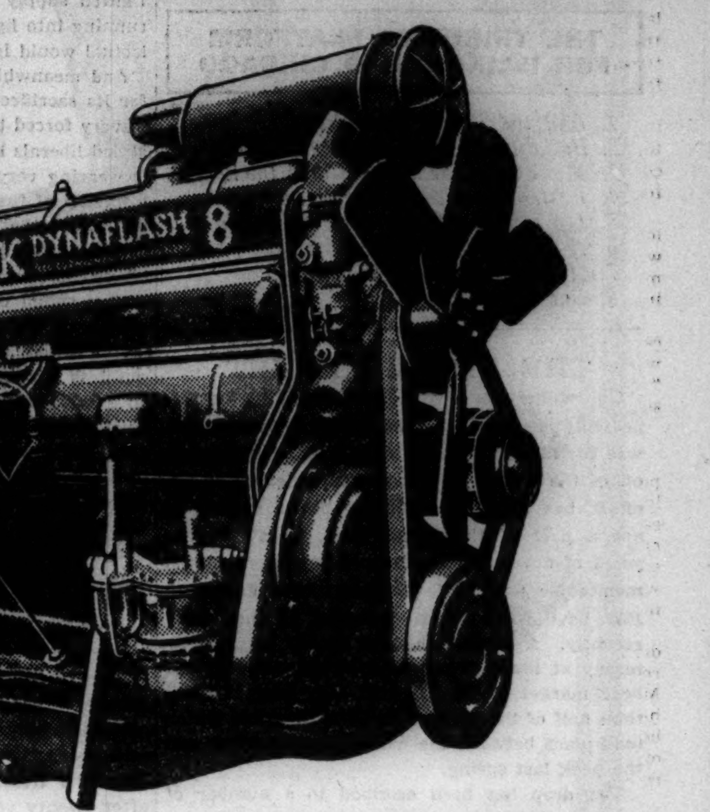
AN EYE TO THE FUTURE AN EAR TO THE GROUND

"Buick carries the banner forward"



Featuring the DYNAFLASH ENGINE and TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING — in the Most Modern Chassis in the World

THE GAS TREADLE to which you put your foot in the new Buick looks like any other.

The wheel has a familiar feel in your hand.

Gas still flows in measured draughts — spark plugs spit their intermittent fire.

But you won't drive a hundred yards behind the DYNAFLASH engine without sensing that something marvelously new and different is happening here.

It is something that happens in no other car, in no other engine — something so desirably different that a full explanation is due you.

★ ★ ★ ★

WHAT happens, briefly, is this: Speeding from the carburetor through the intake manifold, the fuel charge hurricanes into the cylinder at something like 250 miles an hour.

Leaping to meet it is the piston, with a unique device called a Turbulator built into its face.

Such is the carefully calculated profile of this Turbulator that it churns the fuel draught into a sudden cyclone of terrific turbulence.

Then occurs something more than high-compression—literally cyclompression—as this swirling gale of gasoline vapor is compacted around the spark plug.

The fat spark leaps, a fiery, fist-size hurricane lets go.

Pressures jump to four times normal, the piston flashes down in a swifter, stronger power stroke — gasoline vapor gives up more performance than it has ever given up before in a commercial engine!

★ ★ ★ ★

The hills that lift before you suddenly seem to level out less steep.

You greet the green lights with a thrill in every take-off, the car has lift, you thread traffic with new mastery and ease.

All this might seem enough for inspired engineering science to lavish on a car in a single season.

But matching DYNAFLASH power in importance as a major engineering advance is Buick's new TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING, and the arroflite ride it provides.

★ ★ ★ ★

TAKE A BUICK over a railroad crossing—there's none of that rear-end thud and chatter you've known.

Swing it around a curve — there's no tail swing, no roll, no under-steering or over-steering, no squeal.

Search out a bumpy road—wheels may dance but the body rides level, you cover the rough going with the silk-smoothness of a panther on the prowl!

The old leaf-type spring is gone.

In its place each wheel has a soft, shock-smothering, uniformly flexing cushion of stout coiled steel.

No shackles, no spring covers, no grease points to watch. Nothing to go wrong, wear out, or clog with dirt, rust, grease.

You're safer — skid risks are blessedly reduced. You save money — rear tires last measurably longer. You're more comfortable — the whole eager car handles more surely and easily because of TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING.

And summer or winter, with 50 or 50,000 miles behind you, you have the same soft cushioning unaltered by either wear or weather!

★ ★ ★ ★

IF it's thrilling and thrifty power you're after, you'll choose Buick this year for its amazing DYNAFLASH engine.

If it's matchless comfort and security, you'll want the safety-cushioning of the TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING ride.

With either you get the other — plus half a score important features that would be headline news in any other car.

You can learn about them all from the nearest Buick dealer, now waiting to show you this modern engineering marvel.

Please don't stop with looking at it. Give yourself the full knowledge of DYNAFLASH power and the lullaby ride of TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING by sampling them first-hand on the open road.

NEWS NOTE:

Buick dealers in all parts of the country are now showing 1938 models of the first and only cars ever to offer the phenomenally efficient DYNAFLASH valve-in-head engine and the safer new TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING. Educational demonstrations by arrangement, with no obligation to you.

THIS CAR SHIFTS FOR ITSELF!

Buick SPECIAL, Series 40 models can be obtained on special order with the new Buick Self-Shifting Transmission, built-in at the factory, at extra cost. In all ordinary driving, gear shifts are made up or down automatically, without attention to clutch or gas treadle and without taking your hand from the wheel. 90% of all travel is in a new quiet "fourth" speed which saves 10% or more on gas and up to 50% on oil. Front seat floor is cleared by removal of gear shift lever.

THE STOCK MARKET.

One of the results which the new deal has repeatedly declared it was going to accomplish was the filling in of the valleys and the leveling off of the peaks. It is now quite clear that the effort has failed or that the stock market is not a part of the grand plan. In all of the years of unregulated economic life, in all of the memorable panics of the past, never except in 1929 have stock prices collapsed as they have recently. A considerable list of stocks sold yesterday at lower prices than at any time in the bear market of '30, '31, and '32. Lost is more than half of the average advance in prices which took place between the banking moratorium and the peak last spring.

The drop has been ascribed to a number of causes. It has been said to be due to the accumulation of large inventories. Some increase has no doubt taken place, but no one pretends that the stores of goods are a major fraction of what they were in 1920. Then the bank credit of the country was stretched to the breaking point to carry mountains of goods at prices averaging 2½ times the pre-war level. By comparison, present inventories are of exceedingly small proportions. Credit is easy. Commercial paper is not 8 per cent, as it was in 1920, but 1 per cent or a little more. However, the decline which has taken place in security prices is greater than that from the peak of 1920 to the lowest point in 1921.

Some have said that the market decline is a reflection of an intermediate recession of business. A particularly severe "intermediate" recession in business occurred in 1923 and 1924. Steel ingot production in July of the latter year was off more than 40 per cent from the high point in May of the year before. The index of manufacturing production for the country declined 20 per cent. But industrial stocks at the low point in 1924 were off only 15 per cent from the peak of 1923. This time the drop has amounted to 40 per cent.

Others have credited the precipitate fall of stocks to the war scare. There have been war scares before and the market has responded with lower prices. In 1895 President Cleveland became irritated at the attitude shown by Great Britain in a boundary dispute between Venezuela and British Guiana and made direct threats of force. A war with England loomed and the market fell. But the accumulated decline amounted to only about a quarter of that experienced in the recent recession.

At the outbreak of the world war a selling wave struck the markets, resulting in the closing of the New York Stock exchange. When it reopened, after a lapse of nearly six months, with the country suffering from a depression, there was a further decline [war orders did not come until about the middle of 1915]. The decline from the highest price in 1914 to the lowest in 1914 or 1915 was only a little more than 20 per cent.

Based upon the past, it appears that none of the explanations of the 1937 drop is adequate. It has been greater than when any of the forces were actually at work which now are only under suspicion.

Past markets have, however, been free from two principal influences. Always before the state of government finances was sound. In the present instance they are decidedly unsound. It is noteworthy that the worst day in the recent stock decline came the morning after the President disclosed that the deficit this year will be appreciably larger than his earlier forecasts.

This market is distinguished from others in an additional important respect. In the past the market machinery was directed by men of experience who kept the markets orderly and were willing to risk their own funds to keep declines within limits. Now the exchange officers have been deprived of their authority and industrial leaders may no longer support issues in which they have long term investments. Hence, there is no support in the market. The severity of the collapse of the market can be attributed to the absence of support and the fact that the exchanges are controled by college professors who learned all they know about the market from getting their fingers burned in trying to play it.

MR. McCARTHY'S PAY.

Joe McCarthy has signed a three year contract. Col. Jacob Ruppert of the New York Yankees will pay Mr. McCarthy $35,000 a year because Di Maggio, Gehrig, and other young men can hit a baseball. They can also catch it and throw it about accurately. They do it so well that they form a league all by themselves. First they defeat the American league and then they defeat the National league.

Mr. McCarthy sits on a bench and watches them. He enjoys it and so does Col. Ruppert, who also sits and watches. Col. Ruppert enjoys it so much that he gives Mr. McCarthy the $35,000 where he sits, which is pretty sitting, and would be in a much more abundant life. Thirty-five thousand dollars a year to watch your own team win, knowing that it must win, is something a little bit too good for any one. Ask Harry Kipke of Michigan. Ask any football coach, even Bierman of Minnesota, or ask Mr. Grimm of the Cubs.

Baseball owners are not supposed to be soft shakes. They do not shower down just because some one sits down under a tree. They are the only exploiters in the country who can get by with a system of human bondage and make even the chattels like it. New deals do not touch them. Possibly Mr. McCarthy does more than sit and watch Gehrig and Di Maggio knock home runs. Any manager could do that, and only one manager has the Yankees. The idea is heretical these days that something at the top of management has the particular something which makes it go. It is supposed to go by itself.

IN THE COMMUNIST UTOPIA.

Day by day news comes from the communist Utopia of the "liquidation" of another batch of proletarians. Liquidation seems to be a habit difficult to break. Communists were enthusiastic about it while it was disposing of the aristocracy, the professionals, the merchants, and the kulaks. Our intellectuals in love with communism conveniently ignored the slaughter. But now that the classless society has long been achieved how is it that liquidation goes merrily on among the proletariat? There is, of course, an almost unlimited supply of them, but the casualty list is running into figures that only an American intellectual would ignore.

And meanwhile what is the proletariat getting for its sacrifices, its universal moral and mental slavery forced by persistent terrorism? Our self-styled liberals have been telling us, but the story is wearing very thin. For twenty years the dictatorship of the proletariat has been in supreme control of the vast resources of Russia. It has destroyed all opponents or driven them into exile when they were lucky enough to escape the execution squad or the long misery of the timber camps. It has written into the records of despotism the bloodiest page of mass murder, the most ruthless system of terrorism in modern times. In a land among the most fertile on earth it has to its credit two of the greatest famines in history, the second connived at for the destruction of a class condemned for thrift and intelligence. It has abolished all the means evolved through the centuries of man's struggle for freedom of body and spirit to protect and enjoy that freedom, free speech, free press, free trial. In short, it has established as comprehensive, searching, and resistless tyranny as ever existed in human history.

All this dreadful overthrow of the elements of human progress has been accomplished for the ostensible purpose of raising the masses to power and prosperity. But no people has less power than the Russian proletariat and the workers, after twenty years of communism, have a lower standard of living, lower real wages, poorer housing, clothing, and food than any equivalent workers under the alleged injustices of capitalism. According to soviet statistics covering 1935 the average monthly wage of all employés and workers was 190 rubles. [The Russian ruble has a nominal value of 20 cents. That is the official conversion value for foreigners. But the workman is paid off in a ruble which is worth about 5 cents, and on the Black Bourse sales have been made on that basis.]

Compared to an average wage scale of $70 for the American worker in 1933, a time of depression, the victim of capitalism, W. H. Chamberlain estimates, could purchase in food staples from 5 to 12 times as much as the happy beneficiary of communism. We are quoting from a book every American should read, "Collectivism," written by Mr. William Henry Chamberlain, who for twelve years lived in soviet Russia and speaks from direct observation of its conditions under the régime of Lenin and Stalin. Mr. Chamberlain is what is called a liberal in our country and went to Russia as correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor with a sympathetic attitude toward the Russian experiment, but his experience has dismissed illusions. "If it were not for the extravagant claims of official soviet propaganda [e. g., the repeated assertion that the soviet union has abolished poverty] and for the tall tales set in circulation by some returned tourists and stay-at-home enthusiasts for the soviet union it would be scarcely necessary to labor the point that the American standard of living, even during the most severe crisis of half a century, remained vastly superior to the Russian" Not only that, but Mr. Chamberlain offers soviet statistics to show that after two decades of the communist Utopia the proletariat is worse fed than it was under tsarism.

Communism in Russia has not brought peace to the proletariat, or security, or plenty. It promised to establish a classless society. It has brought forth a new privileged class and new aristocrats more tyrannical and hardly less competent than those it destroyed. Worst of all, it has created a system of propaganda called education which shuts off all knowledge of the outside world, all free inquiry or criticism from the masses. By this means, backed by organized force and terrorism, it has reduced the Russian people to a slavery more hopeless than tsardom could impose.

PRISON HUNGER STRIKE.

[Rockford (Ill.) Register-Republic.]

Just what part sentimentality played in the recent tension at Stateville prison in Joliet, where 1,000 prisoners went on a hunger strike, we do not know. But there seems to be something in the contention of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation, that "moo cow sentimentalism" plays a major part in most of our prison troubles in the United States.

The hunger strike was described by the prisoners as a protest against prison food, although menus announced by authorities seemed ample for any individual, let alone a prisoner. Warden Ragen described the "strike" as resentment against the state board of pardons and parole. The board had greatly restricted the number of clemency awards. Only three of 274 applications for parole in September received approval.

The "strike" might almost be regarded as humorous, if it did not involve such tragic possibilities. It is rarely that such prison revolts do not end in bloodshed. Sentimentalists who have been prating about the wonders of early reform have created in the minds of many criminals the conviction that release after a brief term is almost a right. The issue of adequate punishment for crime seems to have been ignored in the insistent demands for freedom after only the minimum of indeterminate sentences has been served.

Respect for law is not going to be served if ear is given by authorities to the soppy appeals of so-called humanitarians and the oleaginous connivings of politicians to get release for influential criminals.

MEMO ON ECCENTRICITIES of elevated and suburban train riders, if you're interested in them: When Contrib J. H. T. told us about the woman who writes her shopping list on the elevated station billboards we conducted a little research. Many women who work downtown do that. They jot down mentally all the things they need at the grocery, on their way to the station. Then they write the list on a poster and forget it. When they return in the evening they read it and stop to make purchases on the way home from the station. It's sure, they say: they can't lose it. They have to write big letters, though, if their station has one platform for trains down and another for trains back, so they can read across the tracks.

People who draw mustaches and blot out teeth on figures in the posters seldom are artists. A new form of alteration is now appearing, however, and the persons responsible are poetical. They revise, correctly and with rare intelligence, poster verses that don't scan. These critics work in broad daylight, but the mustache drawers late at night when no one's looking.

Well dressed women try those newer slot machines that have a choice of several levers to pull, to see if any one has put a penny in and left it because he didn't pull the right one. Quite often the women get a stick of gum or a square of chocolate, and it's a red letter day for them. One woman we know had a high week—clicked six times. The penny scale men aren't sure the mirrors are a good idea. The mirrors attract many customers, but many more, the scale men suspect, give up trying to weigh themselves because some woman's using the scales to make up. There's grave doubt that the peanut machines would be profitable if it weren't for the pigeons.

THE SONNET.

The sonnet is a small hamburger steak,
Cooked to a turn and seasoned for a queen,
Garnished with tender lettuce leaves to make
Its cheek a deeper brown amid the green;
It should be laid as softly as a child
Between twin blankets of the whitest bread
With a young onion, crisp and undefiled,
And just the lightest touch of mustard-spread.

And when the teeth sink deep into its heart
And the digestive juices start to rise;
When the tongue feels the mustard's first faint smart,
And onion fumes wake tears within the eyes—
But, ah, my friend, 'twere better not to bite it,
And for the sonnet—better not to write it.

MINOR DISORDERS OF THE EYELIDS.

A MOST annoying and troublesome minor disorder affecting the eyes of children—often of older persons—is the common sty. This is an infection of one of the small glands along the edge of the lid with a pus forming germ—the staphylococcus. Tiny yellow points on the border are surrounded by an area of redness and swelling and are responsible for severe discomfort until they open spontaneously or are punctured.

For the most part the ailment occurs in children whose resistance to this particular germ has been lowered by some general infection such as a common cold or influenza. Those whose nutrition is below par, or who lack some of the essential vitamins, may fall ready victims. The malady is associated frequently with another type of infection—known as blepharitis—which may affect all of the lash roots. In this latter condition the eyes water and the lid borders, which are red and inflamed, become covered with scales.

When a sty develops the proper treatment is to apply heat until a yellow point arises, when the abscess should be opened by the family doctor under careful aseptic precautions. This is followed by the escape of pus and disappearance of the infection within a day or two.

Prevention of further trouble, however, demands a building up program with attention to diet, fresh air, and good hygiene. Cod liver oil or some of its substitutes is advised.

Local infections of the eye coverings are treated by the application of an ointment containing yellow oxide of mercury or zinc oxide. This must be persisted in if we expect to avoid recurrences. In some cases the disease of the lash roots is more obstinate and may require several light doses of X-ray to bring about complete healing.

Blepharitis should be given care in its early stages. If it has existed for weeks or months the lashes fall out and may be lost permanently. If the roots have not been destroyed the hairs on regrowth may asume an abnormal position so as to irritate the eye by rubbing. In such cases the deformity is likely to prove dangerous as well as ugly.

Another disease which is somewhat similar to the sty is known as chalazion. This is a larger lump which forms in the lid—a short distance from the border. It feels to the patient like a small bullet under the skin which is movable over it. There is little or no inflammation connected with this sort of growth, but pressure on the eye occasioned by the nodule causes slight changes in refraction and symptoms of irritation. In addition, the bumps are unsightly. The trouble is due to closure of the ducts of one of the larger glands with retention of its waxy secretion. This confined material may bring on a mild inflammation of the tissues resulting in a small tumor mass.

If left to themselves these affairs become somewhat smaller but do not disappear entirely and usually call for surgical removal. To prevent return of the symptom the glands must be massaged to free them of all retained secretion. A chalazion is likely to recur repeatedly in persons with very oily skins.

There seems to be no doubt that persons with refractive errors are especially liable to both sties and chalazions. It is not understood exactly why this should be the case, but it is known that correction by the use of properly fitted glasses often results in complete freedom from both difficulties.

UNEMPLOYABLE.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—If any one is to be sent to nose around the confidential records of people under the relief system in our city, let it be some one who knows the problems of human nature and not one who snows as little psychological and social knowledge as Mr. O'Neil.

Dealing professionally with fairly poor people, I think I have the right to speak when they are assailed and defenseless. If all evaluation by Mr. O'Neil will be as clever as the one published under the title, "Reliefers remain idle on strange alibis," then THE TRIBUNE should save the space for something else.

If he thinks that any sane person will be sold on the idea of sending the mother of eight children to work because her drunkard husband cannot be found, then he must think the public stupid. Her place is at home, caring for those eight children with the help of city funds while the police are trying to catch up with the husband. Or should the social worker do that for the police? As to the treatment for syphilis, we know that unfortunately there is no law compelling one to take treatment. What then can the social worker do in such a case?

What is the criteria of "unemployable"? Is it one who can still do something but no employer would consider employing him, or one who is totally incapacitated for any work?

In my experience with people I have found that the greater per cent of people on relief are under constant suspicion by their neighbors. An innocent sneeze, so to say, is considered a breach of the moral code; a new hat, the amassing of a fortune with relief money. True, there are those who cheat, but it's up to the public to report facts of it to the relief authorities for investigation instead of gossiping about it. But there are also honest people who were forced to seek relief.

The most important fact, however, is the opening of confidential records of the relief offices to the news reporters. As a professional woman I must strongly protest against such breach of confidence. All too soon you will begin to nose around in the records of the medical, legal, and other professions. You have started where the start seemed easiest to you. DR ANNA L. MISTARZ.

HE FAVORS A BOYCOTT.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The letter of Mr. B. H. Dunn raises the question, "Wouldn't China, perhaps, be better off under Japanese rule than torn by revolutionary parties and communism. . . . ?" Even the Japanese militarists themselves, who are in fact the only group in Japan responsible for this present conflict, would not ask such a childish question.

China, having been unified solidly for the past several years, has made rapid progress in reconstruction and in national defense, a fact almost unbelievable even for those who left China a few years ago. I had the opportunity of witnessing with my own eyes the tremendous progress made in China last spring, and was amazed at the pace of her industrial development.

Japan attacks China now because she fears that if she doesn't strike at this time China may be too strong for her in the future.

Of course, we Americans should not involve ourselves in armed conflict with Japan, but we can coöperate with England and other democratic countries in an economic boycott against Japan. This is a peaceful and effective means to bring insane Japan to reason.

RIGA, Latvia.—Geniuses in Russia, and especially literary geniuses, will have to behave better in the future if they wish to retain their huge incomes, the Moscow Isvestia warned recently. Authors, poets, and actors are the highest salaried class in Russia. Frequently an artistic temperament, combined with an income often mounting to 200,000 rubles [$40,000] per year, provides temptations which many gifted bolshevik youths are unable to overcome. The time has come, Izvestia said, when the GPU [secret police] must investigate the private lives of the genius. Hereafter "disgusting personal conduct" will not be condoned.

"A short time ago a young poet lived in Leningrad," the paper said. "In the state literary directory he was listed as a 'young genius.' Somewhere, early in his career, he acquired a shirt embroidered with roosters, a bird which became the symbol of his life—noisy, polygamous, and blatant. This genius never washed himself or his shirt. He made this a principle. He regarded himself as coming from Mother Earth and thought water disgusting because combined with earth it made mud.

"Thus he walked around, disagreeable, dirty, and his red face swollen from drinking.

"The well-bred guardians of our literature regarded all this with patient endurance. The self-made genius, they said, had the right of way. His verses became as debauched as the roosters on his shirt."

But the hour of retribution finally arrived, Izvestia continued. The paper told how the GPU searched the poet's desk and found important documents which he had been delivering to foreign consulates. The genius was shot as a bad example and a traitor.

"The lesson we must draw from this is that one cannot look through one's fingers when regarding the strange weaknesses which are termed 'the personal life of our geniuses,'" Izvestia said.

"For instance, in Moscow we have a composer, M. Mosolov, who is a capable musician, but he deserves the 'fame' of a drunkard and debauchee. His behavior at party meetings caused comment, but because he was regarded as a genius no one dared to interfere.

"In Kiev some actors were the drinking comrades of Deputy Commissar Vatulia and other enemies of the nation who were recently shot. In the club of the Moscow conservatory the secretary of the Communist Youth's union, Gribin, and the 'Predprofkom' Gorkov arranged a debauch to celebrate the end of the summer holidays. The party ended in a general battle, windows and dishes being smashed, and the police were called to restore order. Naturally, no arrests were made because a number of geniuses were present who were prominent in the fighting.

"During a barnstorming tour of the Moscow Art Workers' theater in the provinces, Director Vailski attempted to rape his colleague, the artist G. The local party committee investigating G.'s charges excused Vailski's shameless conduct.

"The former leading actor of the Tula Dramatic theater acquired five wives in as many different towns. In Leningrad the Bolshoye Dramatic theater invited the famous producer, M. Diki. He was a drunkard and scandal maker. The period of his activity is best characterized not by the spectacles in the theater, but by the parties in his apartment. He was paid 200,000 rubles for the season and tried to drink it all. His colleagues did his work and let him amuse himself.

"Our popular Moscow poet, Peter Oretschkin, has recently been summering at the resort Gagri. None of his poems have appeared for months. He is busy gaining fame in a different way. In the restaurant there he became so wild that the waiters had to procure a fishing net in which they tied him and carried him, not to the police station, but to his bed.

"It is time for the authorities to investigate the 'weaknesses of genius' and to discover at what point their private life must conform itself to the requirements of the public."

MAYOR SUBMITS PROGRAM TO END TRANSIT TANGLE

Outlines 157 Million Plan for Unification.

Exclusive of the cost of the city's acquisition of the west side elevated structures, the cost of constructing and converting structures is placed at 58 million dollars, of which 43 million would be expended during the first four years of the program and the remainder in the fifth and sixth years.

Mayor Kelly said it is believed these amounts are available without levying special taxes or special assessments. He listed as sources for the public investment the following: the traction fund, federal and state road funds, Cook county bond funds, federal works agencies, compensation from the unified company, and the fuel and vehicle tax funds.

Schedule of Investments.

Year.	Public Investment.	Company Investment.
1	$ 7,706,666	$10,710,400
2	9,056,666	15,105,300
3	19,079,666	17,220,600
4	6,750,000	17,430,600
5	8,000,000	7,902,200
6	8,000,000	10,495,000
7	....	8,540,000
8	....	9,577,000
9	....	1,747,000
Totals	$58,592,998	$98,728,100

The public investment does not include the cost of acquiring elevated highway structures for conversion into superhighways.

Much Replacement Needed.

"Much of the company investment is required to replace worn out or antiquated vehicles with new and modern equipment which can be purchased on the equipment trust plan," Mayor Kelly said.

"Assuming the use of this financing method and adopting conservative forecasts of future revenues and expenses and establishing adequate allowances for depreciation, it is estimated that revenues at the present rates of fare, plus the use of less than 26 million dollars of the now available cash reserves of the companies, will be ample to meet the cash requirements of this improvement program.

Expects Reasonable Return.

"It is indicated that the operation of this unified system not only will pay these expenses and compensation to the city but also will develop earnings sufficient to pay a reasonable return on all securities representing a fair valuation of the transportation properties.

"The improvements required of the company include the rehabilitation of approximately two-thirds of the surface lines for improved street car operation, the conversion of one-third of the street car system to trolley coaches and gas buses, installation of buses to operate over 170 miles of surface express lines and 130 miles of extension on existing lines, and installation of modern steel equipment and all up to date safety devices on the subway, rapid transit, and superhighway lines."

Reasonable Valuation Necessary.

Mayor Kelly declared it is vitally important to the investors and to the city that a reasonable initial valuation and capitalization of the new company be established in order to permit improvements without an excessive capital structure which would require an unreasonable and uncollectible rate of fare.

If a broad program of rehabilitation results from his suggested plan, Mayor Kelly said, there will be many public and private benefits.

"The community will benefit by enhanced property values, stimulation to building and expansion, reduction in noise and street congestion, and a reduced trafic accident rate," he said.

"The car rider will benefit by more frequent and convenient service, faster travel time, really universal transfers, and by the use of modern safe and attractive equipment.

"The company and its owners will benefit by the assurance of security in the right to continue operations and by the indicated assurance of a reasonable return on the fair value of their securities.

"The employés who operate the company's equipment will benefit by the increased patronage, which will require additional numbers and mileage of vehicles. Improved earnings will make possible attractive working conditions and adequate disability insurance and pensions.

"The automobile and truck user will benefit by new trafic arteries and the reduced congestion of the streets in the central business area and other business centers."

Rush Completion of Report.

Mayor Kelly indicated he would ask Judge Wilkerson to withhold definite action at his hearing today pending a study of his suggestions by all interested parties. He said the plan is not complete in all details, but will be within thirty days. Philip Harrington, engineer for the local transportation committee, who worked closely with the mayor in preparation of the plan, has a corps of assistants rushing completion of the report.

Mayor Kelly told members of the council committee that his plan was open to whatever modifications the council might determine were advisable.

"It is my belief that the plan suggested for study is generally sound and feasible," he said. "Undoubtedly desirable and necessary modifications will result from its study by the city council and the companies. Perhaps many of the suburbs will desire to be included in a metropolitan transit district."

D. F. Kelly Hails Plan.

D. F. Kelly, chairman of the mortgage bondholders' committee of the elevated lines, described the mayor's plan as a step in the right direction.

"He has given much thought to the traction problem," said Mr. Kelly, "and he realizes that unification is essential. The Chicago Rapid Transit people have been working toward that end. Rapid transportation and unification are what the people want."

William J. Lynch, chairman of the special reorganization committee of the elevated lines, said that in glancing through the mayor's plan he noted it calls for unified operation. "We are in thorough accord with that and always have been," he said.

Guy A. Richardson, president of the Chicago Surface Lines and chief negotiator for their interests, would say nothing until he had an opportunity to study the plan carefully.

Expects Meeting Soon.

A. W. Harris, banker and chairman of the largest bondholders' committee of the surface lines, was out of the city when the mayor's plan was made public. In his absence Louis C. Schultz, secretary of the committee, said copies had reached the committee late in the afternoon.

"I presume," he said, "that the committee will meet within a few days to talk about the plan. The hearing before Judge Wilkerson will crystalize things a little, I think."

Col. A. A. Sprague, trustee of the elevated system, was on his way by automobile to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and could not be reached for comment. John Ritchie, president of the Chicago Motor Coach company, boarded a train for New York soon after the plan was announced.

See Jury Selected

Earl Heveen, 1643 West 63d street, called as a prospective juror yesterday in the $850,000 Shanahan will suit, was asked by Attorney Irwin N. Walker whether he could think of anything which might come up during the trial to cause him to develop a distaste for either party.

"I don't know," replied Heveen. "This is my first time in a courtroom, and I don't know what lengths you lawyers go to."

Despite his misgivings, Heveen was accepted and the jury was completed late in the day and sworn in before Judge Michael Feinberg. Opening statements will be made this morning.

Attorney Walker represents Mrs. Helen Troesch Shanahan, 41 years old, who was secretary for 21 years to David E. Shanahan, veteran Illinois legislator and former speaker of the house. She was married to him on Oct. 5 last year, as he lay on his deathbed in Mercy hospital.

At the same time, Mr. Shanahan signed a will leaving his estate to his bride. He died thirteen days later, at the age of 74. Two of his cousins, the Misses Mary and Margaret Flynn are suing to break the will and invalidate the marriage.

Judge Green Reconsiders; Holds Up His Resignation

Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green, who announced Monday night that he was resigning from the bench to resume the practice of law, made a second announcement yesterday morning in which he said he was reconsidering and was holding up his resignation.

HONOLULU, Hawaii.—One of the most memorable experiences of this Hawaiian sojourn was a picnic trip to Mounawili, a superbly beautiful sugar plantation with a ranch house built just opposite the spot where an early ruler of the island—an Allii Nui, as they were called—had had his domicile. An avenue of royal palms led to the spot, and the road there wound through beautiful mountain scenery, past tangles of hau trees, thickets of yellow ginger in bloom, the glossy green ambuscade of coffee trees, and stretches of roadway bordered by great ferns.

IT was called a picnic, but the hostess sent a bevy of oriental servants ahead in a station wagon to take and serve the food; there were a dozen horses saddled and waiting should any or all members of the party care to ride to the mountain pool where we were to swim, and she had provided extra slacks and straw hats and bathing suits, as well as the bath towels and monogrammed face towels that appeared on the bathroom towel racks. So this was definitly a picnic de luxe.

THE plantation and ranch house, formerly privately owned, now belong to, the Hawaiian Sugar company, of which the husband of our hostess is president, and is lent to employés for picnics and holiday outings. It would, surely, offer the setting for a Hawaiian novel. The furniture, left by the former owners, is Victorian, and the paintings and pictures of another era adorn its walls. One of the china closets is filled with the Haviland china, spattered with violets, that many of us remember in family cupboards, and the massive Victorian pieces, the tatting on the edges of the mosquito netting looped above the beds and the Victorian china offered an interesting contrast to the exotic scene outside.

Our hostess, a tall, fair, cultured, delightful woman, with a deep affection for and appreciation of the land where she was born—she was Mrs. Richard A. Cooke—showed us the ti-leaf slide down a steep slope. Ti-leaf sliding is one of the ancient island sports. On this slide the sliders happen to use coconut palm leaves, sitting on them for the swift descent. She advised against novices undertaking it, and we got into bathing suits and went to the mountain pool to swim.

THE path led across a rising plateau with a beautiful view of the close encircling mountains, through junglelike thickets, rich with blooms, past groves of beautiful coffee trees and groves of guavas. Ripe guavas fallen from the trees lay underfoot, their pungent odor pervading the atmosphere. Always there was the sound of running water from mountain streams or from the irrigation flumes.

Good Morning!

There would, undoubtedly, be fewer nervous breakdowns—see if I'm right, doctor—if more of us were to occasionally forget conventionality and do as does the heroine of this number.

She lets loose and screeches—loud and long—right in the middle of the day and trafic. She's stod just all she can stand. She can't take anything more without letting off steam and so she goes right ahead and obeys that impulse.

Of course she scares the passing throngs almost out of their pantaloons, but, after all, that's the throngs' business—and a good, healthy scare's something in the nature of a blood quickener, too. I'm all for it. [Theoretically.]

Deponent suspects "Back in Circulation" of being a take-off on various newspaper films that in their naïvé and unintentional fashion have been quite as incredible as this kidding number. [If it WAS intended as such.]

It's an unbelievable string of episodes in which a hard-boiled girl star reporter and her hard-boiled plus managing editor—yes, kiddies, they're in love—do their balmy bits in the cause of yellow journalism to the tune of banging doors, crashing glass, autopsies, explosions, and smart alecky patter.

As I could only accord the story faint praise I won't bother to damn it with same. But the film has been blessed with smooth acting—Joan Blondell, Pat O'Brien, and Margaret Lindsay never let one down—direction is fairly smooth and there are several really funny sequences.

So—quite likely—you'll find the piece reasonably entertaining. [But don't for the love of your favorite Irishman take it seriously.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Here's a dress you can wear for all daytime and informal evening events. It costs very little to make, is easy to sew, and the secret of its flattering fit is in the seam which extends the entire length, from V neckline to hem. That one perpendicular line is enough to flatter even the most buxom figure.

Soft drapery plays an important rôle, too. It lends grace and elegance to the bodice and sleeves, which may be either long or short. The "corseted" waistline, encircled with a self-fabric belt, is fitted up high under the bust. The skirt has delightful flare.

You can have the neckline plain or add the touch of a small bouquet or a clip. A short strand of beads also would be pretty.

As to fabric, select crêpe, duvetyn, velvet, satin, sheer woolen or silk jersey. Black always is lovely, but there are many marvelous new shades available which you should consider.

Style No. 2946 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material for the short sleeved dress.

Oysters Play Major Role in a Quick Menu

Meals ready to serve in ten minutes, and quickly baked one dish meals, are a few of the helpful suggestions in the booklet "Cooking After Office Hours," on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents, by mail 5 cents in stamps. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, The Tribune, Chicago.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Although many persons object to oysters in stew "because they're slippery" the same objection doesn't apply to these mollusks when they're scalloped. All the delicate oyster flavor is there, however.

Oysters are one of our most valuable foods, and this is the season to take advantage of their quality and quantity. Scalloped oysters make a splendid nucleus for a business woman's time saver dinner.

BUSINESS WOMAN'S DINNER
Scalloped Oysters
Baked Stuffed Potatoes
Vegetable Salad Bowl [Small Can of Peas and Carrots, Lettuce, Tomato, French Dressing]
Sweet Pickles
Toasted Vienna Bread
Apple Rolls with Butterscotch Sauce
Coffee

First of all, the potatoes should be scrubbed, dried, rubbed with fat and placed on a rack in a 400 degree oven to bake. Next the dessert might be prepared for the oven, according to this recipe.

Apple Rolls.
[Makes six]

¾ cup flour
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoons shortening
1 egg
¼ cup milk
1 cup chopped apples
⅓ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon salt

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt together, and work in shortening with pastry blender, knives, or fingertips. Combine beaten egg and milk and stir into first mixture, making a soft dough. Roll the dough lightly on a floured board to a fourth inch in thickness. Spread with chopped apples and sprinkle with sugar, spices, and salt, which have been mixed. Roll as for jelly roll, and slice the dough into inch pieces, placing them in a greased baking pan. Bake at 425 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot with butterscotch sauce.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE.

Mix ½ cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ cup water, and cook until the mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Cool slightly, add 1 tablespoon butter and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Serve over hot pudding.

Have the rolls ready for the oven and the sauce made at the time the potatoes are done. The rolls may be placed in the oven when the potatoes have been stuffed and replaced to heat through and brown. It isn't necessary that the rolls be done when potatoes and oysters are ready. They may finish baking when the meal is being served, and will be piping hot when dessert time arrives.

The oysters need only 20 to 25 minutes in the oven, so may be put in during the last of the potato baking.

Scalloped Oysters.
[Serves four or more]

24 oysters with liquid
2 cups fine cracker crums
1 cup top milk
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon salt [less if crackers are salty]
Pepper

Alternate layers of oysters and cracker crums in a deep baking dish, seasoning each layer of oysters. Have crums on top and dot surface with butter. Pour in top milk until it covers the oysters. Pour oyster juice over top. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

Use a very light French dressing for the salad. If a commercial dressing of this type can't be found, it is easy to make one by shaking oil, vinegar, and seasonings together in a bottle, or by mixing them in a small bowl with an egg beater.

Light French Dressing.

⅓ cup salad oil
2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon mustard

Combine ingredients and shake together in a bottle or beat together with rotary beater. Seasonings may be varied to suit preference. Several drops of Worcestershire sauce may be added.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

Questions 16 and 17 of the National Self-Rating Bridge Examination appeared yesterday. They were:

Question 16: Opponents are vulnerable. You are not. Your partner dealt and bid one club. Next hand passed. Your holding is:

♠5 ♥K Q J 9 7 5 3 2 ♦6 2 ♣5 3

What call do you make?

Answer: You should make the preemptive [shut-out] response of four hearts. Your hand is virtually worthless except at a heart contract. If the opponents are allowed "to get together" in spades or diamonds you probably will not deliver a single trick to the defense. [Two points demerit for any other response.]

Question 17: Both sides are vulnerable and you have a part-score of 40 points. Your partner deals and bids one heart. Next hand passes. Your holding is:

♠K J 10 ♥J 8 6 ♦A J 8 ♣Q J 8 4

What call do you make?

Answer: You should bid one no trump, a beautiful "trap bid." Your 40 part-score creates a grand opportunity to trap your opponents into a disastrous defensive contract. If next opponent passes, your partner certainly will not let the bidding die when only 60 points are needed. [If you answered one no trump, add two points to your score as reward; if you bid two no trump, take two points demerit. No demerit for a two heart or two club bid.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 18: You are West, declarer at a three no trump contract. North's opening lead was the four of hearts. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

WEST	EAST [dummy]
♠K 10 4	♠A 5 3
♥K J 10	♥7 6
♦J 5 3	♦A Q 8 4 2
♣A J 9 5	♣6 4 3

South won the opening lead with the heart ace and returned the heart eight. How do you play the hand from that point?

TODAY'S HAND.

Match point duplicate.
North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

WEST	NORTH	EAST
	♠A Q 10 7 4 ♥Q ♦A K 8 3 2 ♣9 8
♠K J 6 5 2 ♥5 4 ♦Q 6 ♣K 10 5 3		♠8 3 ♥K 10 9 8 7 2 ♦J 10 ♣A 7 2
	SOUTH ♠9 ♥A J 6 3 ♦9 7 5 4 ♣Q J 6 4

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	2 hearts	Pass	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the five of hearts. East's king covered the queen, and declarer won. Two rounds of diamonds fortunately dropped the outstanding ones. Declarer then returned to his own hand with the diamond nine, led the nine of spades and, when West played low, let it ride. Naturally declarer could not count on a successful spade finesse, therefore did not dare cash his heart ace while still in his hand. He properly reasoned that the opponents eventually would have to give him that trick anyway. The spade nine holding, the diamond seven was overtaken with the eight, and two more diamonds cashed, declarer discarding two hearts. Meanwhile East discarded the ten of hearts, a club, and a spade, thus permitting West to count that declarer had no more spades. Unfortunately, West clung tightly to all his spades and as many clubs as possible, on the theory that he was guarding those suits. Thus, he let go the one card he should have held, namely, the four of hearts. After running the diamond suit declarer cashed the spade ace, then led a club. East ducking, the jack lost to the king. West cashed his king of spades, but then, rather than present dummy with the spade queen, was forced to return a club and East's ace was knocked out before his hearts were established. Thus, declarer made a total of ten tricks, for top on the board.

Had West held his heart, he could have established a heart trick for East and, thus, saved the precious extra trick.

Tyrone Power Announces He Won't Wed Gaynor

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—It's all very confusing. Tyrone Power flew in from the west coast, arriving last night, with the announcement that he was here "to see some shows." It was understood he was talking about Miss Gaynor and not Sonja Henie, with whose name his has been linked for some months now.

St. Luke's Show Is Spectacular Fashion Parade

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

GLAMOROUS has been overworked in the last few years, but there is no other adjective that describes so well the fashions displayed yesterday afternoon in the 11th annual St. Luke's fashion show.

Every exhibitor showed the most spectacular and unusual of his newest importations or home designs, so it is little wonder that every costume that appeared on the stage in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel elicited ohs and ahs from the audience of 1,800 women.

They were not all ejaculations of admiring envy, to be sure, for some of the outfits were too theatrical, too glamorous for wear anywhere but in Hollywood, but even they were lovely in the spotlight.

Hailed as Best of Entire Series.

"It is the best show the St. Luke's woman's board ever has given" said the entire 1,800, repeating what they have said each year. It really is a remarkable show the women who serve St. Luke's hospital by being on its woman's board put on each year. And they deserve to earn the most money of any benefit, for they work so strenuously for months before the show and on the day of the show they run everything behind the scenes so efficiently that the performance goes without a hitch or halt.

Their exhibitors coöperate with them, of course, by showing the best of their collections and the result is a fashion show that is perfection. There have been years when some of the models walked so badly that they detracted from the picture, but this year the models were professional in their poise and good posture.

The entr'acte feature, an ancient Chinese wedding procession, was stunning with the 36 participants wearing coats of almost unbelievable richness and color. Miss Eva Mae Chan, the pretty, shy little bride, veiled in red, kept her eyes downcast in true oriental fashion, in direct contrast to the proud, independent occidental bride, as portrayed by lovely young Mrs. John Jay Borland, who appeared in the show just before the intermission.

Many Women Ask "Why the Orange Tree?"

The procession was a sort of Chinese puzzle to those who hadn't read their program thoroughly, and on all sides one heard women asking their neighbors, "What do the geese mean?" or "Why the orange tree?" The pair of geese—not live ones yesterday—are emblems of conjugal faithfulness and the orange tree is emblematic of a large family and much worldly wealth.

The modern wedding, in which the bride, the former Barbara Hutchins, wore a white slipper satin gown, made in polonaise style with a long train, was lovely. The bride's attendants, titian haired Mrs. George T. Senseney [Florence Noyes] and fair-haired Miss Jean McWilliams, wore changeable apple green taffeta, also in polonaise style, with short trains, and huge halo hats of the same exquisite color. They carried gardenias and the bride carried gardenias and valley lilies.

Some Exhibits Feature Flowers.

Some exhibits that featured flowers were outstanding. Orchids perched like exotic butterflies on foreheads was the newest note, but there were several other headdresses of real flowers that were especially chic and attractive.

Evening headdresses, by the way, were overdone, and if any one chooses to wear a black evening veil after yesterday's show it is a wonder, for there were so many, and such elaborate ones, that a simple wreath of flowers or a tiny jeweled ornament was a delightful relief.

It isn't hard to overdo the spectacular or the bizarre this season, for there are so many glittering sequins and materials being used that one can look like the proverbial "plush horse" very easily. Some did yes-

Two Stunners from St. Luke's Fashion Show

Miss Elise Clow (left) and Mrs. George S. Chappell Jr. were two of the most stunning models in the St. Luke's fashion show, held yesterday afternoon and evening in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Miss Clow, always called Peggy, looked as though she had come straight from the frozen steppes of Russia in a Persian lamb jacket and hat and spiral muff, and Mrs. Chappell was lovely in a slinky black dinner gown accented by a midriff of multi-colored stripes and a flaming red sash with ends that hung to the floor in front. Her pixie cap matched the midriff of her gown. Not in the picture, but on her when she appeared on the runway, was a short jacket of black monkey fur.

Party Clothes for Young Fit Slender Budget

BY RHEA SEEGER.

One of the most crowded and popular shopping spots in town features snappy, gay, young party clothes with delightfully sane price marks. There's always a fresh supply. All the newest colors, new streamlines, and new fabrics arrive here almost biweekly, so no matter when you shop you'll find new things hanging about.

This week the all white gowns are going strong, stiff, perky moirés and brocades, and slippery satins. Full petal-like skirts, ideal for dancing, accentuate tiny waistlines and small bodices. Airy, fluttery bows are really shoulder straps.

There's a slinky white crêpe with chevron trim of two inch fringe from shoulder to hemline; there's a spectacular shimmering white satin with a center row of bunny bows down the front, and a circular cut, swirling skirt. For the "gold diggers" a stunning dull gold moiré dance dress with the bodice topped with a tobacco brown velvet band and shoulder strap bows. Beautiful greens are plentiful, so are the varying shades of blue with taffetas and satins in all shades of blue probably the tops for the young dancer. But you'll also spend your money for the luscious powder blue silk jersey gown made with a very high fitted bodice and a clinging full skirt.

This shop promises additional excitement with a scheduled appearance of some new romantic gowns in gray. The present showing of picturesque black velvets, and some Christmas card red numbers, are nothing to take lightly. If you're in need of a new party frock that lives up to all demands, do see these new arrivals.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—It begins to look as though this will be a wonderful year for the kind of Christmas loot women love. There are some new perfumes of fabulous price coming out and some fitted bags that make your fingers itch.

Then there are loads of gorgeous evening bags, created by the beauty houses and cleverly fitted with their own precious offerings. The colors and fabrics are of royal richness. Tucked into them is everything needed to preserve your evening glamor, plus little extra touches like a compartment for cigarets and a gleaming little flashlight with which to read your theater program or find the keyhole when you trail home in the dead of night.

There is an incredibly small, delicate little gold stand to hold three tiny bottles of perfumes—and really to hold them because the case can be locked with a little gold padlock and key. This is the kind of gift men will probably buy like mad—and certainly the lucky women recipients won't complain.

The sachets are more beautiful than ever, and there seem to be more of them. One famous perfumer has a box of little heart shaped ones to be pinned inside your frock. They're unlike the average sachets because they are to be saturated with perfume rather than filled with a powder. Women like to tuck one into their bags, too. There are lots of big sachet pillows, very beautiful and equally expensive.

The kits are marvelous. There are beauties at all prices; the shopper can pay as much or as little as he likes but even the cheapest of them are well styled. The manicure sets can be expensive or otherwise but nearly all are good to look at and excellent values.

Nancy Knode Is Engaged to Arlindo Cate

BY JUDITH CASS.

AT a family dinner at home in Hubbard Woods last night Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Knode announced the engagement of their daughter, Nancy, to Arlindo Sanders Cate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlindo S. Cate of Greensboro, N. C.

The announcement will not come as a surprise to the friends of Miss Knode and her fiancé, who is called Lindy, for his devotion to the pretty younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knode has been obvious ever since he came here to live. Since arriving in Chicago to enter business, Mr. Cate has made his home with the Lansing B. Warners, just a bit north of the Knodes.

Over the Thanksgiving holiday Miss Knode and Mr. Cate will go to Greensboro to visit his parents. Their wedding will take place early in the spring.

Miss Knode was educated at the Westover school and at Sarah Lawrence college. She made her debut at a dinner-dance two seasons ago given jointly for her and Miss Muriel Picher, daughter of Mrs. Oliver S. Picher, who will be a December bride. Mr. Cate is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and of the law school there.

Miss Knode undoubtedly will be an attendant at the wedding of Miss Picher to Charles Robert Arnold of Syracuse on Dec. 29, and in the spring Miss Picher will attend her friend. Miss Knode's brother, Oliver M. Knode Jr., and Miss Patricia Nash were married on Madeleine Island, Wis., last month. He and his bride are occupying the gardener's cottage on the Knode property where his older sister and her husband, the Horton Conrads, lived before they moved into their new home west of Winnetka.

Mrs. Robert R. McCormick Resting After Operation.

Mrs. Robert R. McCormick was receiving congratulations in Passavant hospital yesterday following a visit to the surgery, where she underwent an operation for the removal of an old chronic appendix which has been bothering her for quite some time. The operation was performed by Dr. Arthur H. Curtis. Mrs. McCormick was pronounced convalescent almost immediately and will rest in the hospital until her return to Wheaton. Her condition was declared to be entirely satisfactory.

Select Cast for Junior League Play.

The cast selected for the play, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which the Children's Theater of the Chicago Junior league will give on four Saturdays, starting Nov. 13, includes several newcomers to the theater department, and the children of some of the league's best actresses.

Of greatest interest to the league's public, however, is the good news that Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr. and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., who have acquired large followings in the

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Hepburn in Person

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 19.—"The first show I ever played in was a great success," recalled Katharine Hepburn. "It was the 'Big Pond' and Eddie Knopf gave me the lead. We opened in Great Neck, Long Island, on a Saturday night and late the same evening I was out of a job—fired. That was in 1929. The next morning my teacher, Frances Robinson Duff, told me to come in and see her. 'Well,' I told her, 'I'm not crying!' and she said something that I never forgot: 'That's just the trouble with you, Kate. You're not crying. A real performer would take the loss of a leading part a lot more seriously. If you're to succeed in the theater you'll shed a lot of tears—mark my words.'"

Hepburn.
She didn't cry.

"Arthur Hopkins sent for me the next week. He'd seen the Great Neck play in which I'd flopped, but the thought he could use me in 'These Things.' The night we opened I was vaguely aware, after the show, that the same coldness was in the air that I'd noticed at Great Neck.

"'Anything the matter?' I asked one of the stage hands. 'Yeah, the notice is up,' he told me. That show lasted three days. So out of my first two thrusts at the drama I had a total run of exactly four days.

"Then came 'Art and Mrs. Bottle.' Benn Levy, the author, told me that I was the ugliest girl he'd ever seen when I came to rehersal. He'd just sit there and stare at me as if disbelieving that any one girl could be so homely. I wasn't wearing any makeup, and probably I was gawky.

"If it hadn't been for Jane Cowl, who was a dear to me, things might have been a lot different. She called me into her dressing room and said: 'Miss Hepburn, on the stage you must use makeup. Otherwise you'll look dull, commonplace. Mr. Levy doesn't want you in the show. I'll fight for you, but I've fought so much that I don't know how successful this effort will be.'

"She tried her best, but Ben Levy threw me out of the cast. Two weeks later, however, he called me back and, to get even, I asked for $125 a week, a $25 raise. Luckily I was a big success in it, thanks to Jane Cowl.

"My part in 'Art and Mrs. Bottle' was foolproof and actress-proof. You'd have to be an awful dope not to have given a good performance. So was the part in my first picture, 'Bill of Divorcement.' It was actress-proof. Everybody who ever played that part became a big success."

Your reporter looked at Miss Hepburn in considerable amazement. I had driven forty-four miles out of Hollywood to Malibu lake for the interview, but certainly didn't expect to find a youngster talking freely and gayly about her failure.

"Why can't you get along with newspaper men and photographers? I asked. "If you'd talk to them the way you've talked to me they'd be your biggest boosters."

She shook her head. "I've never refused to pose or to be interviewed," she protested, "but when they start cooking up romances and marriages I won't go for it. Any time they asked me questions about pictures or the stage I've always enjoyed answering them."

Let this be entered in the records. The people who work with her really are nuts about the girl. She's generous, breezy, a good two-fisted curser, informal. She won't take any shoving around, and if she thinks she's being imposed upon she'll let it be known quickly. She is a bit affected, but no more so than any other star in this colony and considerably less affected than most.

The sensitive, aristocratic features are just as compelling off screen as on, the blue eyes just as alert. I'd say that she was a thoroughly nice person, suffering from no malady more serious than youth.

SYNOPSIS.

When rich old Caleb Winter dies, his wife, Isabella, once his housekeeper, wires her daughter, Sally Lee Keyne, at school in Maryland, to come home at last. Because Caleb had demanded a housekeeper without family ties, Isabella had never told him of Sally. Sally bids a fond good-by to wise Mary Culpepper, school headmistress, and sets out. En route Sally meets Robin Ashe, whose family lives near the old Crewe mansion, Sally's new home—he falls in love with her. The Winter chauffeur meets Sally in Baltimore, and driving her home, gives a lift to an arrogant tramp called Vincent. Sally orders the chauffeur to put him out. The morning after Sally's homecoming, Joseph Marr, his lawyer, reads Caleb's will, and her mother has a stroke. Informed of his wife's deception, Caleb left everything to his first wife's nephew, Obadiah Crewe. Mrs. Winter, if she stays on as housekeeper, to have shelter and an income. The new heir turns out to be the tramp—Vincent Obadiah Crewe. Though she hates and fears him, Sally serves him as housekeeper in her mother's place. Vincent inherits Caleb's tricky West Indian valet, Manchi.

INSTALMENT XV.
A LOVE LETTER.

Manchi's narrow, pale face contracted, as did his full lidded eyes, but he moved his mouth, which was thin and collapsed, into an inexpressive smile.

"I have a very small amount of African blood on my maternal grandfather's side, sir."

"How you spell your name?"

"M-A-N-C-H-I."

"Sounds Spanish."

"I dare say it is, Mr. Crewe. Shall I lay out your dinner clothes, sir?"

"You expect me to keep you on, eh?"

The man's face acquired a look so curiously sharp and sheathed that Vincent's attention remained fixed.

"Why yes, sir," he said. "I hardly think you could do without me, sir. And, if I may say so, Mr. Winter, by the terms of his will has made me a sort of fixture, if I may say so."

"You may say so. I remember, now, you were mentioned in the will amongst some other servants. To my man, Sebastian Manchi, $2,500 per year during his lifetime on condition . . . my uncle-in-law was a great hand for conditions. Well I guess I'm saddled with you for a while. I'll probably outlive you . . . if I may say so, Manchi. Probably. Now, listen to me. This is the one and only outfit I possess. What will you do about that?"

Manchi drew in a sharp, shocked breath.

"You will be going to New York, sir, of course, for the—er—the replenishment of your wardrobe."

"The hell I will!"

"If I may say so, sir, I should then advise that you let me take very careful tailor's measurements, sir, and make out a comprehensive list of your needs and then allow me to go north to Mr. Winter's tailor . . . if you can spare me, sir. And, if I may say so, sir, I wouldn't go about socially, sir . . ." Manchi put his narrow pale bald head aside, "until your hair has grown out a little."

After one of his long staring silences, Vincent pulled himself together with a jerk.

"You knew my parents?"

Manchi bowed.

"My father? My mother?"

"Yes, sir, if I may say so, rather intimately."

"'Intimately' I reckon is your middle name. What'd you think of them?"

"It would hardly be my place to express an opinion, sir."

Vincent gave out his sudden yell of laughter, a sound at once demoniac and boyish, sometimes exchangeable adjectives.

"Good alibi." He was abruptly gloomy. "Did you know my father ran off and left my mother and me in South America? He died raving mad with liquor in San Francisco."

Manchi bowed. "Mrs. Winter . . . Miss Jessica, if I may say so, was very deeply attached to her only brother, sir. It was by her instructions and for her sake, partly, that we kept ourselves informed. There was besides a business matter . . ."

"My mother rid herself of me when I was about three years old . . . but if she's still alive and able to read the papers, she'll be turning up at Crewe House shortly. Then we'll have a lady housekeeper, Manchi."

The valet's bow conveyed a reproof for his new master's bitter levity. Obviously he knew himself to be a more accomplished gentleman than his employer . . . and it might be imagined, took a certain satisfaction in the discovery.

"Well, I'm going for a swim in the river, Monkey. If you want to undress and dress me, you can come along," and with that he opened the nearest French window behind him and stepped out over the tulips with apparent carelessness but, Manchi was able to observe, without so much as touching one of the juicy and fragile stalks.

Sally had breakfasted in her own room, crept down to the office when Early reported that Mr. Crewe had gone out, planned for him a luncheon and a dinner which she selected from one of her mother's menu books, and then fled again to sanctuary. But when the stillness of the house and the beauty of the day, so bright and still after that tormented night, became too immediate to all her senses, she escaped stableward and there surrendered to Jock's pleading and mounted Star. Jock accompanied her along the grassy lanes into the wood trails.

As they came down again out of the flickering young woods into the meadows of Crewe, and by a lane into the road that led to a back farmgate, Star gave a desperate plunge, that would have unseated a less skilful rider. "What was that?" cried Sally, her face scarlet. Jock at her side, looked sharply into a nearby copse. "Some tramp or trespasser," said he and, rising in his stirrups cried wrathfully, "Ho there, come out here, you. Don't you know this is private property?"

The only answer was a rustle, and escaping step, but Sally caught a glimpse of a figure that doubled across a little opening . . . shabby, furtive, looking back over its shoulder with a bleached and bearded face.

"What a horrid looking man!"

"There's plenty of 'em about since the depression," sighed Jock. "Not safe any longer for you to ride about alone, Miss Keyne."

When they were again in the stable yard, "I think I'll ask Mr. Crewe about the mare, Jock," said Sally, as he helped her down.

"Please do, Miss. I can't believe but he'll be glad to have you own her . . . which, it really seems to me, Miss, you actually do."

She ran into the house by a side door and up to her own quarters, using the servants' stairway. On her tiny dressing table Early had laid a pile of letters: one from Miss Mary, two from Jane, one, postmarked New Haven. This Sally opened after a pause in which her blood, her heart and pulses shared.

Robin wrote neatly in a fine formed hand so different from himself that for an instant Sally wondered if she might not be mistaken and turned to read his signature. His words, however, reassuringly, declared him.

"Sally dear . . . I know you told me to let you write first but I can't wait. I think I'm probably out of my head but I can't think of anything but you . . . your eyes and your hair and your mouth and the way you speak. But I can't for the life of me remember your nose. It's driving me mad. Have you a nose, Sally? College is the same old grind. No, it isn't. It's a lot worse since an experience I had in Baltimore last week. I do hope you won't mind my being in love with you like this. I'm even fool enough to hope it's a sort of germ we both picked up at the St. Charles. I'm scared sick you've only got a light case.

"I hope things are going all right for you now.

"Yours . . . I honestly am beginning to believe . . . forever . . . Robin. Honest to God, Sally, nothing like this ever happened to me before and I'm scared. I've known lots of girls . . . some of them I guess you'd say . . . too well . . . but this is a thing in a class all by itself. For God's sake, try to join it. Try."

Teacher Must Treat Children as Individuals

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Just thirty children, they are, sitting facing their teacher—or forty-five children or even only fifteen, depending upon the school.

Very quickly the group of thirty children becomes, to the teacher names to label certain faces.

But then later, little by little, their personalities begin to emerge, and each boy or girl stands before the teacher's eyes an individual.

Each shows different qualities, different temperaments, different home training; and so all will not respond in the same way to school room routine, meaning both lessons and discipline—and all will not respond in the same way to the personality of the teacher.

Every good teacher must be able to handle her children as a group, but she must also treat them as individuals and handle them accordingly. And when she finds a child showing behavior that is undesirable for her [or him], or undesirable for the whole group, she must look behind the act for causes. This, of course, does not refer to simple occasional "schoolroom naughtiness" which will succumb to a simple direct correction.

As to causes, some are more obscure than others and also some more serious than others.

St. Luke's Show Is Spectacular Fashion Parade

terday. But not Miss Mary Gardner, debutante daughter of the Robert A. Gardners, who was as stunning as any one in the show in a gold slipper satin evening gown worn under a military cape of burnt amber lined with the same color and edged in gold braid. Nor Miss Mary Bennan in a black velvet dress and cape trimmed with silver fox spiral bands, and a silver Juliet cap.

Mrs. Chappell Wears Stunning Dinner Outfit.

Another stunning outfit was worn by Mrs. George S. Chappell Jr. It consisted of a long, slinky, black dinner gown with a midriff of multicolored stripes with a scarlet sash tied over it and hanging to the floor in front, a high hat matching the stripes of the midriff, and a short jacket of black monkey fur.

Mrs. Wyndham Hasler's bottle green velvet evening wrap with huge sleeves of dark fox, Mrs. Kimball Salisbury's imitation leopard skin house robe, Mrs. Talcott Griswold's emerald green suede cloth dinner dress with black gloves, hat, and veil; Miss Annie May Henry's fuchsia three-quarter length coat, trimmed with silver, sable hat and muff, and black gown; Miss Carlotta Lagorio's full skirted white marganza with a Grecian bodice, trimmed with silver bands; the junior Mrs. Charles S. Dewey's frosty white lace made in directoire style and trimmed with silver bows and accented by a wristlet of gardenias, and Miss Betty Armour's slate blue evening gown and short sleeved ermine wrap accented by a narrow black tie belt and long, black, suede gloves were among other costumes that occasioned loud applause.

Group Presentation Is Climax of Show.

The women who left early missed the climax of the show, 20 stunning costumes, complete even to flowers. In this group were Mrs. Paget K. Cady in a henna and gold dinner suit and hat; Mrs. Solomon B. Smith in a sea green slipper satin hostess gown; Mrs. Lincoln S. Harris in an ermine evening wrap with sable sleeves and a crown of golden curls in her dark hair; Debutante Cynthia Cleveland in a typical debutante's ball gown of white tulle with trimmings of silver and valley lilies in her hair and her hand; Miss Nancy Brown in frosty white over silver lamé, and with two Easter lilies in her hair; Mrs. Harry McIntosh McLeod in a long silver fox evening coat, the skins arranged horizontally; Mrs. Howard Peabody in a Russian sable coat valued at $62,500, two orchids in her hair; Miss Martha Fitts in flame bagheera with black monkey fur jacket and muff; Mrs. John R. Hurley, Miss Ruth Brown, Miss Madelon Search, Miss Helen Shoemaker, Miss Barbara Stanley, Miss Patricia Jane Kelly, Mrs. Paul B. Magnusson Jr., Miss Mary Harrington, Mrs Byron S. Harvey Jr., Mrs. J. Beach Clow, Mrs. John Bersbach, and Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman Jr.

Child Models Win Audience.

Just as they always do, the tiniest models almost stole the show. Wee Miss Washburn, just about old enough to toddle, was adorable in a white sleeping garment and pink bathrobe. She was dragging a white teddy bear with one hand while the other held the hand of her mother, Mrs. J. Murray Washburn Jr., who was charming in a house gown of white silk jersey with an overcoat of powder pink. Blonde Leonore Karcher and Daphne Hersey, with long flaming red curls, were cunning in party frocks and Suzanne Skahen was all ready for dancing school in a velveteen dress and duvetyn coat.

Daphne's mother, Mrs. Louis E. Hart Jr., modeled dazzling jewels, as did Miss Charlotte Hubbart, Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins, Miss Virginia Winston, Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr., and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler.

Miss Vesta Culbertson was the only model who was scheduled to appear twice during the afternoon, for being among the beauties of the debutantes she was demanded by two exhibitors, but Mrs. J. Beach Clow and Mrs. Kimball Salisbury substituted for Mrs. Reverdy Wadsworth and Mrs. John Stuart Jr., who were ill, so Mrs. Clow and Mrs. Salisbury each appeared on the runway a second time also. The show was repeated last night.

Music Season Owes a Debt to Gieseking

BY CECIL SMITH.

After an absence of two years from the Chicago concert stage, Walter Gieseking returned to Orchestra hall last night to play the first of a series of five piano recitals to be given by notable artists under the sponsorship of the adult education council.

The physical arrangement of the stage displayed something new under the sun—a large mirror on a standard placed just behind and to the left of Mr. Gieseking so that the unfortunate patrons in the right half of the hall could see the reflection of his hands.

Mr. Gieseking opened his program with one of Bach's best keyboard works, the Italian concerto, and closed it with one of Liszt's worst, the unctuous homily entitled "Benediction de Dieu dans la Solitude."

In between these extremes he gave his penetrating attention to Mozart's familiar A major sonata; the C major Fantasia of Schumann; a group of Debussy pieces, and Liszt's "Fountains of the Villa d'Este."

The Schumann Fantasia provided one of those triumphant experiences that come only half a dozen times a season, when a great artist finds complete identification with a great masterpiece. The list of Schumann's piano works contains no finer example of the scope of his talent, aggressively virile on the one hand and poignantly sensitive on the other. Mr. Gieseking's rhythmic resiliency, his sense of pace, and his command of color all conspired to make his perforance memorable.

AMUSEMENTS.

several years they have played leading parts, are back again. Mrs. Gambrill will have the rôle of Mrs. Wiggs and Mrs. Winterbotham will play the part of Mrs. Wiggs' oldest son, Billy.

Petite and pretty Mrs. Harry M. McLeod is just the person to take the part of Lovey Dovey, the poor little orphan girl, and Mrs. Charles Brantingham will portray Miss Hazy, the poor, shy old maid, who finally gets married. Miss Virginia Hobart will be Miss Hazy's nephew, Chris, Mrs. Wiggs' other children, Asia, Australia and Europena, will be played, respectively, by Mrs. Arthur Hillyer Jr., Miss Jane Cummings and Mrs. John H. Noyes.

Mrs. Charles Kingston Jr. Will Be Mr. Wiggs.

The part of Mr. Wiggs will be taken by a newcomer, Mrs. Charles Kingston Jr., who is a transfer from the Hartford Junior league. Another transfer, Mrs. Frank E. Pierce Jr., will play the part of the sherif.

Mrs. William J. Sennott Jr. will take the part of H. Hunkerdunkus Jones, through whose matrimonial agency Mrs. Roger D. Shaw, as Hiram Stubbins, wins Miss Hazy as a bride. Mrs. Gail Belden will play the part of the village gossip, Mrs. Eichorn, and Miss Valeria Harris will take the part of the young newspaper man who is in love with Miss Lucy [Mrs. Barton R. Gebhart], the gentlewoman of the play.

The children will provide a hilarious, rather than a solemn interlude, in the scene dealing with Mrs. Wiggs' Sunday school class. Mrs. Roger Q. White's little boy, Quinny; Mrs. Robert McKenna's Bobby, and Mrs. Louis E. Hart Jr.'s daughters, Daphne and Jeanette Hersey, and King Marzolf are in the class. King is the prime misbehaver, however, for as tough little Mickey Viney he chews tobacco just before each hymn starts, and is unable for obvious reasons to join in the chorus.

Mrs. Hart is in the play, too. She has the part of Mrs. Schultz, a large German woman.

Hold Second Hand Clothes Sale Nov. 11.

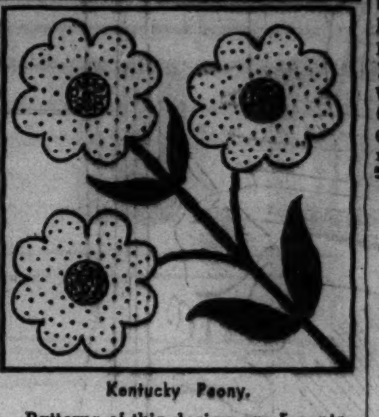
While the theater department is busy with its play season—the performances will be given in the mornings at the Grand Opera house—another branch of the organization is preparing for the annual fall second hand clothes sale. Nov. 11, Armistice day, has been chosen for the event, and on thinking over the date the committee in charge has decided that the choice is an apt one, for after hundreds of women have fought over counters for garments of their choice, every one will be happy to observe the quiet minute at 11 o'clock.

The Chicago Drama league is sponsoring a lecture, tea and reception for Mrs. Clarence Hough, the retiring president, and new officers at 3 o'clock today in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. Joan and Betty Rayner, New Zealand troubadours, will give a program of tales, folk songs and dances.

Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher succeeds Mrs. Hough as president.

Mrs. Richard Hackett, president of the senior board of the Convalescent Home for Women and Children, will be the guest speaker at an open luncheon meeting of the Sunbeam league today at the Blackstone hotel. Mrs. Hackett is interested in the work of the league inasmuch as the Convalescent home is one of the Chicago institutions in which the league maintains kindergartens.

Simple Applique Quilt Originally Made in Kentucky



Kentucky Peony.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Every state in the union has contributed at least one outstanding quilt pattern. Kentucky is responsible for many more than those for which she usually is given credit. "Kentucky Peony" is one of the simple applique designs which every one loves to make. Originally the coverlet was made entirely of printed material, quaint old fashioned prints which today still are as distinct as when they were made, but with a mellow beauty not found in the most elaborate of present day quilts.

"POPULARITY"

Fresh cranberries are now the popular fruit. Their tart-sweet flavor and appetizing color make other foods look and taste better.

The real tasty sauce is made this way:

TEN-MINUTE CRANBERRY SAUCE
(Stewed Cranberries)
1 pound or quart (4 cups) cranberries — 2 cups water — 1½ to 2 cups sugar.
METHOD: Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes; add cranberries and boil without stirring (5 minutes is usually sufficient) until all the skins pop open. Remove from the fire when the popping stops, and allow the sauce to remain in vessel undisturbed until cool.

OH DEAR, THESE CLOTHES ARE SO GRAY AND DINGY. THAT OLD WASHER'S ON ITS LAST LEGS.
I MAY BE OLD—BUT I COULD GET CLOTHES WHITE AS ANYTHING, IF IT WEREN'T FOR LAZY SOAPS LIKE YOU.
HO, HO! YOU MAKE ME LAUGH —OLD GRAYBEARD!
LAZY SOAP
10 MINUTES LATER
...AND OH, IF I COULD ONLY AFFORD A MODERN WASHER!
OXYDOL? BUT ISN'T THAT ONE OF THOSE GRANULATED "SOAKING SOAPS" THAT FADE COLORS SO BAD?
HAVEN'T YOU HEARD? OXYDOL'S A NEW SAFE KIND, MADE BY THE IVORY SOAP PEOPLE, AND IT GETS CLOTHES 4 TO 5 SHADES WHITER—EVEN IN THESE OLD MACHINES!
A FEW MINUTES LATER
LOOK—THEY'RE SNOWY WHITE, AND THE WASHER'S BEEN GOING NO TIME AT ALL!
THAT'S BECAUSE OXYDOL SOAKS OUT THE DIRT WHILE THE WASHER IS RUNNING. YOU GET DOUBLE ACTION WASH.
THROUGH ALREADY —IT'S AMAZING! BUT ARE YOU SURE OXYDOL'S SAFE FOR COLORS?
SEE THIS PRINT DRESS? I'VE WASHED IT SCORES OF TIMES IN OXYDOL. AND THE COLORS ARE BRIGHT AS NEW.
THAT EVENING
I'VE FOUND A NEW SOAP CALLED OXYDOL THAT WORKS WONDERS IN THAT OLD WASHING MACHINE. AND IT'S SAFE AS CAN BE FOR COLORS, TOO.

I MAY BE OLD, BY HECK—BUT GIVE ME OXYDOL, AND I'LL GET CLOTHES SNOWY WHITE!

IT'S TRUE! NEW SOAP MAKES OLD MACHINES WASH WHITE CLOTHES 4 TO 5 SHADES WHITER

Yet This Amazing Soap Is So Safe, That Every Washable Color Comes Out Sparkling, Brilliant!

Don't blame your washing machine because it is old—because clothes come gray and dingy! Simply switch to this new and amazing laundry soap, OXYDOL, and see your white clothes wash 4 to 5 shades whiter!

OXYDOL is the latest amazing laundry soap, developed by the makers of gentle Ivory. It is the result of a new formula which makes mild, gentle soap 2 to 3 times whiter washing—yet keeps it safe! And—a patented process which makes it far faster acting!

What It Does

OXYDOL works on an utterly new principle. It soaks out the dirt while the washer is running . . . you get a double action wash! Thus white clothes wash snowy white in record time . . . even in old model machines! You get your wash done in 25% to 40% less time! You save wear and tear on clothes, because you don't have to run the washer so long. No dirty spots to scrub out by hand, either, because OXYDOL's thick, 3-inch suds soak out the dirt for you!

In tub washing, OXYDOL saves the back-breaking scrubbing and boiling. You soak clothes just 15 minutes to the tubful, and white clothes wash 4 to 5 shades whiter than with less modern soaps. Even the "tough" spots come snowy white with a quick rub between the fingers.

Yet OXYDOL is so safe that every washable color comes out brilliant, fresh! Even sheer cotton prints, washed 100 consecutive times in OXYDOL suds, showed no perceptible sign of fading.

No wonder women by the thousands are switching to this whiter washing, faster washing laundry soap. And finding that their old washing machine gives results that amaze them!

OXYDOL is economical, too. Tests show that, cup for cup, one package will go one-third to one-half again as far as even the latest soap chips on the market. Get OXYDOL from your dealer today. Procter & Gamble.

CURB GAMBLING, DRINKING AT BIG 10 GAMES

IT'S LUCK ONLY WHEN SOME ONE ELSE IS UNLUCKY

'A Loser for Every Winner'—Aesop.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

When one college football coach calls another's team lucky and the latter accepts the description, perhaps there is such a thing as gridiron luck.

Francis Schmidt, the Ohio State coach, is a forthright individual. It was he who several years ago issued the astute pronouncement that Michigan's players put on their football pants one leg at a time, in the same fashion as the Ohio State players.

And it is a matter of record that since Schmidt's discovery no Michigan eleven has defeated an Ohio State team.

Schmidt Has Support.

Schmidt's description of Northwestern as a lucky team undoubtedly will have support from Michigan and Purdue. Michigan, having been beaten, 7 to 0, because Cleo Diehl caught a pass, which apparently had been batted down, as he was falling into the end zone, will agree that Diehl was a mighty lucky player. And while Coach Mal Elward hasn't issued a statement, you probably never will convince him that Fred Vanzo's fumble, which was converted into Northwestern's winning touchdown by Nick Cutlich, wasn't one of the luckiest plays in history.

This question of which side Lady Luck favors might have developed into a bitter argument. Players frequently resent being called lucky. But here we have Lynn Waldorf admitting that his team has been fortunate. However, it must be added, that Waldorf hopes for more luck, for without luck, so he says, Ohio State will whip the Wildcats Saturday.

By this admission, however, Waldorf has permitted Schmidt to get far out on the limb. Ohio State now must win.

All of which brings up the question that if every football play is potentially a touchdown then any play that isn't a touchdown must be unlucky. Or if every defensive player fulfils his assignment, no opponent can score, so all touchdowns are lucky.

It Works Both Ways.

The word luck, which essentially is an indirect form of alibi, probably should be eliminated from the lexicon of football. The point of view always will be prejudiced. For if Purdue had recovered Vanzo's fumble last Saturday, wouldn't Purdue have been lucky that Vanzo fumbled?

For that matter Purdue may have been lucky that Bernard Jefferson didn't break up Purdue's touchdown pass from Cecil Isbell to Jim Zachary. Later in the game Jefferson did knock down this same pass.

Minnesota is convinced that Nebraska was lucky that Harold Van Every fumbled and set up the Cornhuskers' scoring opportunity that achieved a 14 to 9 victory. Was Carnegie Tech lucky last Saturday that Notre Dame didn't score more than one touchdown for all the yardage gained or should the Scots receive credit for a stirring and successful series of goal line defenses?

There seems to be no question but that Southern California was very lucky against Ohio State. The Buckeyes lost, 13 to 12, but any Columbus resident knows that the Trojans were fortunate that Ohio State didn't kick both points after their touchdowns. Didn't Ohio State kick both touchdown points to beat Texas Christian, 14 to 0.

Now Let's See—Where Are We?

And Texas Christian unquestionably believes Ohio State was lucky to score a second touchdown on a pass from Mike Kabealo to Miller which barely cleared the defensive half back, Wilkinson. That was Ohio State's only pass in the second half and the Buckeyes didn't register a first down in 30 minutes.

The immediate insistency on whether Northwestern is lucky or unlucky may go back to last year's Northwestern-Ohio State game at Dyche stadium. Was Northwestern lucky to win, 14 to 13?

Saturday, however, the issue is clear cut. If Northwestern should whip the Buckeyes, although Coach Waldorf says the Wildcats can't win, Northwestern will be lucky. And, in any event, Coach Schmidt, after his description of luck, will be lucky if Northwestern doesn't win.

NEUSEL RALLIES TO WIN DECISION OVER STRICKLAND

LONDON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Walter Neusel of Germany staged a great rally to gain a 12 round decision over Maurice Strickland, New Zealand heavyweight, at Wembley stadium tonight, but the New Zealander won most of the crowd's acclaim. The demonstration against the verdict in Neusel's favor was so noisy and so prolonged that the start of the next fight on the card was delayed several minutes.

The bout ended dramatically with Neusel, who had taken much punishment throughout the bout, sending Strickland through the ropes for a count of six.

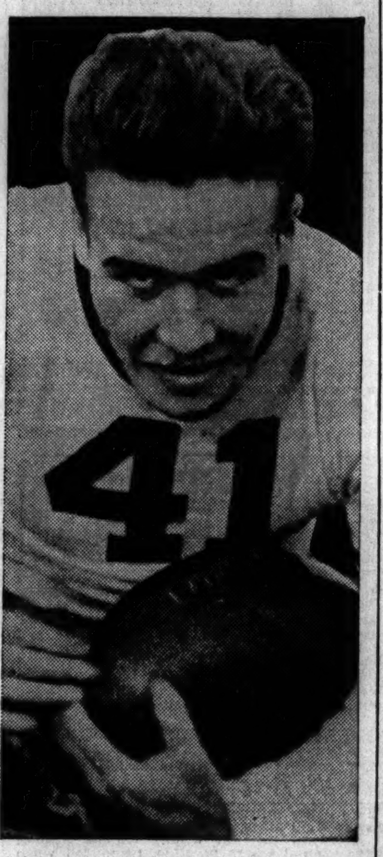
LUCKY, FRANCIS? OR JUST TOUGH?

Bob Voigts, Northwestern tackle, who had to play 60 minutes against Purdue Saturday and take out two men downfield on Jefferson's touchdown run to prove to Coach Francis Schmidt that he is a lucky football player. Voigts will do more proving at Columbus Saturday.



Another lucky Wildcat, Jack Ryan, sophomore full back. Jack was lucky he took out the full back with a perfect block on Jefferson's run last Saturday or he would have had Coach Lynn Waldorf to reckon with. Waldorf doesn't like for his boys to take out full backs with poor blocks.

Masterson, Clark, Football's Napoleons, Match Wits Sunday

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Football men differ on the importance of quarter backing. There are those who can prove that a good team can win with poor generalship and an inferior team can lose with excellent direction. It is a moot question in all quarters except Detroit and on Chicago's north side.

Those are the sectors in which Dutch Clark and Bernie Masterson operate. In both a chance remark will lead to an argument, for Detroit attributes most of its success to the guiding genius of Clark and Bear adherents vote for Masterson as the only runner-up to Clark in football.

Bernie's O. K. Now.

Masterson is playing his third season in professional football. He joined the Bears in 1935 after participating in THE TRIBUNE'S All-Star game as a member of the college squad. The pace was faster and the assignment more complicated in the National league than at Nebraska and it took Masterson the greater part of two seasons to acquaint himself thoroughly with the Bears' intricate offensive and defensive football as it is played by the experts in the National league.

Masterson has a flair for diligence and a capacity for learning. He applied his time well and now is ready to compete on equal terms with Clark, who for five years has been regarded as the outstanding quarter back of all time. The opportunity comes Sunday at Wrigley field when Clark makes his Chicago debut as player-coach at the head of the Lions as they challenge the Bears for first place in the National league race.

Expect Duel of Tacticians.

The duel between Masterson and Clark will be one of generalship. Masterson makes no claim to the mechanical excellence that characterizes Clark's play. The Detroit coach is the game's greatest drop kicker; he is one of the outstanding open field runners in the National league, an organization that abounds in climax runners; he punts; when the occasion arises, he plunges; he is an excellent blocker and he passes.

Masterson is efficient in the latter two departments. His passing has been an important factor in the Bears' attack the last two years and he is one of the club's leading trail breakers, hurling his 6 feet 3 inches and 200 pounds with telling effect on the wide plays on which the Bears seek to break Ray Nolting, Beattie Feathers and Keith Molesworth into the open.

Masterson's schooling was a long, tedious process. The Bears' offense consists of more than 200 intricate plays. The first task was memorizing the assignment of every man on each of these plays. The chief problem was utilizing them strategically under fire. Learning the identification of each maneuver was a big job in itself. Signals ranged from the simple two digit numbers common to all systems to such confusing designations as "247-61 X Trap." During his early professional games, Masterson was prone to play his offense instead of the opposing defense.

Ask the Cards About Him.

Repeated examinations, promptings and the memory of mistakes in crucial situations gradually made Masterson over from a signal caller to an accomplished tactician. He began to display his true ability against Detroit at Wrigley field last year. His big moment and arrival as a polished professional player came at New York later in the season when he passed for two touchdowns and scored two others in a 25 to 6 victory over the Giants. His generalship that day was said by eastern college coaches among the spectators to have been perfect.

Since that day he has been second to Clark as a field general in the National league. His expert handling of the Bears' man-in-motion attack Sunday so completely confused the Cardinals that when he passed to Right Half Back Manders the former full back had only to take the ball and score.

YANKS SAY CUBS ASKED RELEASE OF TONY LAZZERI

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—In the wake of Owner P. K. Wrigley's admission that the Chicago Cubs are in the market for the services of Tony Lazzeri came the official announcement today that it was at the suggestion of the Cubs that the Yankees gave their veteran second baseman his unconditional release after twelve years of service.

The announcement came from Ed Barrow, Yankee secretary, who said the Cubs had requested Lazzeri's unconditional release in order that they might deal with him without fear of running counter to the baseball law involving tampering with players. When the Yankee organization satisfied itself that Lazzeri had a chance to realize his ambition to become a field leader Col. Jake Ruppert arranged his release.

In addition to the Cubs, it is understood Lazzeri has an opportunity of going to Donald Barnes' St. Louis Browns. The Steve O'Neill situation in Cleveland has not yet definitly been adjusted, making it still possible Lazzeri may be sought for that post.

The admissions from Owner Wrigley and Secretary Barrow lead to speculation as to whether a trade was not in the wind which would send Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs to Boston as manager of the Bees, paving the way for Lazzeri's engagement as lieutenant to Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs.

Jacobs and Critchley Near Agreement on Promotions

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The outlook for a partnership between Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century S. C., and Brig. Gen. A. C. Critchley, London promoter, for the promotion of boxing in London next year took a new and more favorable turn today following a second conference. At the conclusion of the meeting it was announced Jacobs and Critchley probably would jointly conduct London bouts for Tommy Farr. There is a possibility, too, that Joe Louis may be engaged to defend his heavyweight title abroad under their joint promotion.

STEWART SEES IMPROVED BAND OF BLACKHAWKS

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Muskegon, Mich., Oct. 19.—Bill Stewart, new manager of the Chicago Blackhawks, had to put blinders on his hocky boys to keep them ice minded during today's warm rain storm. The ice was a bit soft at the Hawks' fine training rink here, due to the humidity. But the practice wasn't soft—it took the form of a scrimmage in which 19 goals were scored following a ban on body contact maneuvers.

In his work as a National league baseball umpire, and during his career as a National Hocky league referee, most of Mr. Stewart's communion with managers has been when the managers were in a surly or hysterical mood. Fortunately, perhaps, Bill, in his new managerial rôle, has become neither surly nor hysterical. And the Hawk players, some of whom are, oh, so sensitive, say they like the skipper's calm. Stewart said today in this connection that he never had seen a group of professional hocky players with morale so high.

We rode down town with Mr. Stewart after the third game of the late world series in which the umpire's league took perhaps the saddest tanning of the sad spectacle. That day Bill wanted to talk of hocky. But at that time he was talking in generalities. He hadn't seen his protégés. Today we checked up to see if Bill still wanted to talk about hocky instead of baseball. We found that he did.

They'll Put on a Show.

"I hope the fans won't expect us to be unbeatable," said Bill, hedging a little at the outset. "If they will be patient with our reorganization plans, I know we will give them a better show, for there is going to be less fiddling around with meaningless passes than there has been in some of the games in which the Hawks have participated in the past.

"All our work on plays has carried the thought that the fans like to see the goalie work. There won't be many silly shots the length of the rink, but whenever a man with the puck sees a chance to score he will be expected to forget the Fancy Dan passing business and take a whang at the nets.

"Though there will be much more shooting, we have not lost sight of the value of formal maneuvers. So far we have taken a few leaves from the book of the Cook brothers and Frank Boucher in the days when they were clicking for the New York Rangers. This great trio had a number of plays and I have reason to believe that we have the players who can execute many of them.

Team Must Hustle.

"The failure of a hocky team usually can be traced to one of two elements, failure to hustle and injuries. Last year perhaps the Hawks were victimized by both of these handicaps.

"I saw the Hawks in many games which I refereed and do not believe the boys were dogging it. But some of them were discouraged and were of such temperament that they couldn't give their best. The first thing I told the team when I joined it a week ago was that I could overlook many honest mistakes but I would not tolerate refusals to hustle.

"The players have hustled in practice and that is a good sign. Hocky players have a reputation for not liking the monotony of training routines. Earl Selbert, Alex Levinsky, and Art Wiebe, defensemen with a tendency toward heft, all are within a pound or two of playing weight. Seibert is 17 pounds under the weight he scaled at this time last year. I expect him to have one of his best years and that means a lot of hocky.

Romnes, March in Shape.

"Ever since I accepted the managership I have been worrying about the bad leg which kept Doc Romnes out of 22 games last year and the bad ankle that kept Mush March out of 12 games.

"I have been delighted to observe that Doc and Mush have been training well and have not been bothered in the least by those old injuries. If they can keep in their present fine shape their play should be a guarantee against another cellar windup."

Manager Stewart confirmed earlier reports that Oscar Hansen and Cully Dahlstrom, rookie centers, have been going well in the practice workouts. He said that both probably will be on the ice when the season opens at Chicago Stadium on Nov. 4. Hansen, with St. Louis, led the American association last year with 60 points, and Dahlstrom, a St. Paul player in the same league, was third with 48 points.

Tomorrow morning, from 10 o'clock till noon, the squad will work on some new power plays which Manager Stewart has evolved. And if the weather affords more of a hocky atmosphere than that which existed today, Bill may let 'em bump each other around a bit.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

IN his share of a recent symposium in THE TRIBUNE, Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, gave Coach Francis Schmidt of Ohio State credit for the gag about opposition athletes putting on their pants one leg at a time same as all other athletes. . . . Almost simultaneously in a national publication Larry Kelley credited the crack to Coach Ducky Pond of Yale. . . . Though the supposed Schmidt wisecrack led to the awarding of trophies in the form of little gold pants, this department again points out the expression was first given sports vogue by one of Branch Rickey's employés, Lon Warneke. . . . Lon, when asked before the 1932 world series if he feared Babe Ruth, said: "Hell, no. I reckon he puts on his pants one leg at a time just like all the rest of us." . . . Later Lon said that he heard his grandpappy use the expression way down in Arkansas many years ago. . . . South Bend hotels are making reservations for this week-end only with the provision that rooms be paid for in advance for both Friday and Saturday nights. . . . This is an old custom in Columbus, but otherwise it's not common in Big Ten cities and other middle west football centers. . . . Z. G. Clevenger, Indiana university athletic director, hasn't missed a weekly meeting of the Rotary club in 13 years. . . . Dutch Clark, coach and star back of the Detroit Lions, who play the Bears at Wrigley field Sunday in one of the most important professional football games of the season, wears glasses off the field. . . . Landon High school of Jacksonville, Fla., and Leesburg High of Leesburg, Fla., played a regulation football game last Friday night without making a punt. . . . Landon won, 21 to 20. . . . The first three times Landon had the ball it scored touchdowns and the first three times Leesburg had the ball it, too, scored three touchdowns. . . . Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers rushes from the dressing room to the nearest soda emporium after each bout to fill up on cantaloupe and ice cream. . . . GRIFFITH AIMS BULLETIN AT WEEKLY POOLS

Merchants Give Aid in College Towns.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Tippling and betting have become concerns as important to officials of the Western conference as touchdowns and blocking to the men who direct the football destinies of the ten member schools. This was revealed yesterday by Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner of athletics, who stated that, while the situation is currently well in hand, the head men of the conference are making and will continue to make every effort to reduce the problems of drinking and gambling to a further minimum.

Neither of these subjects comes under the head of new business, Maj. Griffith pointed out, for they were moot in the early twenties, when such of the conference elders as Fielding Yost of Michigan, A. A. Stagg of Chicago, and the late George Huff of Illinois organized a Big Ten campaign to stamp out both.

Depression Has Effect.

The success of that initial drive was reflected consistently until the years of depression, when crowds dwindled and directors were occupied with more pressing tasks. Gradually the empty bottle league began to flourish again until it had reached considerable proportions about 1933. Meantime the betting dilemma was made more complex by the introduction of the football pool, enticing amateur prophets to test their clairvoyant gifts in the face of a dubious percentage.

The Big Ten directors rallied again and made such progress within three years that at their last annual meeting in December they agreed that once again they had narrowed the problem to a point where it could be controlled.

Schools Map Own Plans.

While Maj. Griffith was anticipating the 1937 season with a warning bulletin sent out to all schools on Aug. 4 of this year, each university was adopting its own plans to solve its problems in matters of betting and drinking.

The Big Ten has not been alone in attempting to solve the two problems. The task is a nation-wide one. Maj. Griffith yesterday recalled that last year a number of junk dealers actually bid for the empty bottle concession at one of our institutions, where the ivy grows thickest.

Opposition to gambling has not been confined to officials. Students also have taken a hand in the matter. Only last Thursday, fifteen of twenty-one fraternities at Northwestern took action to eradicate gambling on college games. They voted to expel any member found accepting bets or distributing football pool blanks. This move followed a charge by William Stivason, president of the interfraternity council, that several fraternity members are employed by a north shore syndicate to solicit football bets in the same fashion as agents do wagers on horses.

Broadcast Temperance Plea.

Northwestern also was one of the first schools this season to broadcast its sentiments on drinking. A plea to curtail imbibing in the stands was delivered between the halves of the Northwestern-Michigan game by Ade Schumacher, director of intramural athletics. Maj. Griffith yesterday said that the subsequent applause was one of the most encouraging features of the present campaign.

A number of Big Ten schools make their anti-drinking requests through announcements in the programs for games. Z. G. Clevenger, Indiana director of athletics, was one of the first to publish such pleas. The Purdue program regularly carries the following order in large bold face type: "The drinking of intoxicants in the Ross-Ade stadium is prohibited by the rules of Purdue university. Violators will be excluded from the stadium."

Guards Watch for Topers.

A majority of conference institutions employ a staf of guards to caution spectators who may be drinking to the point of annoying their neighbors. The city council of Champaign passed a law whereby drinking on the campus, which included the stadium, is a misdemeanor. Champaign merchants were among the first to display such window signs as "We Don't Hold Stakes on Football Games. We Don't Believe in Betting on College Sports."

The directors have gone to the scene itself for the best examples of progress they have made against drinking. That is, they have counted the number of empty bottles in a stadium after a game. Guards posted to supervise stands during a game also have furnished reports, and reactions to editorials in student papers, alumni bulletins, and programs have supplied further information.

Griffith States Stand.

Favorites Score in Mud at Sportsman's Park.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A cold wind out of the northwest, rain which at times turned to snow, and mud with a fringe of ice on it caused the 2,800 spectators at the Sportsman's Park race track yesterday to reflect for an instant and wonder what they had done with their summer's wages.

It was the most disagreeable racing day in Chicago in a half dozen years. The wonder of it all was that 2,800 made their way to the track where they wagered more than $140,000 during the afternoon.

Noted mud runners were in action in every event. And they ran pretty well to form, for favorites and heavily backed second choices were able to reach the winning post in nearly every race. The Algonquin purse at seven furlongs, the day's feature race, went to heavily backed Terpsichore, the daughter of Blue Pete-Silver Song, that has been running in high class company throughout the Chicago season.

Heads Sprint Division.

The victory, scored in the final strides after Jocky Tony Loturco, a Brooklyn lad, all but picked Terpsichore up and tossed her bodily over the wire in time to get the decision over Easy Sailing and Second Guess, placed the brown filly at the top of the sprinter division at Sportsman's Park.

The outcome might have been different if there had not been some wild running on the first turn. Second Guess, on the rail, suddenly decided to go wide. Out he went past the middle of the track, carrying Boston Sound with him. This eliminated both horses from the race, although Second Guess rallied somewhat and was able to get third money. All through the late stages, however, it was a struggle between Terpsichore and Easy Sailing.

Terpsichore ran the seven furlongs in the difficult going in 1:31 4-5. In the betting she paid $8.40 for a two dollar ticket.

Mudders Have Their Day.

All through the early part of the program the best muddy track performers were easy to peg. The crowd went with them and they delivered nobly. Gibby's Choice, the favorite, came from behind to capture the first race. Ogee, a mud runner that had been waiting for just such a track, was an easy winner of the second.

Then old Black Peter went into action in the third. Black Peter prefers mud to oats for breakfast, so the help in his stable reports. He drove up from behind to nip Hammel in the final strides in the seven furlong third race.

Bobbrax, another mudder deluxe, trained by Tommy Doyle, easily won the fourth race. He had mustered strong support, but went to the post as the second choice to the Blue Ridge Farm stable's Wise Princess.

Jerry Gardelle, who had been the hero of Monday's racing, put up a very weak ride on Wise Princess. The result was that she finished third back of Bobbrax and My Luck.

My Luck lost twenty lengths when he raced wide on every turn. He wasn't any luck at all for his owner, Ben Rosenheim of Chicago. After losing the race he pulled up lame and may not be able to race again for some time.

Long Shot Wins.

Long shot players didn't get warmed up until the sixth race. After Chickfire rolled home through the mud at a mutuel payoff of $79, they went into a war dance. He was much the best. His margin of victory was a length and a half over Bank Nite and Prince Alex.

GIBBY'S CHOICE, at home in the going and rated along under a strong hold early, moved up easily after three-eighths, overtook BENEDICTION without need of strong pressure and probably had something left.

OGEE, on the inside throughout and restrained until the final quarter, took command with a rush and held sway thereafter. FULL UP made the pace easily, went out badly on the final turn and did not menace the winner thereafter.

BLACK PETER, slow to settle into full stride, began to move up after half a mile, came to the outside for the drive and wore down HAMMEL in the last eighth. Latter, under reserve early, took command with a rush after reaching the last three-eighths, was steadied on the final turn and held on courageously but could not withstand the winner's challenge. IRISH PLAY forced early pace without need of urging.

BOBBRAX, well up from the start and placed to strong urging as MY LUCK drew away from him approaching the final quarter, raced to the lead with a rush as MY LUCK went out on the final turn and held her through the final straightaway. MY LUCK, probably best, went out badly on the first turn, took command quickly when straight and was racing strongly in front when she again went out on the final turn, continued to drift out in the stretch and pulled up lame.

Fine Braddock for New York Fight Runout

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The heavyweights moved back into the legal picture today when former Champion James J. Braddock and Joe Gould, his manager, appeared before the New York state athletic commission and were given until Dec. 1 to pay penalties of $1,000 each.

The fines were levied for failure to appear at the commission offices five days before Braddock's scheduled defense of his championship against Max Schmeling on June 3. At the time Braddock was in the west training for a title bout with Joe Louis, to whom he lost his crown in Chicago on June 22.

Asks for Forfeit.

Gould made the point this afternoon that he never had considered paying the money because of the ruling of a United States court in Philadelphia. The court set aside Madison Square Garden's request for a restraining order on the Louis-Braddock bout, and Gould held that, in as much as the court had not recognized the Braddock-Schmeling contracts, such contracts were voided and he was not subject to any penalty.

Braddock's manager also entered a claim for the $5,000 forfeit which Braddock put up as a guarantee of good faith to meet Schmeling. Gen. John J. Phelan, boxing commission chairman, rejected his claim and insisted that if the $2,000 in fines was not paid by Dec. 1 he would turn the matter over to the attorney general's office. Gould replied that he was willing to make a test case of it in the courts.

Phelan Has Last Word.

Gen. Phelan, however, had the last word. He announced that the suspensions handed Braddock and Gould at the same time as their fines would stick until the entire matter had been settled.

CHUCK WOODS TO MEET SALVADORE AT PARK CASINO

Marshall, Bruns Clash at Rainbo Fronton.

Chuck Woods, Detroit welterweight, will meet George Salvadore of Houston Tex., in a ten round bout at the Park casino, 3825 Madison street, tonight. The fight features a schedule of three boxing shows and a wrestling card.

The bout may develop into one of the best held on the west side this year. Salvadore must whip Woods, an excellent trial horse, if he expects to continue on the upgrade. In his local debut George lost to Milt Aron by a narrow margin, but in later fights he knocked out Eddie Carroll and whipped Gordon Wallace.

Harold Brown of the west side, handed Salvadore his second defeat. Brown's fine showing surprised fans. However, illness, which forced Salvadore to postpone his meeting with Brown from Oct. 4 to Oct. 11, weakened the Texan's chances.

In the six round secondary feature Carl Vinciquerra, former Chicago Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion, whose professional march was interrupted recently, will make a fresh start against Bernie Bowman, a growing lad weighing 220 pounds. Other bouts:

Georgie White and Eddie Helstrom [4], 145.
Frankie Agnes and Charley Hudson [4], 146.
Ring champions of the past and present will be introduced.

Everett Marshall will make the third Chicago defense of his heavyweight wrestling title tonight in a one hour bout with Bobby Bruns at Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. The supporting card:

Two amateur boxers from Bloomington, Ind., will head the card tonight at 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. Glenn Potter, Bloomington middleweight, is paired with John Farrell of Elgin and Johnny Purcell, Bloomington light heavyweight, with Chester Kozan of Chicago. . . . Another amateur program tonight will be presented at Cicero stadium, 18th street and 52d avenue. . . . Everett Rightmire, Sioux City, Ia., 128 pounder, hopes to earn a bout with Henry Armstrong by whipping Pete Lello of Gary at Chicago Stadium, Nov. 16. . . . Jack Dempsey was expected in the city last night to confer with Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois boxing commission about Dempsey's participation in the show at the Stadium which is being presented under the auspices of the Schenley Athletic club. . . .

Jack Stamper, South Chicago heavyweight, has agreed to face Chester Holman in a four round preliminary at White City Friday. The bill is topped by Art Oliver and Buddy Knox. . . . Chief Inspector Roger Wahlen, Assistant Tom Dolan, and Gymnasium Inspector Sam Gorenstein of the state athletic board, watched the boys at Trafton's gymnasium work out yesterday. . . . Jimmy Adamick, Midland, Mich., knock-out specialist, may be opposed by Bob Pastor in the next show at Detroit Olympia Nov. 12 or 19. Adamick clashes with Lou Thomas, Indianapolis heavyweight, at South Bend, Ind., Oct. 27. . . . Davey Miller is being sought to referee a ten round fight between Joe Sekyra and Red Burman at Dayton, O., Nov. 16.—F. M.

BONURA ATTACKS SPAGHETTI AND CHICAGO CRITICS

New Orleans, La., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Zeke Bonura, White Sox first baseman, is back in New Orleans as hungry as a wolf. He immediately began training on spaghetti at his home under directions of his mother.

Zeke Bonura.

"Sure, we beat the Cubs in the Chicago city series—I've got $534 in my purse to prove it, but what we want is that American league flag," Zeke said, between mouthfuls.

"Not that we've got much chance with those Yankees busting the ball the way they do. And not with the team we've got.

"Before we can get anywhere we've got to have a third baseman—Boze Berger still can't hit curve ball pitching—somebody to help Luke Sewell behind the plate, and at least one outfielder who smacks home runs."

He's Not a Slugger.

"Me, I am not a home run hitter. I only got twenty this season. I'm a fielder. That's me. I don't know, but I guess I'll be about second this year in fielding at first base," he continued modestly.

"About me being sick. That was on the level. I got hurt stealing home, which won the ball game and they say I'm playing possum. Now, ain't that terrible?

"And they say I was dancing in the hospital. They got that mixed up. It wasn't me—I was in too much pain—it was the nurses dancing for me, to cheer me up—you know what I mean.

"That part about me broadcasting a ball game, that was true. I couldn't play so I had to have something to do. Little extra money and easy, too. But that ain't saying I could get out on the field and play a game of ball, is it?

"Those Yankees, what a ball club! They've got everything. Mostly that Joe Di Maggio. He's my pal and what do you think he did? Beat me out of fourth place in American league batting by one point. Did it in the last game of the season, too. Got three out of four, and me only getting one for four.

O, for One More Hit!

"One more hit and I would have passed him up," Bonura went on. "And I almost got it. There I was, at bat, and I hits a line drive between third and second and that Lary smears it, right in his glove.

"But Di Maggio's all right . . . better'n all right. He's the tops. Best ball player ever to hit the major leagues. Better than Ty Cobb and all the rest of them. He can do everything better than Cobb except bunt, and that's a dead issue nowadays.

"Like I said, Joe and me is pals. When we play the Yankees we always get together for a little gabfest," Zeke continued, still eating.

Mustn't Fraternize, Zeke.

"Down in New York Joe and me was gabbin' with each other and talking about how clever Dagoes are when Jimmy Dykes, he's my manager, hollers from the dugout: 'Hey, you Dagoes, quit that fraternizing and giving those signals to one another.' Jimmy he was all wrong. I didn't exactly know what he meant by fraternizing, but all I know was that we were just talking like a couple of good pals."

"He was just kidding," Bonura interposed hastily, "but the sports writers took it up and wrote Dykes was giving me hell. Well, I guess they have to have something to write about."

SCRIMMAGE OFF, DE PAUL STUDIES PLAYS OF LOYOLA

Cold weather and rain forced Coach Ben Connor to call off yesterday's scheduled scrimmage of the De Paul university football team. However, Connor went over the plays of Loyola of New Orleans as reported by Assistant Coach Vin Flood, who scouted the Wolfpack in its victory over St. Edward's Sunday.

The southern school is coached by Larry [Moon] Mullins, who starred at Notre Dame under the late Knute Rockne. Mullins employs the Notre Dame system with a few variations.

OHIO STATE PITS RAZZLE DAZZLE AGAINST PURPLE

Columbus, O., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Ohio State will display its best in razzle-dazzle football when it meets Northwestern here Saturday, drills yesterday and today indicate.

Today the freshmen, armed with N. U. plays, opposed the regulars in a long defensive, the hardest since the return from the coast last week.

Expect 65,000 Crowd.

Several injuries among reserves were revealed today. Forrest Fordham, full back, turned up with an injured knee and probably will be unable to play Saturday. Victor Dorris will relieve Rabb.

Bill Bullock, substitute right half back, reported with a charley horse and Bill Phillips, left half, was excused with a bruised heel.

The ticket office has been deluged with orders and indications are, according to Henry D. Taylor, in charge of sales, that more than 65,000 persons will see the game.

IT'S O. K. WITH N. U.

Northwestern's football coaches and players aren't averse to being called lucky if it will help win games. Even the charge of Coach Francis Schmidt that the Wildcats were lucky to defeat Purdue failed to disrupt the even tenor of the Purple camp yesterday.

There is a faint suspicion, however, that the Wildcats believe it takes a little more than the smiles of Lady Luck to go through eleven Big Ten games without defeat. That is Northwestern's record now. It hasn't lost a conference game since the 21 to 13 defeat by Minnesota in 1935, although it has been held to a scoreless tie by Iowa that year.

As far as the Ohio State game is concerned, Coach Lynn Waldorf is content to have Northwestern established as the underdog even if it entails the charge of "lucky Wildcats."

Wildcats Have Answer.

In commenting on Ohio's strong defense, Waldorf pointed out yesterday that Northwestern is the only conference team to score on the Buckeyes in their last eight games. The Wildcats defeated Ohio, 14 to 13, last year.

With the reserves showing steady improvement this week, there is an indication that the pressure of playing sixty minute football will be taken off the regulars in the future.

Waldorf is pleased with the progress shown by the second and third string players. Jay Laskey and George McGurn, sophomore full backs, are being groomed to relieve Jack Ryan, who played the greater portion of the Michigan and Purdue games.

Reserves Get Chance.

Other sophomores who will probably get an opportunity to play against Ohio are John Haman, center; Hal Method and John Goldak, guards, and Boby Daly and Ted Grefe, ends. Tom Eby, junior end, who turned in a strong defensive game against Purdue, also is slated for duty Saturday.

John Kovatch, veteran end, who played only a few minutes in the Purdue game, may be unable to appear against the Buckeyes. Kovatch, who is one of the best pass receivers on the squad, has a leg injury that is slow in responding to treatment.

PURDUE LOOKS TO IOWA.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Purdue's football squad trotted through a light drill in the fieldhouse today in preparation for the last home game of the season against Iowa a week from Saturday.

With the exception of Andy Grant, guard, who will be out of action for several days because of a leg injury, and Paul Humphrey, center, who suffered a recurrence of an old nose injury, the squad came through the Wildcat battle in good physical condition.

Central 'Y' Basketball Men Open Drill Today

Central Y. M. C. A. high school will open basketball practice this afternoon. Central Y is a member of the Chicago Private School league, which will start its season early in December. Marny Newhorter, coach since 1927, expects fourteen candidates, including two veterans, Jimmy Svec, 6 foot 4 inch center from Berwyn, and Ernest Hilliard, forward, to try out for positions.

Rams Release Brumbaugh; Claimed by Brooklyn

Cleveland, O., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Cleveland Rams of the National Professional Football league today released Assistant Coach Carl Brumbaugh, 31 year old native of West Milton, O. Brumbaugh, a quarter back, came to the Rams from the Chicago Bears. Brumbaugh was claimed by Brooklyn and will leave tomorrow to join the Dodgers.

Michigan Goes Inside; Studies Iowa Offense

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A rainstorm sent Michigan's football team indoors for the second successive practice this afternoon, canceling offensive and fundamentals drills which Coach Harry Kipke had scheduled. A scrimmage for the reserves also was postponed for the second time.

Inside the Michigan squad could work only in dummy formations as new plays were worked against a reserve squad. Passes featured the offensive drills with Fred Trosko, sophomore half back, doing the throwing. The squad also got another look at Iowa formations.

Danny Smick, junior end, worked without pads today as he rested his injured shoulder. The remainder of the squad had recovered from injuries received in the Minnesota game. Fred Olds, guard, injured in the season's opener with Michigan State, was on hand, but may not be ready for Iowa.

Bill Barclay, regular quarter back for two years, worked as a regular today for the first time this season. He was at a half back position.

Rumors that James H. Lincoln, a tackle, would be the fourth member of the squad to resign this fall were given credence tonight by the fact he has not reported for drill this week.

Lincoln, a senior, won monograms the last two years, but was replaced by a sophomore this season.

IOWA HAS SCRIMMAGE.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The Iowa football squad was sent into scrimmage today in frigid weather as Coach Irl Tubbs worked on a running attack for use against Michigan here Saturday.

The Hawkeye running game is likely to be built around the shifty Kinnick and a knifing line plunger, Ed McLain, who will be at full back post in the absence of Glenn Olson. Eicherly, a veteran who played a strong game against Wisconsin, appears to have clinched the left half back post, while Bill Gallagher and Bush Lamb are waging a battle for the right half back position.

A long passing drill also was held today with Kinnick, McLain, Bush, and McCall doing some accurate hurling. Bob Lannon, veteran end, was rested because of a sore shoulder but will start against the Wolverines. Coach Tubbs is expected to use the same line Saturday which started against Wisconsin.

BADGERS DRILL INDOORS.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—An all day rain turned into a driving snowstorm this afternoon and the Wisconsin football squad was forced to seek the shelter of the university fieldhouse as it went through a dummy scrimmage with a freshman team using Pittsburgh plays.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher indicated he might start Jack Murray, big sophomore, at center in place of the veteran Neil Pohl.

Al Dorsch, sophomore tackle, is suffering from a minor infection that developed from a boil on his arm, but he was out for practice this afternoon and is certain to be available for the starting lineup against Pitt at Pittsburgh Saturday.

Several other members of the first string have minor injuries, but the squad probably will be intact for the first game in the east since Wisconsin played at Pennsylvania in 1931. That, however, does not include Erv Windward, veteran quarter back, and Roland Nelson, sophomore full back, who were disabled a week ago, perhaps for the season, by leg injuries.

The Pittsburgh game will be a homecoming for three Wisconsin sophomores, Jack Murray, Johnny Doyle, and Ed Hartman, who came to the university from Pennsylvania high schools a year ago.

HOOSIERS BLOCK.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Blocking drill consumed most of the practice period at the Indiana university football camp this afternoon. Improvement in downfield blocking, which was not up to par in the Illinois game last week, was sought as the Hoosiers brushed up on their offensive for the Cincinnati university game at Cincinnati Saturday.

The Hoosier squad will leave Friday morning by automobile for Cincinnati and will work out that afternoon in the university stadium.

ILLINI GET WARDLEY.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Jay Wardley, Illinois back, who has been incapacitated by an injury, practiced today. Wardley's return for the Michigan game on Oct. 30 should aid the Illinois offense since he is one of the best passers on the squad. It is probable that he will be assigned to a half back position, leaving Berner at quarter back.

SHORT DRILL FOR CHICAGO.

The University of Chicago squad, which has an open date Saturday, was given another short drill yesterday. Rain gave the Maroons a chance to practice handling a slippery ball.

YALE BUILDS UP DEFENSE AGAINST CORNELL PASSES

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Yale's first stringers had a light workout today, concentrating on pass defense against Cornell plays. They also had a dummy offensive drill. The reserves scrimmaged, with Bud Humphrey calling signals.

CORNELL JUGGLES LINEUP.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Coach Carl Snavely shifted the Cornell team about today during a dummy defensive scrimmage against the freshmen, but Holland and Spang, ends; McKeever and Hooper, linemen, and Brown, full back, played the full time without relief. The second team worked on defense against the scrubs, who used Yale plays.

HARVARD AIMS AT GOAL.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Harvard's A football team today aimed at the goal line in a 20 minute scrimmage with the C team, inside the 20 yard line. The coaches called it the best offensive scrimmage of the year. The B team had a similar session while the regulars ran through a defensive drill against Dartmouth plays.

DARTMOUTH WORKS HARD.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Dartmouth opened serious work for the Harvard game with a long, strenuous scrimmage on both offense and defense today. The strong defensive play of Larry Dilkes, Bob MacLeod, and Fred Hollingsworth featured the drill. The offense work mostly was on passing.

MANHATTAN HAS SCRIMMAGE.

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Manhattan's football squad scrimmaged for the first time in a month today, polishing up its plays for the Kentucky game in a two hour session. Several back field combinations were used, with the quartet of Joe Migdal, Jake Kopicki, Harry Fridley, and George Gerek showing up well.

FORDHAM STUDIES PASSES.

COLUMBIA STARS REST.

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Three Columbia regulars were permitted to rest as the Lions drilled in the rain today to test their running attack against the Brown defense. Johnny Siegal, Art Waldo, and Jack Wright were the absentees. They are expected to be in the lineup Saturday.

PASSES WORRY N. Y. U.

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—New York university concentrated upon pass defense today in a light, rainy day drill which was followed by a blackboard session. The secondary defense played closer to the line than before. N. Y. U. plays Lafayette Saturday, but is pointing for Colgate.

COLGATE DRILLS FOR DUKE.

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Colgate worked hard on its defense against Duke formations today. Eddie Van Orden, fleet sophomore, took the rôle of Duke's Honey Hackney and made several good gains. He also was smeared at times by ends Pete Ritchko and Don Wemple.

NEW PLAYS FOR SYRACUSE.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Ossie Solem drilled the Syracuse squad in blocking today as the players had a spirited workout, their first since beating Cornell. The regulars tried some new plays while the second team had a short offensive scrimmage against the freshmen.

York, Downers Grove Elevens Meet for Lead

The West Suburban High School conference football leadership will be at stake when Downers Grove meets York at Elmhurst Saturday afternoon. Each team has won two games. Downers Grove has rolled up 38 points to 6 for the opposition, and York has made 13 while opponents have made six.

La Grange and Maine, third and fourth, respectively, in the West Suburban league, meet on the former's field Saturday. La Grange has won two and tied one. Maine has triumphed in one and lost one. In the other league game, Glenbard plays at Riverside.

Waukegan of the Suburban league will travel to Freeport, Ill., for a night game Friday, and in one of the leading miscellaneous games carded for Saturday, Howe school of Howe, Ind., plays at Morgan Park Military academy.

George Lennon and Emil Schmidt, left end and right guard respectively on the St. Mel Catholic High school eleven, will return to action Sunday afternoon when the west side school meets Leo of the south section in a charity game. The game will be played at Soldiers' field, with proceeds going to the Sisters of Mercy fund.

A special section will be reserved for alumni when Lane Tech plays Schurz in its homecoming game at Lane field Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Lane is tied with Schurz and Roosevelt for second place, each team having won three games while dropping one.

Feature games in the Catholic league Sunday afternoon will bring together Fenwick and Loyola on the latter's gridiron, and De La Salle against Mount Carmel at Shewbridge field. In the north section race, Fenwick has won two and Loyola has registered two victories against one defeat. De La Salle is undefeated in two starts in the south section, while Mount Carmel has lost one of its three games.

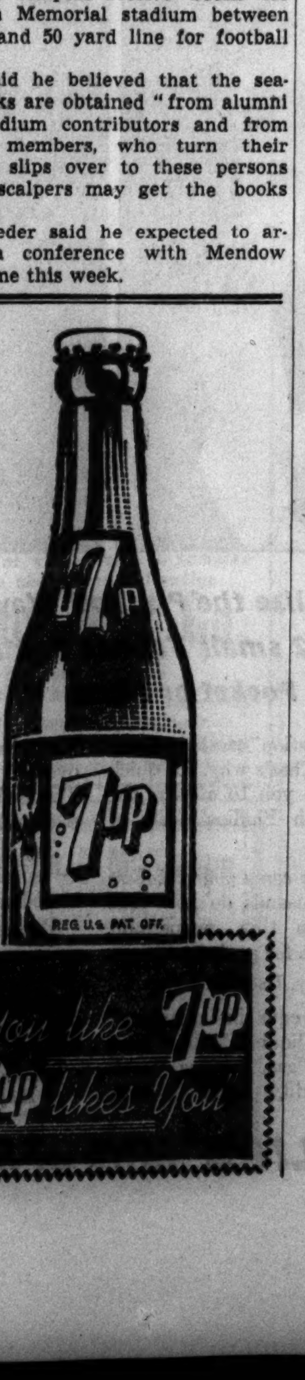
CLAIMS GAMBLERS OBTAIN CHOICE GOPHER SEATS

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Hiram Z. Mendow, former Anoka County Municipal court judge, charged today that downtown gamblers and professional ticket scalpers are able to obtain large quantities of season athletic ticket books at the University of Minnesota.

Mendow, in a letter to L. L. Schroeder, university ticket manager, said the scalpers receive books for seats in Memorial stadium between the 40 and 50 yard line for football games.

He said he believed that the season books are obtained "from alumni and stadium contributors and from faculty members, who turn their priority slips over to these persons so the scalpers may get the books direct."

Schroeder said he expected to arrange a conference with Mendow some time this week.



BIG TEN CURBS FOOTBALL BETS AND DRINKING

"Some one has figured out that if a boy in one of the football pools bets that he can pick five winners, the odds are 242 to 1, which means that the operators pay off at 8 to 1. They pay off at 12 to 1 for seven winners, and the odds against picking seven are 2,186 to 1. I cannot vouch for the accuracy of these figures. However, there can be no question but that anyone who bets his money in the football pools is a sucker."

"We have not gone into this with a holler-than-thou attitude," Maj. Griffith said. "Rather, we have appealed to the public's common sense by pointing out that reduction of drinking and betting are for its own protection as well as its full enjoyment of a game, and to its willing response that we feel we owe our success."

ASK LIQUOR'S RETURN

An editorial yesterday in the Daily Maroon, student newspaper, urged University of Chicago authorities to restore liquor to the campus in order to bring the students back from the taverns and night clubs. At present liquor is barred at all campus eating and dancing places. Leon P. Smith, assistant dean in charge of social activities, last night said there will be no change in the university's policy.

NOTRE DAME HAS WOE APLENTY, BUT IT RAINS ANYWAY

Mud Stalls Its Drive for Scoring Punch.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Rain, mud, and a cold north wind forced Coach Elmer Layden to take his Notre Dame football squad into the gymnasium today for a light drill on defense against Navy plays.

Dummy scrimmage replaced the live scrimmage Layden had hoped to stage on Cartier field, and he therefore was unable to execute his plan for developing a scoring punch inside the 10 yard line. He had planned to give each of his varsity teams the ball on the 10 yard stripe, against the freshmen, and to make them drive over with straight running plays. He may do this tomorrow, he said.

Fear that the cold, damp weather might result in colds forced the shift to the gym. Yesterday Layden worked his squad in the mud, but in a more moderate temperature.

Ed Simonich, junior full back, was released from the hospital today after being under observation for five days for a possible attack of jaundice. He will join the squad tomorrow. Mario Tonelli was in uniform again today, ready to open the battle to regain the first team full back berth he lost with injuries last week.

NAVY WORKS IN RAIN.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The Navy squad, working in the rain, began special preparations today for the game with Notre Dame Saturday. The squad shifted from its usual practice field to firmer ground nearby.

Coach Harry Hardwick plans to start Bill Ingram in the back field, rather than Lem Cooke, who took Ingram's place against Harvard last Saturday. Ingram will be playing in his home state, as will Bob Antrim and Charley Reimann, other backs scheduled to start. The fourth back, Frank Case, is from Illinois.

HISTORIC SITES IN TENNESSEE HILLS BECKON TOURISTS

Travelers Visit Birthplace of Ku Klux Klan.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pulaski, Tenn., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Tennessee's southern hills, the old battlegrounds of the Tennessee army under Gen. Grant and the home of the original Ku Klux Klan, gave beauty and sustenance for thought to Gov. Gordon L. Browning's official tour of this state today, participated in by newspaper and automobile club representatives from 36 states.

The governor himself, who comes from the red clay country near here, was absent from the tour, engaged in a political struggle of national importance with the federal administration forces and the Crump machine in Memphis.

The tourists were entertained in Memphis last night by the Delta Commercial club, and were all but kidnaped by Mississippi, but Boss Ed Crump and Mayor Watkins Overton, his henchman, were notably absent.

Tourists Hear Address.

Former State Senator David Rhea of Pulaski called attention in an address to the tour group this afternoon to the klan's birth here and also to the fact that this was the first city in the state to take TVA power three years ago. Rhea expressed the hope that industry would multiply in this city as a result. It has not yet quite arrived.

Senator Rhea said of his town: "Pulaski is a beautiful, happy, placid little city of about 5,000 hospitable, refined, energetic, loyal citizens whose lives are such that their thoughts will never march reproachfully over the burial grounds of their dreams."

Pulaski is framed in soft, superb, scenic beauty, causing the smile on the face of the earth that forms the dimple of the universe.

Two Historic Events.

Two events outstanding in history took place in Pulaski. Just after the civil war the original Ku Klux Klan was organized here and after it had served its valuable purpose it disbanded, leaving its secrets forever entombed within the hectic days of its vital existence.

Sam Davis, an outstanding hero of the war, was hanged in Pulaski. He was captured by federal troops and valuable information was found on him. He was offered his freedom if he would reveal the name of his informer. He remained magnificently silent. While standing on the gallows he again was offered his freedom if he would give the name. His answer was this immortal sentence: "If I had a thousand lives, I would give them all before I would betray a friend, or the confidence of my informer."

Milky Way Farm Nearby.

Near here is the famous Milky Way stock farm, owned by the Mars estate of Chicago, where there are great herds of dairy and beef cattle, a race track and race horses.

The tourists also visited Sewanee, where the University of the South, a Protestant Episcopal institution, is an attraction of pink sandstone on a campus of 10,000 acres.

The tour party passed through the famous crimson clover district of Winchester, the birthplace of Sir Francis Joseph Campbell, a blind man who organized the Royal Normal School for the Blind in London.

At Fayetteville the tourists passed the old stone bridge where Old Hickory mobilized his troops in 1813 for his campaign against the Spaniards and Indians in Florida. They arrived in Chattanooga in the evening to spend a day in the Lookout mountain district.

FEDERAL POLICY CHIEF CAUSE OF DROP IN STOCKS

Taxes, Regulations Are Discouraging.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

"What is wrong with the stock market?"

The replies to this question by bankers, brokers and business men indicate clearly that no single development has occurred which might be blamed for the slump which has sheared between 20 and 25 billion dollars from market values of stocks during the last two months. If there had been a single outstanding cause, it is reasonable to believe that it would have been spotted. The very multiplicity of answers indicates that the decline has been due to a number of developments.

It is significant, however, that most of the reasons advanced trace back to doings of the administration in Washington.

Taxes Discourage Business.

Higher taxes and the threat of still further boosts to cover continuing federal deficits have discouraged business men and investors. The stringent provisions of the new securities legislation have prevented company "insiders" from supporting their own stocks when they have reached levels unduly low, and have all but eliminated professional support of any kind.

The capital gains tax, extraordinarily effective under the higher tax rates, has kept large investors from selling when the stock quotations are high and has induced them to sell when the stock prices are depressed. Profits of corporations themselves have been reduced by increases in operating expenses, chiefly forced wage increases resulting from labor troubles fomented by administration support.

"Planned Money" Theories Fail.

Back of all these more immediate influences lies the administration's manipulation of the flow of money and credit—the story of the Washington "planned money" managers' more or less successful attempt to generate an inflation boom and the story of the collapse of this inflation boom when the money managers became frightened at the possible consequences of their inflationary program and sought to stem the boom by padlocking some of the implements of inflation.

The upturn in business volume and in the price of stocks that began after the bank moratorium of March, 1933, was partly the result of the workings of the natural forces of recovery that follow any depression, but it was also partly the result of inflation.

Adopt "Rubber Dollar."

In adopting the Warren-Rogers "rubber dollar" theory the administration deliberately sought to stimulate rising prices and an accompanying increase in business volume by debasing the dollar. Marriner S. Eccles, Utah banker, who had championed the theory of "spending for prosperity," was brought to Washington to head the federal reserve board and aid the treasury department in its program of borrowing billions of dollars from the nation's banks on government I. O. U.s. As the treasury borrowed these billions, the administration spent them to "prime the pump."

Thus for three years the developments that normally might be sufficiently discouraging to business to have a bearish effect on the stock market were offset by the bullish effects of the administration's inflation pump priming program.

Foreign Capital Attracted.

Rising security prices here—plus the bad financial outlook and war threats in European nations—attracted foreign capital to America. In came a flood of gold to cover these transfers of capital and up went the excess reserves [unemployed loanable cash] of the commercial banks.

Excess bank reserves are the real dynamite of any situation in which bank credit is expanding or threatens to expand too sharply.

Early this spring when the excess reserves of the member banks of the federal reserve system reached 3 billion dollars—sufficient cash basis for a 30 billion dollar expansion of bank credit—the administration began to talk about "dampening" the boom before it should get out of hand.

Chairman Eccles made a speech in which he even discussed the possibility of reducing the official price of gold. President Roosevelt spoke against the rapidly rising trend of commodity prices.

Reserve Board Interferes.

More important, the federal reserve board—under Eccles' leadership—began to act. By a series of moves, beginning in March, a large part of the dynamite in the banking situation was padlocked in the federal reserve system by an arbitrary increase in the amount of cash which the commercial banks were required to pledge with the reserve banks.

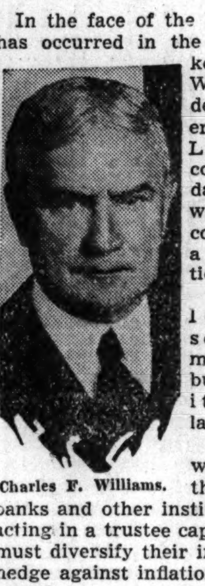
HOW WAR AFFECTED BUSINESS
5. Commodity Prices in the World War

INSURANCE HEAD SAYS INFLATION STILL COMING

In the face of the big decline that has occurred in the securities market Charles F. Williams, president of the Western and Southern Life Insurance company, yesterday reiterated his warning that the country is in for a period of inflation.



Charles F. Williams.

"It is coming. I don't know how soon or how much," he said, but we will feel it sooner or later."

Persons who want to protect their funds, and banks and other institutions that are acting in a trustee capacity for others must diversify their investments as a hedge against inflations, Williams asserted.

Says Stocks Are Necessary.

He said that prudent management dictates that part of one's investment funds are placed in real estate and common stocks.

In the meanwhile, he added, the stock market is declining because Washington has the country "groggy."

"The government," he said, "is supporting its own bonds while the prices of other bonds are falling. It is doing the same thing that Wall street was so heartily condemned for doing a few years ago. The values which the government is maintaining for its securities are fictitious as may be readily seen by an examination of the government's finances."

Hopeful for Future.

For the immediate business future Williams is optimistic. Life insurance sales are holding up and there is no evidence of a serious curtailment in business, he asserted.

Labor's emphasis on high hourly and daily wage rates, he said, is endangering the prospect for a genuine building boom.

"It is not so important that a man earn $1 an hour part of the year as that he has an income the year around," Williams said. "I am all for high wages, but not when they sacrifice steady employment as they do in many lines. The high costs in the building industry furnish a good example of how business may be stifled when things are out of balance."

Views of Economists Differ on Effect of Market Crash

A variety of opinion and comment bearing on the business situation and outlook, some reassuring and some pessimistic, was brought forth yesterday by the further break and later recovery in the security markets.

Two statements attracted particular attention, one made in London by Gen. Charles G. Dawes, in which the significance of the market's decline was minimized, and the other by Maj. L. L. B. Angas, professional economic adviser, who declared that his faith in government money management was badly shaken. Angas has been one of the most earnest apologists of the government's economic policies.

Economist Admits Error.

Angas admitted that he had made "a most eggregious error" in advising his clients last month to buy stocks. He related that early in September he urged reserve board officials to spend part of the dollar devaluation fund to support bond prices. Shortly thereafter, he declared, the administration announced its plan to release $300,000,000 of sterilized gold as a recovery stimulant. Thereupon, he said, he told his customers to buy.

"But my faith in the money managers, as men, had been too great," he said.

Gen. Dawes said in London that most economic barometers show that industry and business in the United States is prosperous while the stock market is falling.

"A sudden fall in stock quotations during a period of prosperity, when general credits of the country are not unduly expanded, does not necessarily presage any dangerous slackening of general business," he asserted.

Recalls 1901 Panic.

Dawes recalled the stock market panic of 1901, when Northern Pacific stock was cornered. The market was severely depressed, he said, but general business was not seriously depressed.

Dr. Hugh Magill, president of the American Federation of Investors, issued a statement in which he asserted that the stock market's crash is a direct outgrowth of the lack of public confidence in the government.

"With all business, large and small, completely controled by politicians, and with the stock exchange not merely properly regulated as it should be but securely bound and tied, this crash cannot be blamed on Wall street without confessing the failure of those who now under government regulation presume to control Wall street," Magill said.

Thaddeus R. Benson, president of the Chicago Stock exchange, said last night he is hopeful that the securities and exchange administration, and the federal reserve board have been convinced by the market's collapse that the high margin requirements and other restrictive regulations should be eased.

"The results of these experiments at regulation are a matter of public record," he said. "I am hopeful that federal officials will take immediate steps to correct them before greater harm befalls the public by a repetition of the market collapse."

Benson expressed the opinion that securities are "on the bargain counter" at present prices.

Blames Tax on Profits.

Arthur A. Ballentin, assistant secretary of the treasury under President Coolidge, in a speech in New York urged immediate repeal of the tax on undistributed profits. The tax, he said, is "one of the causes of the falling off in business and employment."

R. H. Cabell, president of Armour & Co., speaking at the opening of a new branch plant in Rochester, N. Y., said that trade conditions are "excellent" and there is no logical basis for the current slump in the stock market.

"I think that as soon as investors get over their jitters, the stock market situation will adjust itself satisfactorily," he declared.

Raps Federal Financing.

Henry H. Heimann, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men, expressed the opinion that with the exception of the governmental financial outlook the credit picture is sound.

"The only phase of the credit situation that gives business real concern is the continuing inability of the federal government and some of the state governments to adopt budget-balancing and debt reduction programs," he said. He spoke at a meeting of the National Wholesale Hardware association at the Palmer house.

The Babson organization, which has been consistently bullish on business outlook, reiterated its views. Ralph B. Wilson, vice president of the organization, said in a speech in Cleveland yesterday that there is nothing to indicate that the country is facing an economic readjustment.

"Barring world upheavals which nobody can predict, and making due allowance for the usual business recessions in a long pull movement, we have ahead of us either two years of over-expansion or four or five years of an indefinite period of real prosperity if business stays close to the line or normal development," he said.

SHARPEST DROP OF YEAR SWEEPS HOG COSTS DOWN

One of the sharpest declines of the year swept the market for hogs yesterday. Prompted by increased receipts, lower prices for pork and uncertainty created by the prolonged decline of the stock market, buyers made another bear raid on all classes of swine.

Young spring pigs weighing 175 to 225 pounds, which made up about 85 per cent of the supply, were hit hardest. These fell mostly 50 to 60 cents, with some late sales 75 cents under the high point of the preceding session. At the close of the day it was hard to beat $10.25 for top grades, the lowest they have been in more than six months, as compared with a top of $11 early Monday. A few early sales yesterday, up to $10.65, later were about 40 cents out of line.

Declines of 50 cents to $2 a hundred were registered in fresh pork at the various distributing points yesterday.

COMMODITIES HIT NEW LOWS, THEN RECOVER

Most Closing Prices Show Declines.

Commodity prices declined again yesterday, in some instances reaching new low ground for the season, then rallied sharply with the recovery in the security markets. Closing prices of most staples were below the preceding day but well above the lows for the day. Some commodities closed with moderate gains.

Transactions in the forenoon resulted in substantial price write-downs in all markets. The action of the cotton market was typical. Opening sales were made below Monday's final quotations, after which the market strengthened. Closing prices were unchanged to 30 cents a bale higher.

Rubber and Hides Recover.

Rubber, cocoa, and hides recovered from their forenoon low prices as the selling pressure on the markets lifted. Cocoa closed with a slight gain. Rubber and hide futures were moderately lower for the day.

Final prices on hide futures were approximately a quarter cent below Monday's level. Hides for delivery next December closed at 12.06 cents per pound. Rubber closed with net losses of 0.09 to 0.15 of a cent. Hides for delivery this month closed at 15.57 cents. Final transactions in cocoa futures were 0.29 to 0.32 of a cent higher, the December contract ending at 5.90 cents a pound.

Metal Futures Off Fractionally.

Weakness in the London market preceded a decline in metal prices. Copper closed unchanged in the spot market at 12 cents a pound. In the futures market final prices were off 0.10 to 0.15 of a cent, November deliveries ending at 10.20 cents.

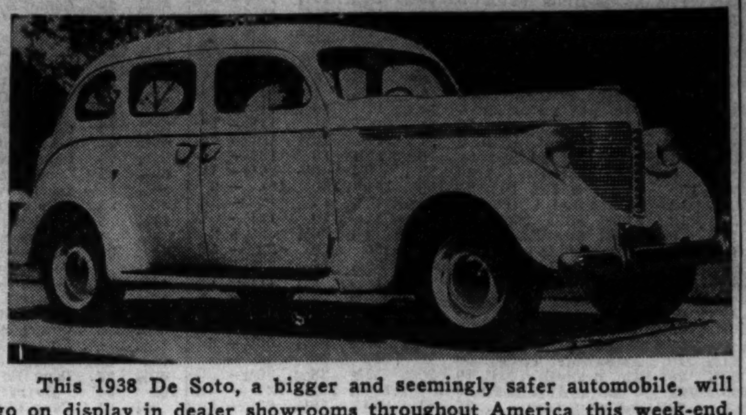
Egg futures declined a half cent a dozen on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. Butter closed unchanged after recovery from an early break of half a cent a pound. Potatoes advanced to $1.70 per hundred weight for January delivery, a new high for the season.

CROMWELL SEES REGIMENTATION IN U. S. POLICIES

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—James H. R. Cromwell, coauthor of "In Defense of Capitalism," addressing the Poor Richard club here today, said that "such measures as deposit insurance, unemployment insurance, compulsory collective bargaining, wage-hour legislation and crop control are not only sign posts on the road to regimentation, but are attempts to cure current evils by enacting legislation which is purely wishful."

"They are not based upon any real knowledge or consideration of fundamental facts," he said, "and are, therefore, palpable efforts to control irresistible economic forces by congressional edict."

NEW DE SOTO MODEL



This 1938 De Soto, a bigger and seemingly safer automobile, will go on display in dealer showrooms throughout America this week-end.

1938 De Soto to Be Shown at Week-End

BY HAL FOUST.

The 1938 De Soto, with improvements emphasizing safety, will be presented to the public this week-end. The style, which would have been daring a few years ago, is a conservative adaptation of the new year's trend in motor cars.

The new automobile has a wheel base three inches longer than its predecessor. The hydraulic brakes are larger and more powerful. The frame is sturdier. A deeper windshield gives the driver a 12 per cent increase in visibility range. Steering apparatus is mounted in rubber to absorb road shocks.

The headlamps are nested in large front fenders. The lights are set farther apart for better road illumination. The horizontal chromium bars of the grille sweep back along the hood to form side louvres. The grille is divided in the center of the front by a verticle column of chromium louvres edged in body coloring.

The De Soto line is composed of seven body types, including a four door sedan with trunk, a four door sedan with luggage compartment, two door brougham with trunk, coupé with luggage deck, convertible coupé with rumble seat, convertible sedan, and seven passenger sedan.

LEADING STOCKS SWING WIDELY; MOST GAIN IN DAY

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Illinois commerce commission reported today that sales of electricity to consumers during September totaled 602,031,259 kilowatt hours, a gain of 7.9 per cent over September, 1936, and a loss of 0.7 per cent from August.

CHICAGO STOCKS RECOVER AFTER SEVERE BREAK

Trading Heaviest in 18 Months.

After slumping even more sharply than in the previous day's crash, Chicago stocks recovered most of their early losses before the final gong yesterday. The list as a whole finished lower than on Monday, the rally failing to gather as much strength here as in New York.

With Chicago corporation common setting a dizzy pace on a 31,350 share turnover, the exchange had its busiest trading day of the year. Volume reached 238,000 shares, compared with 112,000 Monday, and set a high mark since 258,000 shares were traded on Feb. 6, 1936. More issues were traded—170—than during any single day since Dec. 3, 1936.

Rally After Slump.

After sinking to 1¾ Chicago corporation recovered to close at 2 with a loss of ⅛ for the day. Similar courses were taken by other leading issues.

Armour common wound up unchanged at 6 after touching 4¾. Middle West common slipped to 3⅝ before rallying to close at 4⅞ for a gain of ⅝. Its subsidiary, Central and Southwest, hit a low of 1⅛, recovered to 1½ and closed at 1¼, off ¼ for the day. Each of these three issues had a turnover of about 10,000 shares.

Turnover of 5,200 to 7,200 shares was recorded in General Household Utilities, Commonwealth Edison, Cities Service, Butler Brothers, and Merchants and Manufacturers. Changes were held to fractions in all five cases. Edison at one time dropped to 20½ before coming back to 23 for a loss of only ⅝.

Radio Issues Erratic.

Zenith Radio recovered 2½ of its 7¼ point loss of Monday, closing at 16½ after hitting a low of 12¼ in a 4,500 share volume. Utah Radio came back to 1½, up ⅜ from the Monday close. Borg-Warner also made a partial recovery, closing up 2¼ at 30¼.

Some of the larger losers yesterday included Bliss & Laughlin, off 4; Marshall Field, off 1½; Goldblatt, off 3; Illinois Brick, off 1½; Noblitt Sparks, off 2; Schwitzer Cummins, off 2½; Swift International, off 1⅛; Crane, off 2¾.

Of the 170 issues traded, 127 declined, 12 advanced, and 31 were unchanged.

THE TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks closed at 10.46 after reaching a low of 8.81 and touching a high of 10.64. Closing averages were 10.68 on Monday and 12.04 last Saturday.

Letters of a business man to his son
XXII
DEAR SON:
We are happy to learn that your firm has decided to change over from a partnership to a corporation. It indicates that the firm is growing—the kind of a firm to be connected with.
Your question as to whether you should save to buy stock in the new corporation is a good one, though you may not be offered the chance until you've been with the firm a bit longer. But your holdings, however small, in the enterprise that employs you, will give you that sense of ownership which is at the bottom of most business successes. There is, however, another angle to the problem.
Your knowledge of the firm has been collected chiefly in line of duty. You know the quality of the firm's products and the regard in which the public holds them. You're satisfied the business is sound and is going places. On the other hand, behind that growing business is a financial structure concerned with capitalization, methods of financing, disposition of earnings, and the management's point of view regarding the future. You must study these things, too.
Regarding these angles, I suggest you talk with your banker. He is a student of the financial structure of many businesses. He is also a student of the trends in business—the direction in which different kinds of businesses and industries are going. He can give you a lot of valuable information on how to evaluate a stock by a study of the firm's financial set-up and a knowledge of the trend which such industries are taking, based on markets, competition, new inventions and other such vital business statistics. You'll be surprised at how many facts he can supply you on which to base your decision.
I am glad of this opportunity to recommend to you, as I have so often, the services of your bank. This occasion will demonstrate to you, as nothing else can, that your bank is the best business partner you could have.
Affectionately,
DAD

higher, among them Anaconda Copper, American Smelting, General Electric, Goodyear Tire, International Harvester, International Nickel, Loew's, Montgomery Ward, New York Central, Southern Pacific and Westinghouse Electric.

Boardrooms of brokerage houses across the continent, which have been deserted until the market slump started two months ago, were crowded to capacity. Chicago houses were jammed by both the curious and security owners who watched the value of their investments melt away and then recover.

Blocks of as much as 25,000 shares flashed across the illuminated tap with unusual frequency.

Confusion Delays Opening.

Confusion was so pronounced at the start of trading that first transactions in many instances were delayed long after the opening because buyers and sellers could not get together on prices. An example was Nash-Kelvinator common, in which the first sale was made around noon. A block of 25,000 shares changed hands at $5 a share, a loss of more than 50 per cent over night. The stock closed at $9.62½.

That stocks would open sharply lower was indicated long before the opening. Brokerage house clerks worked throughout Monday night, counting up customers' losses incurred that day and issuing calls for more margin. Inability of many to meet these additional demands for money forced the sale of their holdings.

Ticker Behind Market.

So overloaded was the quotations ticker that tape watchers had little idea of what was actually happening on the floor of the exchange. At times the bond ticker was used to list spot prices of leading shares direct from the exchange floor. But this was of little use to holders of the hundreds of less active stocks. For a short time at noon the ticker caught up with transactions, but when the afternoon rally set in it again fell behind.

The crowd of brokers was thick around the odd lot post where transactions are carried on for the "little fellow." In Washington, the Securities and Exchange commission announced that the "little fellow" during Monday's break supported the market, buying three shares for every two he sold. The volume of odd lot business—less than 100 shares—was about twice as large as usual.

The hectic trading in all markets was accompanied by a wide assortment of rumors. Would the exchange be closed by the President? What is the Securities and Exchange commission doing? Why are prices dropping? Is another depression here?

President Denies Closing.

One of these questions was answered at Hyde Park, N. Y., where official sources said the President had no intention of closing the exchange.

Mr. Roosevelt refused to discuss the market slump and indicated he is not contemplating reference to it when he dedicates the new federal reserve board building in Washington today.

Officials in both the Washington and New York SEC offices kept close watch on the situation but had little to say. It was announced early in the afternoon that a statement would be given newspaper men after the close of the market, but around 2 o'clock this meeting was canceled and it was disclosed that Ernest Angell, head of the New York office of the SEC, had been summoned to Washington.

London Market Lower.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The decline in the American securities market caused a general recession in stock prices on the market today. Trading closed here before the late recovery began in Wall street and final quotations were well under the preceding day.

Stocks Sag In Paris.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The securities market was lower today, influenced by the decline in New York. International issues were the principal weak spots.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

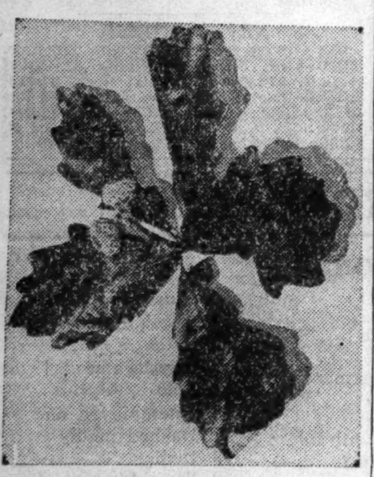
Flora of Chicagoland (Swamp White Oak)

October 19, 1937.

THERE is an oak tree in the edge of a marshy spot near a large pond at the Wheaton farm. For many years passersby thought it was just another bur oak. It did resemble a bur oak in some ways, and bur oaks are common on the farm. Some thought it might be a white oak, as it had some of the characteristics of white oaks, which also are common there.

All agreed that the tree probably was very old. It was not an unusually large oak, but the bark on the limbs was rough and scaly and the lower branches drooped as though bent with age. People talked about how storms and heavy sleets in years past must have bent the branches until they never were able to straighten up.



Twig of Swamp White Oak.

Seedlings Spring Up.

The tree usually had a good crop of acorns. The acorns were large and sweet and when they fell the sheep nuzzled among the leaves, hunting for them, and squirrels carried many of them away to store in hollow trees for winter. Some of the acorns became buried and sprouted and the seedlings sprang up around the parent tree.

When workers at the farm began making a close study last summer of the different kinds of trees growing on the place they discovered that the oak near the big pond was neither a bur oak nor a white oak, but a swamp white, a member of the white oak family but differing in many respects from either the ordinary white or the bur. The tree was easily distinguished from the white and bur oaks once its identity was established and a careful observation was made.

The trunk of the swamp white oak runs well up through the branches to the top of the tree and maintains its identity all the way up instead of branching out to form large limbs like bur oaks. The crown of the tree is round and comparatively open. Most white oaks at the farm have pointed tops, and the tops of bur oaks usually are blunt.

Just in Its Prime.

The bark is light gray and resembles that of the white oaks, but is much more rough and scaly, especially on the twigs and small branches. The drooping lower limbs have many small twigs hanging down, giving the tree a ragged appearance. It is the scaly bark, the scraggly twigs, and the drooping branches that make the tree look so old and weatherbeaten. A botanist said all those things were natural with swamp white oaks and that the tree probably was not so old as ages of oak trees go. His guess was that it was only about 200 years old—just in its prime. He said it seemed strong and healthy and explained that swamp white oaks sometimes live 300 or 400 years, although they usually are mature at about 200 years.

The swamp white oak is known to botanists as Quercus bicolor. The name is applied because of the two distinct colors of the leaf in summer—dark green above and almost white underneath. The leaves are not deeply lobed and are wedge shaped at the base. They are just beginning now to take on their bright fall colors.

About the easiest means of identifying the swamp white oak is by the acorns. They usually grow in pairs and always stand out prominently on the ends of stems about two inches long. They now are a chestnut brown color, and most of them have dropped from their deep, rough cups.

60 or 70 Feet Tall.

Other swamp white oaks have been found at the farm since the men have learned to identify them, but they are not nearly so common as the five other kinds of oaks growing there. Most of them are in low, wet ground near the ponds. They occur most frequently in northern Illinois in the margins of swamps around kettle lakes in the terminal moraine.

Mature swamp white oaks usually are two or three feet in diameter and 60 to 70 feet tall. Some originally found in virgin forests in Illinois were much larger. The trees are native to most of the northeastern quarter of the country. The wood closely resembles that of ordinary white oak and is used for the same purposes.

FEDERAL POLICY CHIEF CAUSE OF DROP IN STOCKS

Taxes and Regulations Discourage Business.

Almost overnight the commercial banks found that instead of having 3 billion dollars crying for employment they had only 750 millions.

At exactly that time — early in March—the securities markets began going downhill. Stocks declined steadily until midyear, when the adjournment of congress and the failure of the President's plan to pack the Supreme court lent the market a bit of temporary cheer.

Federal Plans Cause Slump.

About the middle of August, when the outline of the administration's plan to revive the salient features of the NRA and the AAA, and to continue other economic experiments became clear, the stock market began to fall more sharply than ever. The trend in bond prices, including government bonds, has also been downward since last March.

Developments regarded by investors and business men as discouraging since March have temporarily lacked the offsetting influence of inflation and the steepness of the recent descent has been emphasized by the removal of market "cushions" by the new securities legislation.

Last month the treasury and the federal reserve board hurriedly tried to restore some of the inflation dynamite to the banking situation by increasing the excess reserves of the member banks, but the move came too late to stop the decline immediately.

Wall Street.

Wall street does not control the business of the United States. It is a street in the southern end of the borough of Manhattan, New York City, extending from Broadway to the East river. Because along it are housed the New York Stock exchange, large banks, the principal money market, it has long been the financial center of the United States and hence has become a symbol of big business. The name is derived from an old wall which once stretched along the street when New York belonged to the Dutch.

"Wall street," when used as a term describing big business, extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans and from the Canadian border to the gulf. George A. Ball, the financier and glass jar manufacturer of Muncie, Ind., is just as much "Wall street" as is J. P. Morgan of 23 Wall street, New York City.

Policies of many great enterprises are shaped in Wall street because control of some of these corporations is concentrated in offices along Wall street or adjacent to the financial district. But ownership may be spread throughout the country, as in the case of American Telephone and Telegraph company, which is owned by nearly 650,000 stockholders, none of whom holds as much as 1 per cent of the total stock, and whose average ownership is 29 shares.

Allow Roads to Boost 1st Class Passenger Fares

Western and southern railroads yesterday were granted permission by the interstate commerce commission to increase first class passenger fares — covering Pullman travel — from 2 to 2¼ cents a mile. The roads requested the increase a month ago on the ground that the charges for first class travel are out of line with coach travel. Coach fares will continue at the old rates of 2 cents a mile one way, or 1.8 cents a mile round trip.

Everybody's Business

Practically out of a clear sky, a twenty-five billion dollar decline has taken place in the last two months in the value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange. This loss is equal to more than one-third the income of the people of the United States for 1937, as estimated by federal authorities.

Relatively, the present decline is greater than that of the autumn of 1929. The consequences of the 1929 panic are well known. Unemployment quickly spread until it became the nation's greatest problem. Major political changes occurred. Industry came to a standstill, trade in even the necessities of life almost reached the level of stagnation, and finally all banks were closed.

The present serious reversal in the welfare of so many American families is clearly a matter of broad public concern, and not a minor misfortune to a few wealthy people. More than ten million families own the securities which have suffered this drastic shrinkage.

In addition, savings banks, life and fire insurance companies, commercial banks, and other institutions hold many billions of dollars of listed securities. It is clear that the securities market is everybody's business.

In a searching analysis of the present market break, Mr. Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National Bank, attributes the drastic decline in security prices largely to the impaired efficiency of the stock market mechanism operating under new, broad regulations and restrictions. He contends that uneconomic taxes and government regulations prevent corporation officials from providing the necessary sponsorship that would contribute to a more orderly market, allay fears and safeguard the interest of stockholders. He asks whether a line of policy which "impairs a major attribute of investment securities" is really carrying out the purpose of Congress to protect the investor.

No one has forgotten the consequences of the 1929 crash: Widespread unemployment, suspension of industrial activity, closing of banks, and general distress.

With those consequences fresh in their minds, editorial commentators are joining Mr. Aldrich in advocating a review of such measures as the capital gains tax, undistributed profits tax, and restrictions on security purchases and sales by corporation officials. We urge government officials, business executives, labor leaders and laymen to call for a re-examination of the reasons which created these restrictions.

When markets cannot absorb moderate selling, and the collapse in values undermines the nation's business structure, it then becomes everybody's business.

GRAINS FINISH LOWER DESPITE BELATED RALLY

Day's Price Fluctuations Extremely Erratic.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .97½	$ .99⅛	$1.14½
Corn	.59¼	.60	.93½
Oats	.30⅝	.30⅝	.40¼
Rye	.71⅞	.73¾	.82
Soy beans	.97½	.98¾	1.21¼

Fluctuations in the grain market yesterday were extremely erratic and prices were lower. There was fairly general selling early in sympathy with the drastic decline in securities. However, good support appeared after wheat had receded about 3 cents and corn futures about 1½ cents, and a rally from the low figures followed.

Closing trades on wheat were at net losses of 1⅝ to 2¼ cents. Rye declined as much as 2⅛ cents and soy beans were ¼ to 1¾ cents lower.

Brokers who frequently act for cash houses and exporters were aggressive buyers of all grain futures on the decline early yesterday.

Crop Prospects Improve.

Part of the weakness in wheat futures yesterday was attributed to additional highly beneficial rains over parts of the western and southwestern winter wheat belt, and better crop reports from Argentina and Australia.

While the rains are expected to result in the winter wheat crop securing a good start, they likewise tend to hamper completion of harvesting operations of corn and soy beans.

Lard futures declined as much as 50 cents per 100 pounds, the permissible limit, early yesterday in sympathy with other markets, but recovered part of the lost ground later. Deliveries of cash lard on October contracts on the Chicago Board of Trade aggregated 1,400,000 pounds. Clear bellies for future delivery closed 50 cents lower, the permissible limit.

TRADING RESTRICTED.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Directors of the Buenos Aires wheat market today imposed restrictions on dealings in October and November wheat. The action was taken because of speculation which arose when many brokers were caught with commitments while old wheat supplies were at low level and the new crop had not come to market.

Under the new ruling operators may not present, buy, or sell orders in October and November wheat except to cancel previously registered orders. As a result of the regulations October wheat was not quoted and November wheat dropped to $1.33 a bushel, a decline of 19.8 cents from the previous day's close.

COTTON RALLIES FROM EARLY SAG; CLOSE IS HIGHER

While the break in securities had a sentimental effect on the cotton market early yesterday and led to considerable commission house liquidation, closing trades were on a strong rally from the lowest prices. Net gains on the Chicago Board of Trade were .05 to .09 cent. Other American markets were unchanged to .11 cent a pound higher.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .05 cent higher, with New Orleans, 8.40 cents; New York, 8.50 cents, and Galveston and Houston, 8.15 cents a pound. Prices follow:

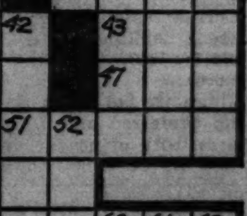
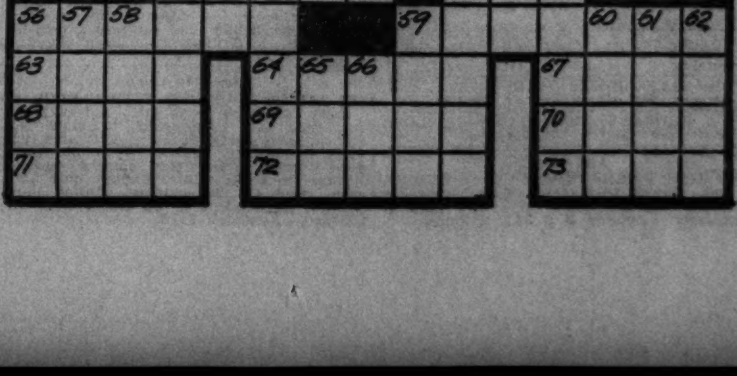
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED.





BONDS TUMBLE SHARPLY; LATE RALLY FEEBLE

Government List Hard Hit by Steady Selling.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Bonds tumbled to new low levels on the New York Stock exchange today in the heaviest trading in more than seven months. Transactions in all bonds reached $20,770,900, the largest since last March 17.

All groups participated in the decline. United States government obligations, which until today had maintained a firm front in the face of the break in other groups, beat a hasty retreat and suffered the sharpest reaction in many months. Secondary corporate loans continued the heaviest losers, although higher grade corporates and foreign dollar issues yielded ground readily under persistent selling pressure.

Federals Hard Hit.

The sudden break in governments, which forced prices down nearly a point at times during the day, was interpreted as indicating substantial liquidation by large investors to protect their position in stocks and to the discouraging resumé of the federal deficit as officially disclosed this morning.

Turnover in federal bonds reached $2,850,900, the heaviest since Sept. 14. Prices closed with net losses ranging from 5-32 to 26-32 of a point. Many of the issues rallied moderately from their lows for the day.

Although there were numerous issues which rallied slightly at the close, the main body of corporate bonds lacked the recovery ability displayed by important sections of the stock market and closed at or near the lows for the day.

Secondary Rails Slump.

Second grade rail issues yielded 1 to 21 points, with Missouri-Kansas-Texas adjustment 5s suffering the widest decline.

Foreign dollar bonds broke 1 to 8 points in active trading. Pressure was centered among the defaulted South American issues although sharp losses were recorded in many European and far eastern loans. Italian and Japanese issues yielded 1 to 2 points, while French and German loans held fairly steady.

UTILITY ASKS O. K. TO ABANDON NEW FINANCING

The Appalachian Electric Power company yesterday applied to the Securities and Exchange commission for permission to withdraw its registration statement covering a proposed offering of $57,000,000 of first mortgage bonds and $10,000,000 of sinking fund debentures. The action was taken because of disturbed market conditions.

Wayne Pump company filed an amendment with the SEC delaying the offering of its additional shares of capital stock until Dec. 21. Directors have not fixed the exact date of the offering or the price at which the shares will be offered to stockholders.

Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information about Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit stocks.—W. A. S.

Answer: The Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit corporation is a holding company whose subsidiaries operate subway, elevated, street car, and bus services in the boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn, and Queens, New York City.

The proposed takeover of Brooklyn-Manhattan and other privately owned transit lines in New York by the city was rejected by the New York Transit commission last May on grounds that the price was too high. No new plan has been put forward.

Increased taxes, wages, and operating costs have kept earnings on the downward grade despite a checking in decline of gross revenue and bond refunding in 1936 which cut interest charges $1,000,000 a year.

To grant current wage boost demands would increase costs $4,000,000 annually and so deplete cash that the company could not meet serial bond maturities and would be forced into receivership, the chairman told a mediation board on Oct. 5. The board was named last month to avert a strike.

In the two months ended Aug. 31, 1937, gross revenue was $8,080,000 and net income was $38,000 or 15 cents per preferred share and a loss of 29 cents a common share, compared with gross of $8,403,000 and net of $674,000 or 58 cents per common share in the corresponding 1936 period. Results in recent fiscal years ended June 30:

	Revenues.	*Net income.	*Inc per com. shr.
1937	$51,987,000	$4,508,000	$4.09
1936	52,465,000	5,608,000	5.50
1935	51,555,000	5,707,000	5.72
1934	52,755,000	6,941,000	7.40
1933	53,636,000	7,042,000	7.54
1932	57,763,000	7,003,000	7.45
1931	58,791,000	7,729,000	8.09

*Accounting method changed in 1937 amortization of cost of properties reverting to city being charted against income rather than surplus. On same basis, net was $4,997,000 or $4.76 a common share in 1936 year.

Current assets were $8,157,000 and current liabilities were $7,337,000 on June 30, 1937. Funded debt is $164,878,000.

There are 249,468 shares of $6 dividend preferred and 735,664 common shares, both of no par value.

Because of decreased earnings no common dividend was paid Oct. 15. Fifty cents was paid July 15, $1 each in the preceding three quarters, and 75 cents in the preceding eight quarters.

Preferred dividends have been declared through April 15 1938, but the stock should be regarded as somewhat speculative at present. The common now is speculative.

MAYOR'S TRANSIT PLAN INCLUDES SUBWAYS AND ELEVATED HIGHWAYS—The plan offered yesterday proposes 4.43 miles of subways to carry north and south elevated trains and east and west street car lines through the central business district. Two of the three main west side elevated lines would be converted into superhighways for buses and private cars. Express bus routes would provide service for sections now without rapid transit. The plan calls for expenditure of 157 million dollars over a nine year period, 58 million to be invested by the public, and 99 million by the company. The plan was placed before the city council's local transportation committee yesterday. (Story on page 1.)

HOW ELEVATED HIGHWAYS WOULD BE CO-ORDINATED ON WEST SIDE—Aerial perspective of proposed superhighways in vicinity of Union park as outlined in Mayor Kelly's plan. No. 1—Present Lake street elevated structure becomes an elevated highway; No. 2—Randolph street elevated highway, with connections with other superhighways; No. 3—Present transfer elevated becomes elevated highway. (Story on page 1.)

A SUPERHIGHWAY BUS STATION AS PROPOSED IN TRANSIT PLAN—New express bus lines are a feature of Mayor Kelly's plan. The elevated roadway would broaden at bus stops to permit buses to pull off the four lane road to load and unload passengers. Speedy service would be assured to districts now lacking adequate transportation.
